WORLD PARLEY IN DEADLOCK

SCIENCE VIEWS THE FAIR WITH AUTHOR'S PRIDE

Progress Is Keynote as Savants Meet.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

America may take the lead over Europe in scientific discoveries, opening the way to wider horizons and continents of knowledge undreamed of, Dr. Niels Bohr, world famous Danish physicist, said last night at the formal reception to members of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and foreign scientists. The reception was held in the open court of the Hall of Science at A Century of Progress Exposition.

The evidences of the electrical age were all about these thousands of scientists as they sat under the purple tower in front of a glowing orange stage which dimmed the stars. Arcturus performed for their benefit, sending a soft little ray which touched the court into glory. In the halls were the carefully prepared exhibits which the visitors found adequate to demonstrate the century of progress in science.

More Advances to Come.

But this is only a beginning. That was the note of this gathering, both at the Exposition and in the various sectional sessions which were held in the city during the day as the 92d meeting of the association began. The most interesting session centered on the latent power of the atom, the breaking down of the nucleus of the building blocks of the universe and the hope of unlocking energy for the use of mankind. Definite progress was reported in this search from Massachusetts and California.

Dr. Bohr, whose conception of the atomic movement has been accepted by scientists for years and who is one of the foremost authorities on the structure of matter and the nature of radiation, said:

"From the few meetings that we have had and our glimpses of the Fair, we know now that our expectations will be surpassed. This exhibition bears the name of A Century of Progress with greatest right. It was not more than a century ago when pioneers were fighting Indians along these shores.

Praises America's Work.

"What has your country seen since? You have taken hold and conquered nature and overcome distance. Very early in your settlement you had Franklin. You have done quite your share in the developments on which the electrical age is based."

He mentioned new achievements in the field of physics, spoke of the work of Dr. Arthur H. Compton of the University of Chicago, who sat on the platform, and Dr. Robert A. Millikan of Pasadena, Cal. Both these men as well as Dr. Bohr, are Nobel prize winners.

"Scientific achievement has swept over your country," Dr. Bohr went on. "Today scientific activity is active on both shores. We see achievements which make it very questionable indeed if your country will not take the lead over the old world. But the essence of science is not competition, but coöperation. We have different intellectual approaches, that is all. Science must go on. No one has any idea what the end will be. The view is always wider and wider."

Views Work in California.

Dr. Bohr has just been in California watching the work there in nuclear disintegration, which seems to hold the next possibility of great advance in power for man.

The program at the Fair was in charge of Prof. Henry Crew of Northwestern university, chief of the basic science department of the Exposition. Rufus C. Dawes, president of A Century of Progress, welcomed the scientists. He told of the great coöperation they had given in building the Exposition and how their most daring suggestions could not be carried out for lack of finances. The whole Exposition, he said, was a demonstration of the close relation of science and industry, and he hoped they would find it good.

Dr. Compton welcomed the scientists on behalf of the local committee of the association. Science was born in the western world, he said, about the time that Marco Polo was finding that the Chinese had discovered the use of coal. He recalled that it was only a century ago that Faraday discovered electromagnetic induction which made possible the lights and other wonders of this Exposition.

Rise of the Atomic Theory.

"It was only 40 years ago," Dr. Compton said, "that our present atomic theory developed. The atom had been conceived of as a hard,

BREWER, FREED BY KIDNAP GANG, HAS FEW CLEWS

Says He Saw Little of Abductors.

St. Paul, Minn., June 19.—(AP)—William Hamm Jr., 39, millionaire president of the Theodore Hamm Brewing company, was released by kidnapers early today and immediately assured authorities he would aid in the search for his five or six abductors who received an unannounced amount of ransom.

Hamm, unharmed while he was held prisoner almost four days, assured M. F. Kinkead, Ramsey county attorney, of his help in prosecuting the abductors. At the same time St. Paul business men offered a reward of $30,000 for apprehension of Hamm's captors. This was expected to be increased to $50,000 later.

Kinkead declared "every law enforcement body, including the police department and my office, will go to the limit to clear up this outrage.

"This man hunt will never let up until all those responsible are brought to justice. Every law enforcing agency in the state, city, state and federal has joined in the hunt for the criminals who took Mr. Hamm and robbed St. Paul of its safety."

One Resembled Alleged Kidnaper.

Although he was held prisoner in a house located, Hamm believes, in northern Minnesota, he saw his captors but dimly. The brewery company president said one of the kidnapers resembled Varne Sankey.

Sankey is under indictment for the Charles Boettcher II. kidnaping in Denver and the abduction here of Haskell Bohn, son of a refrigerator manufacturer, about a year ago.

Hamm's release was effected after he had signed four ransom notes, of which only three were used. The abductors contacted Negotiators H. C. Charles, Hamm Brewing company attorney, and W. W. Dunn, city sales manager and close friend of Hamm, several times by telephone after he was seized near the brewery shortly after noon last Thursday.

Released 45 Miles Away.

Subsequently Hamm was freed at Wyoming, Minn., about 45 miles from here, the kidnapers disappearing after saying, "If there is anything we can do to help you, Mr. Hamm, just let us know." He telephoned his home from a farmhouse and authorities came out and brought him home.

Hamm said he was accosted by two men about a block from the brewery company office and at the foot of a high hill on which his home rests.

An automobile, which he did not particularly notice, drew up and Hamm was forced to lie on the floor of the car after a white hood had been placed over his head. Later the hood was removed and goggles lined with cotton were placed over his eyes. Then he was permitted to sit beside the men.

Second Car Is Met.

The ride out of St. Paul was interrupted by contact with another car in which at least one man sat, Hamm said. He was forced to sign four ransom notes while on the automobile floor.

He was taken to a house in northern Minnesota and placed in a second floor room, windows of which were boarded up.

"I never saw the men because when I didn't have the goggles or hood on they made me turn my face towards the wall when they came into the room. They were very nice to me. I asked for anything I wanted and ordered anything I wanted. The meals were good, simple meals, nothing elaborate.

"The house might have been a farm house on the outskirts of the city. I heard traffic noises. Anytime I wanted anything I called them. I couldn't say how old they were for I just got fleeting glimpses and I couldn't recognize the country we had passed through in getting there.

"There was a light on in the room and the men kept me informed as to the progress of the negotiations."

Open Negotiations by Phone.

The negotiations began with a telephone call to Dunn, Mr. Hamm's close friend and employé. Then, at 2 a. m. Friday, the first note was received by Dunn. It said: "You better pay the money and do as you are told. You will get further instructions later on."

"The next one," said Charles, the attorney, "was received Friday night. That was found in a drug store. It

Head Winds Cut Day's Sail for Roosevelt

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Aboard Motor Ketch Mary Alice, Nantucket, Mass., June 19.—[Special.]—This quaint little town used to be a whaling port, then it became a summer resort, and this afternoon it enjoyed a new industry which had for its center the Amberjack II., with President Roosevelt sitting in her cockpit.

Round and round sailed launches and rowboats filled with natives and resorters. The quiet cruise on which the President started yesterday morning was swamped by the waves of the circling craft.

Awaits More Favorable Winds.

The President is to stay in harbor here until tomorrow morning, when he plans to head for Provincetown—weather permitting. It was to have been Provincetown today, but a strong northwest wind was discouraging, if not threatening of worse to come. Even Capt. Irving Hall of the Mary Alice was willing to admit that the waves of Nantucket sound were rough.

"The President showed he was a sailor today," remarked Capt. Hall. "A yachtsman wouldn't have been out at all."

So after running to the eastward with a strong wind driving down on the port quarter the President tacked ship at Handerchief shoals lightship, stood to the westward for a short distance, then ran for Nantucket, arriving in harbor shortly before noon.

Tastes Salt Spray.

He and his crew were in yellow oilskins, for they had tasted plenty of salt water in their open cockpit. But the President was smiling as usual, enjoying himself and concerned only about the newspaper men aboard this 46 footer and on the motor cruiser Comanche.

As the two vessels, coming in to anchorage, passed the Amberjack, the President hailed and shouted across,

"How are you? I was worried when I saw how you were pitching and rolling."

"Fine," was the more or less truthful answer that went back. "How are you, Mr. President?". "Fine," was the reply, and the grin that accompanied it was tanned, with no tinges of green about the ears.

Makes Early Start.

This morning's start from Edgartown harbor was made promptly at 6 o'clock in order to obtain the advantage of a favorable tide. The run out of the harbor was made with the auxiliary motor until opposite Cape Poge when the Amberjack ran up foresail and two jibs which she carried throughout the trip of slightly under forty miles.

The President took his place at the wheel breakfastless, for the schooner's gasoline stove had a touch of early morning balkiness and couldn't be started in time to do more than warm up a pot of coffee.

From Cape Poge the course ran eastward. The lightship at Cross Rip was ready to pass the procession by, with its crew in their best blue uniforms, and its ensign dipping in salute.

The weather signs tonight were for better sailing tomorrow with a possible shift of wind that will make possible the trip around Cape Cod to Provincetown.

STREET CAR RUNS OVER MR. M'LEAN; DEAD? HE IS NOT

Witnesses gasped with horror last night when they saw a 63d street car strike and run over Harold McLean, 25 years old, of 6349 Ellis avenue, as he attempted to cross the street at University avenue.

Motorman Louis Ewith smashed on the brakes and the car came to a stop 15 feet further, dragging McLean with it. He was pinned under the trucks. After several minutes of frantic effort he was extricated and hurried to the Woodlawn hospital in the automobile of Leslie Johnson, 6117 Dorchester avenue.

McLean appeared to be dead. An interne prepared to make a superficial examination. Suddenly McLean opened his eyes, straightened up, and announced he was all right. He was. He returned home under his own power, suffering only a few minor bruises and cuts.

Bodenhamer, of the Legion, Dies of Burns

Shreveport, La., June 19.—(AP)—O. L. Bodenhamer of El Dorado, Ark., former national commander of the American Legion, died in a Shreveport hospital at 7:20 o'clock tonight of burns suffered in a gas explosion in the east Texas oil field near Henderson today.

The explosion was set off when Mr. Bodenhamer struck a match to light a cigaret in the oil field. He was about 150 yards from the nearest well.

R. C. Cook, a lease tender, who was with Mr. Bodenhamer at the time of the accident, suffered burns on his hands and face and was treated at a Henderson, Tex., hospital.

Were Preparing to Open Well.

They were preparing to open the wells after a three day shutdown.

Mr. Bodenhamer's clothing was burned from his body. Dr. Thomas J. Bush, his family physician, hurried to the Texas city immediately after the accident and had the patient removed to Shreveport. The last emergency treatment consisted of placing Bodenhamer in the "heat bath" and giving him intravenous injections.

Commander in 1929.

El Dorado, Ark., June 19.—(AP)—Although known especially for his activities in the American Legion, O. L. Bodenhamer had been prominent in business, civic, and patriotitc affairs of Arkansas since he came here two years after his discharge from the army in 1919.

Starting his career with the Legion as post commander here, he was elected commander of the Arkansas department the same year. Then, at the Legion convention in Louisville, in 1929, he was elected national commander.

Maj. Bodenhamer sought public office only once. This was last year when he made the race for a United States senate seat in the Democratic primary. He polled more than 60,000 votes and finished second to Mrs. Hattie W. Caraway, who succeeded her husband, the late Senator T. H. Caraway.

Born at Goldthwaite, Tex., he attended two Texas colleges—Howard Payne and Baylor. After graduation from Baylor he became a professor of English at San Marcos college in Texas and also acted as athletic coach there a short time.

Repeal Test Today in Iowa, 2 Other States

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Clinton, Ia., June 19.—[Special.]—Iowa now has the nation's eye, as one of three states which will vote tomorrow on repeal of national prohibition. The other two are Connecticut and New Hampshire, and Iowa ranks them in interest as a midwest agricultural state which was one of the old stamping grounds of the drys.

The verdict in Iowa, repealists figure, will follow the lead of Michigan, Indiana, and Illinois, where rural counties which once were bone dry areas have recently voted to get rid of the 18th amendment.

Connecticut is regarded as certain to go for repeal—it was one of the two states which never ratified the 18th amendment. New Hampshire is rated as more than hopeful for repeal; it passed a beer bill.

Say "We'll Be First."

Professional drys in Iowa today were loudly claiming victory, as they did in Indiana two weeks ago, the day before the voters went against prohibition. In eleventh hour addresses they were filling the state with shouts that Iowa will be the first stumbling block in the procession of states for repeal, eleven states in unbroken sequence having voted to wipe out the 18th amendment.

The cry of the drys was that if Iowa votes dry, national prohibition will never be repealed.

Repealists were hammering away with warnings that repeal is an important part of President Roosevelt's national recovery act, that it means reduction in taxes and of the overload on taxpayers. They pointed out in final speeches that repeal will mean riddance of bootleggers, moonshiners and the gentry which have reaped profits from liquor that has put organized crime on a high financial basis. They warned that, inasmuch as the legislature holds a session next fall, if Iowa should vote dry, it would mean repeal of the beer law and would take from Iowans legal malt beverages.

Count on 3 to 2 Victory.

Gov. Clyde Herring and others of prominence in politics hold that repeal will win by a margin perhaps as high as that in Indiana, where the popular vote ran somewhat under two to one. The general estimate among seasoned political leaders is that the vote will run about three to two for repeal, that the vote will range near the 400,000 mark or about 40 per cent of the presidential poll last fall, and that repeal may go over by perhaps 75,000.

VOTE DRY OR STAY HOME

Des Moines, Ia., June 19.—(AP)—Dr. J. W. Graves, secretary of the All-Iowa Prohibition Emergency committee and leader of the dry forces, tonight asked voters to remain at home tomorrow unless they vote against repeal. Previously the campaign theme of both camps had been to draw out every eligible voter.

Reversing the stand of prohibitionists, Dr. Graves said:

"We have met hundreds of people who, while not satisfied with present conditions, will not take the responsibility to vote for what is a blind leap. For this reason we respect the person who, lacking knowledge of what is beyond blind repeal, decides to wash his or her hands of the responsibility of voting for repeal.

"All prohibitionists, though, vote from conviction, and we urge them to be present in this momentous election."

FRENCH INSIST U. S. MUST FIX DOLLAR'S VALUE

Urge Adjournment for a Month.

LONDON, June 19.—(AP)—With plans for currency stabilization at a standstill, unofficial advocacy of adjournment of the world economic conference until this question should be settled was advanced today by representatives of European gold standard countries.

The French delegation, leader of the gold bloc, insisted that virtually nothing could be accomplished by the conclave until uncertainty over currency values was ended.

A month to six weeks was mentioned as the probable length of the suggested adjournment.

Claim Next Move Is Up to U. S.

France and her "gold allies" took the position that the next decision with regard to efforts for fixing the dollar and the pound at a given value was up to Washington and that it was useless to attempt to continue the London deliberations until President Roosevelt has issued his final instructions upon stabilization to the American group here.

While persistent adjournment talk went on in the conference lobbies, the two principal commissions of the conference toiled in a labyrinth of opposing viewpoints on a multitude of problems.

Outstanding developments of the day as the conference began its second week included:

1. Assertion by the French that only through government agreements for the control of production and markets of raw materials is it possible to strike at the roots of the depression, and that until such action is taken it is impossible to consider reductions in tariffs and other import restrictions as have been urged by Cordell Hull, American secretary of state.

Proposes New Money Basis.

2. Presentation by Senator Pittman of Nevada as a subject for discussion of his proposal to provide a new monetary basis for currencies with the optional use of silver as currency reserve up to one-fifth of the total reserve and reduction of the coverage to 25 per cent instead of 40 per cent.

3. A statement by Senator Couzens of Michigan, the only Republican on the American delegation, that nationalism seemed to overshadow internationalism at the conference and that American internal policy militated against any international agreements at this time.

4. Acknowledgment by American delegation quarters that currency stabilization discussions are dead pending receipt of further instructions from home, which are not expected for several days.

Continue War Debt Drive.

5. Continuation of the drive for settlement of the war debts by the British delegation in the conference lobbies.

6. Announcement that 50 nations have now adhered to the tariff truce for the duration of the conference, including all European states except Jugo-Slavia, and representing 85 per cent of world trade.

7. A plain hint from the French minister for colonies, Albert Sarraut, that France might be forced to withdraw into an isolated economic unit of homeland and colonies if her ideas failed.

8. Expressions by several delegates, including British, that tariff and import quota reductions probably must be effected by selected groups of nations with common interest rather than upon a broad world basis.

Deny Rift in U. S. Delegation.

Delegates of several countries complained in the conference lobbies of confusion over the American stand both on stabilization and on tariffs, and the British press made much of the American delegation's disclaimer of a series of suggestions as topics for discussion, including a suggestion for a general 10 per cent tariff reduction. These suggestions had been drawn up by the American experts and had been submitted to the economic commission.

American spokesmen insisted that the incident did not represent a rift in the American delegation, and that the suggestions were not presented with any intention of giving the impression that the Americans intended to push these ideas for adoption.

It was explained that the experts had merely drawn up topics for discussion, but some American delegation quarters asserted that they had been "overzealous."

Harrison Leaves for U. S.

The quiet slipping away of George L. Harrison, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, early today for New York also occasioned comment, including rumors that the central banks had reached a secret agreement for stabilization. But this was denied in important American delegation quarters, and the dollar weakened sharply in exchange dealings, falling well under the levels recently suggested for the start of stabilization.

Senator Pittman's silver proposals were met chiefly with silence when they were read in the monetary commission's sub-committee on a permanent monetary standard.

Dr. L. J. A. Trip, head of the bank of the Netherlands, recalled that the gold delegation of the league of nations had found that gold constituted the only possible monetary system. Silver, he said, might play a part in fighting hoarding if variability of value could be overcome.

The committee plans to discuss the silver suggestions tomorrow.

Five Point Program.

Senator Pittman's silver proposals contained five points, as follows:

1. A suggestion that gold be used only for the settlement of international balances and for bank reserves, and that it be withdrawn from circulation.

2. A proposal that monetary cover for currency issues be reduced from 40 per cent, as in the United States, to a lower figure, with 25 per cent suggested.

3. A provision that banks would have the option of keeping one-fifth of this monetary reserve in silver.

4. That governments would cease debasement of silver coinage and would restore its fineness.

5. That countries with large supplies of silver would regulate sales, avoiding dumping upon the markets.

The issue of nationalism versus internationalism was brought up by Senator Couzens in an interview in which the delegate from Michigan said that the United States must make a decision as to which course it will follow.

"Being a novice in international politics," Mr. Couzens said, "I have been acting the part of a human sponge for the last five or six days and from what I have absorbed it seems to indicate that the nations have not suffered enough to be willing to meet in complete humility.

"I believe that before we reach an agreement upon anything in the agenda we will have to have more humility—that is, to be more humble.

Finds Nations Rather Cocky.

"My observations indicate that most nations are still rather cocky about their nationalism and feel confident that they can paddle their own canoes, whether anything comes out of the conference or not.

"I think that is an unfortunate attitude. So far as America is concerned, between the time of the calling of the conference and the present a nationalistic economic program has been developed which seems to indicate that internationalism will conflict quite severely with our national economic program.

"If my analysis is correct, we cannot carry through both programs. Sooner or later in the conference we shall have to decide which program we are going to follow."

INDIAN LEADER HITS BRITAIN'S SILVER PAYMENT

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

CALCUTTA, June 19.—Britain's payment of $10,000,000 on the June 15 installment of the war debt to the United States was responsible for a bitter outburst today by Nalini Ranjan Sarkar, president of the Federation of Indian Chambers of Commerce. He accused Great Britain of having made on the transaction a profit of £500,000 [$2,073,750] at current rate of exchange. Britain paid the installment in silver at 50 cents per ounce after having bought it in India at a price reported to have been around 36 cents per ounce.

For the sake of international decency, Sarkar said, he hopes the figures are incorrect. Otherwise, he declared, the matter "is the shadiest international financial transaction in recent years." In a statement demanding fuller details of the transaction, he said:

"From all indications, it seems Great Britain first knew the price at which the United States would accept silver and then fixed her purchase price from India. It is no excuse for the people who negotiated the deal to say they sold at the market rate. They should have known that the American purpose in accepting payment in silver was to raise its price."

ROOSEVELT DEAF TO FRENCH PLEA FOR MONEY PACT

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 19.—[Special.]—Although France is exerting strong pressure to inveigle the United States into a temporary agreement on monetary stabilization, President Roosevelt has decided definitely against such an agreement.

The President, holding that his whole scheme for American prosperity might be halted by a surrender to France, has instructed his delegation at the London economic conference to strive for shoving the monetary issue into the background.

Reports have also come to the administration that once France was given its much sought stabilization pact, its delegates would consider the London conference a complete success from the French point of view and enter half heartedly or opposedly into the other matters which are deemed of importance by the United States.

Would Injure Prices.

As the principal Roosevelt advisers see it today, there is no way to determine when a stabilization agreement may be entered into by the United States with safety. It is held certain that stabilization at the present time would result in lowering prices, causing the country to lose the ground toward recovery which has been gained.

The President has decided that he will stand for American recovery ahead of helping Europe out with stabilization. His advisers, keeping in constant touch with London, declared here today that the only way to say when recovery has arrived, paving the way for stabilization, would be when Americans have jobs, when industry has risen above the dangers of bankruptcy, when commerce is fairly free and credit easy.

In the light of this stand several of the President's advisers recently have taken the position that America has little to gain from the London conference and little to fear from its breakdown.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull, chief of the delegation at London, does not share this view, it is known, and he has proceeded aggressively toward negotiating some sort of tariff agreement at London. It was reported here today that Mr. Hull favored an agreement on stabilization at this time, in promoting amity in the conference and clearing the ground for consideration of tariffs.

Moley Goes to London.

But another type of American representative left Washington tonight, bound for London, who is expected to clear the ground somewhat and bring home to Mr. Hull and other members of the delegation that the United States is protecting its own domestic program first.

This is Prof. Raymond Moley, assistant secretary of state, who shares much more closely than does Mr. Hull the confidences of the President. Mr. Moley today made it plain that he is not going as a delegate to the conference, but it is known that he will carry to Mr. Hull the full views of President Roosevelt with respect to stabilization and other matters, including a possibility that even tariff agreements may not be safely entered into at this time.

Mr. Moley will not even stay at Claridge's, the hotel housing the American delegation, but will put up at the American embassy, with Ambassador Robert W. Bingham.

Two Advisory Groups.

It has become more clearly apparent that two schools of international politics have grown up within the Roosevelt advisory group, with Mr. Hull advocating world measures of recovery, believing these essential to any lasting relief, and with Mr. Moley leading an opposing group holding that the world recovery ought to await the setting of America's own house in order.

Another development today was the announcement at the state department that Bernard M. Baruch, New York capitalist and international economic expert, will, during the absence of the President and Prof. Moley, be kept in close touch with all developments at London.

Mr. Baruch, it has been learned, is definitely committed to the purposes of having stabilization of money await stabilization of prosperity in the United States.

The sweeping advances on the stock market today was viewed in Washington as evidence of the faithful reasoning behind the President's view that stabilization will depress prices.

World Waits on Prof. Moley; Holds Fate of Conference

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 19.—The world is waiting for Assistant Secretary of State Moley.

Until Prof. Moley, who is the head of the Roosevelt "brain trust," reaches London, the international monetary and economic conference, composed of 169 delegates from 66 nations, is going to mark time. It cannot turn a wheel until Prof. Moley arrives, and perhaps not even then, but just now Moley is its only hope of getting anywhere at all.

Moley Becomes Famous.

Prof. Moley has become an international personage overnight. His name has become a household word in forty-seven languages represented in the greatest congress of nations in history. Ambassadors of Europe's few remaining crowned heads, no less than delegates from remote Cathay, breathlessly await the advent of the professor, who, they have been given to understand, supplies the brains for the United States government and mayhap will do likewise for the world conference.

This is the story of the apotheosis of Moley:

Plenipotentiaries of all the nations of the world came to London to devise ways and means of economic rehabilitation. Among them was the American delegation, headed by Secretary of State Cordell Hull. For leadership the delegations of sixty-three nations looked to the big three—America, Great Britain, and France.

Roosevelt Upsets Program.

The big three delegations sat down together to devise the leadership of the conference. All three agreed that the first step should be provisional stabilization of the dollar and pound during the life of the conference, otherwise the conclave would get nowhere. They proposed a plan of such stabilization, which involved a suspension of President Roosevelt's inflation program.

President Roosevelt kicked it over and cabled the American delegation to do nothing until Prof. Moley arrived. Moley, he said, would sail for England next Wednesday and would be able to tell the American and all other delegations what the President would do and would not do with respect to the stabilization of currencies. So the stabilization negotiations have been suspended until Prof. Moley gets here.

On the tariff and other economic questions the big three was likewise looked to for leadership, particularly the United States, whose President had enunciated an ambitious program for scaling down the tariff walls of the world and had sent Secretary Hull, a low tariff specialist, to expound the doctrine.

Britain and France submitted concrete proposals of action on the tariff. But no sooner had Mr. Hull transmitted a proposal for a general 10 per cent horizontal tariff cut than it was repudiated by other members of the American delegation and finally by Mr. Hull himself. He explained that it was not a formal proposal, but only a tentative suggestion drawn up by American experts for informal discussion.

Disapproved by President.

It could not be a formal proposal by the American delegation, it appeared, because it is expressly disapproved by President Roosevelt.

The American delegates confessed themselves powerless to take any sort of leadership with respect to tariffs because of the failure of President Roosevelt to obtain plenary authority from congress to agree to a reduction of customs duties. In any event the American delegation would be unable to do anything definite until Dr. Moley should arrive and disclose the pleasure of the President.

Reaching London near the end of June, Moley will take charge and give the world a glimpse of the brain trust in operation.

Parley Held Up.

"What eez dees brain troost?" was the question fired at Americans by scores of foreign delegates in conference lobbies today following receipt of the intelligence that Prof. Moley had started for London like Gen. Sheridan for Winchester.

Until Prof. Moley arrives the American delegation will not know what it can do. Until the American delegation can do something, the big three can do nothing, and until the big three acts, the conference will be at a standstill.

In the meantime the conference will kill time by talking while the delegates congregate in the bar to discuss "dees Moley brain troost."

MYSTERY OF KING'S HUNT FOR HULL AT PARTY IS EXPLAINED

LONDON, June 19.—(AP)—The disappearance of Cordell Hull, American secretary of state, from the Windsor castle grounds Saturday afternoon just when King George wanted to see him and talk to him was explained today.

Mr. Hull, like others of the delegation, went in a morning coat and other formal togs to the royal garden party. After meeting the king and queen and looking around at the royal gardens he asked and obtained official permission of his majesty to be on his way for an automobile drive through the celebrated English countryside.

Later the king decided he would like to talk with Mr. Hull and sent his servants to look for the American diplomat. They could not find him, however, and there was some perplexity about where the secretary of state had gone.

Such an indication of royal desire, however, is equivalent to a command, and Secretary Hull is having an audience with the king tomorrow morning at Buckingham palace.

18,000 Military Engineers Blessed by Pope in Vatican

VATICAN CITY, June 19.—(AP)—Pope Pius today addressed 18,000 members of the Military Engineers' association, one of the largest groups ever received within the vatican. The pontiff thanked the engineers for coming to see him and blessed them. The group presented him with a gold medal. Earlier members of the association, which is holding a convention in Rome, gathered in Venezia square and gave Premier Mussolini an ovation when he appeared and saluted.

REVEAL FRENCH ATTEMPT TO PUT U. S. IN BAD SPOT

Parisians Pervert News of Pittman Silver Plan.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 19.—The American delegation to the economic conference was treated tonight to an object lesson in the European art of using the press as a diplomatic weapon—preferably from behind.

American correspondents covering the French delegation were told by Georges Bonnet, French finance minister, that the United States had introduced a resolution before the second subcommittee of the monetary committee of the conference proposing an early stabilization of exchanges and the return of the whole world to the gold standard.

Says Gold Standard Approved.

Following receipt of the American communication, Bonnet told the nightly conference for the foreign press the subcommittee unanimously approved the gold standard.

This sounded like news because as far as the American correspondents knew, the only activity of the American delegation in the monetary line was a suggestion from Senator Key Pittman for remonetization of silver.

The Pittman plan, however, did not sound like the "United States resolution" in favor of the gold standard as reported by Bonnet. This was more so because Senator Pittman had carefully explained to newspapermen that his communication was merely a simple suggestion intended to furnish the subcommittee with a basis of discussion on silver problems. A checkup, however, revealed that the Pittman suggestion and the resolution announced by Bonnet were one and the same.

Pittman's suggestions, which were entitled in a press communique from the league of nations secretariat a "draft resolution submitted by Senator Pittman of the U. S. A. delegation," were prefaced by the admissions that reëstablishment of an international monetary standard is essential to world recovery, that monetary stability should be attained as quickly as practicable and that gold should be reinstated as the international monetary unit.

Bonnet Tries to "Put One Over."

Bonnet had simply revealed the preface to the resolution and neglected to add that it had anything to say about silver. When asked by an American correspondent for a text of the American proposal, Bonnet said he had seen only one copy. When asked for comment, he said it was unnecessary to say anything about the American proposal except that it is quite reasonable.

American correspondents, naturally, were staggered to learn later that what Bonnet presented as a gold resolution was really a silver resolution. What really happend was this:

When the Pittman resolution—or suggestion—was read to the subcommittee, the French expert, Parmentier, arose and asked if any of the delegations on the committee were opposed to the gold standard. Nobody said anything, so Bonnet was able to tell the press that the subcommittee had unanimously endorsed the gold standard.

France Gets the Good News.

In a private press conference for French correspondents, to which foreigners were not admitted, Bonnet was able to report this "triumph of French policy." French newspaper readers now know that the United States is committed to a policy of stabilization and that the conference has agreed on the necessity of an eventual return to the gold standard, and if the United States goes back on its word later, owing to internal political necessities, it will be just another example of American bad faith.

In order to keep the news of today's triumph from losing any of its edge, Bonnet strongly requested the French newspapermen not to say in their dispatches from here that President Roosevelt had rejected the proposed currency stabilization accord. They were instructed instead to explain that it is still in suspense pending the return of the President from his yachting excursion.

One French reporter at the press conference asked Bonnet if the American "gold standard resolution" didn't say something about silver, too. Bonnet replied that this question was entirely too complicated and technical to be worth putting in the dispatch.

FRANCE DISCIPLINES REPORTER FOR GIVING AMERICAN VIEWPOINT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 19.—A well known French newspaper man, Bertrand de Jouvenel, son of the French ambassador to Italy and financial editor of Republique, a government organ, has been severely reprimanded for having presented the American point of view in a dispatch to his paper last week.

De Jouvenel talked to James P. Warburg, economic adviser to the American delegation to the economic conference, and had the unfortunate idea of explaining to French readers why it is impossible for the United States to enter into any rigid commitments on currency stabilization until internal prices have risen. His dispatch was an intelligent resumé of the American position, which since has been confirmed by President Roosevelt's rejection of the stabilization project.

This story was considered by the French delegation to be contrary to the interests of France, and Republique today was ordered to cease printing De Jouvenel's dispatches, which it is obliged to do.

De Jouvenel, incidentally, had been offered an official subsidy to cover his expenses of covering the London conference, but he refused it.

AUSTRIA ORDERS DISSOLUTION OF HITLER PARTIES

Outlaw Decree Follows Attack on Police.

VIENNA, June 19.—(AP)—A decree outlawing the Nazi party and all affiliated organizations in Austria was issued tonight by the government of Chancellor Dollfuss.

The action was taken after Minister of Security Emil Fey informed the cabinet police had definitely established that Nazi storm troopers were responsible for recent bombings in Vienna and for the serious wounding of 16 Fascist auxiliary police at whom hand grenades were thrown today near the city of Krems.

Nazis Threaten Dollfuss.

The decree drew a retort from a spokesman for the outlawed party that "the Dollfuss government has touched a match to a fuse which leads into a powder barrel."

Minister of Justice Schussnigg, in making public the decision to outlaw the party, said:

"We have warned again and again we do not want blood and we do not want battle; we want peace. And now bombs have exploded in Vienna and other provinces. The police have established beyond a doubt that the Vienna bombers were members of the Nazi party. The government, therefore, has no choice but to act."

Declare Martial Law.

Martial law was declared at Krems after the bombing of the auxiliary police. Hand grenades were thrown at the officers, 56 in number, as they marched toward the city from target practice.

Three of the 16 seriously wounded police may die. Thirty others were slightly injured.

The decree prohibited any Nazi activity, including wearing of the swastika emblem of the party. Violation will be punishable by a fine of 2,000 schillings [about $284] or six months in jail.

Catholic Leader Arrested.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 19.—Eugene Bolz, former Catholic premier of Wuerttemberg, was arrested today at Stuttgart because he expressed the hope that the Austrian Nationalists would hold their ground and not yield to the Hitlerites.

The official Nazi news agency said that the authorities intended to release Bolz after questioning, but that the public was so angered by his statements that the prisoner requested Nazi storm troopers to take him to the fortress of Asperg, near Ludwigsburg, for his own protection.

Steel Helmets Suppressed.

DUESSELDORF, Germany, June 19.—(AP)—The state governor today forbade the Steel Helmet war veterans' organization in the Duesseldorf district on the grounds that they were trying to augment their numbers as a counterbalance to the Nazi storm troops.

Beer Measure Passed by Idaho Legislature

Boise, Idaho, June 19.—(AP)—The Idaho legislature, meeting in special session today, passed a bill legalizing 3.2 per cent beer in this state. Gov. C. Ben Ross, however, said he would temporarily withhold his signature from the measure.

"I will sign the bill," the governor said, "but not until an acceptable revenue raising measure is passed along with it."

The vote for the beer bill in the house was 48 to 14, one absent, and in the senate, 35 to 8, one absent.

WEALTHY WIDOW BECOMES BRIDE OF DETECTIVE

Mrs. Heinz Wedded in New York.

New York, June 19.—[Special.]—Mrs. Kathryn Heinz, widow of Augustus Victor Henry Heinz of Pittsburgh, was married yesterday to Detective Thomas F. R. McGuire of the Fifth avenue jewelry squad, it became known today. The marriage was performed by the Rev. Frank Harl Huffman, pastor of the West Side Presbyterian church of Englewood, N. J. Mr. Heinz was a nephew of the founder of the pickle fortune.

The bride, whose former husband died eight years ago, is 38 years old, 15 years her husband's junior.

One of Famous Sisters.

She was formerly Kathryn Conniff, Birmingham, Ala., and one of five sisters, all of whom are noted for their beauty. A daughter recently was graduated from the University of California. Mrs. Heinz maintained a residence at Lake Geneva, Wis.

Detective McGuire is a veteran of the New York police department, having entered its service 28 years ago, on Feb. 23, 1905. For eleven years he was a member of the mounted division which patrols the bridle paths in Central park. On this assignment he became acquainted with many socially prominent people who, when he later became a member of the jewelry squad, asked that he be detailed to guard gifts at weddings and other functions. He met his bride about four years ago.

Veteran of Two Wars.

Detective McGuire, himself a widower, has a married son and daughter by his former marriage. He served in the Spanish-American war and held a lieutenancy in the intelligence division of the A. E. F. during the world war. At the end of the war he was commissioned a captain in the reserves.

Mr. and Mrs. McGuire will leave tomorrow for a wedding trip to Daytona Beach, Fla. They will be the guests of Mrs. McGuire's sister and her husband, Dr. and Mrs. Edgar W. Daly, of Birmingham.

TROLLEY POLE SNAPS OFF, KILLS BOY PASSENGER

Leon Kowalczyk, 14 years old, 3329 Wall street, lost his life yesterday in an accident said to have no precedent in Chicago.

The boy was a passenger on a northbound Ashland avenue car and was standing on the rear platform. Between 15th place and 15th street, as the car passed under a viaduct, the trolley pole snapped off. In falling, the upper part of the pole turned on the rear edge of the car roof, as on an axis, and crashed onto the platform. Kowalczyk was struck on the head. He was taken to the county hospital, but was pronounced dead on arrival.

Four Youths Seized as Her Paid Assassins.

Mrs. Bessie Opas, 36 years old, 1208 West 51st street, the mother of two children, confessed yesterday to Assistant State's Attorney John Leonard Murphy that she had hired four youths to murder her husband, Marion Opas, owner of the Opas Motor Sales company at 5114 South Racine avenue. She said she had planned to "get rid of her husband" so that she might receive $30,000 in life insurance and other money and property.

The plot went wrong when Opas, made suspicious by repeated requests for demonstrations of automobiles by the hired assassins, collared one of them and turned him over to the police. Mrs. Opas and the youths, who confessed that they had agreed to slay Opas for $5,000, are held at the Stockyards police station.

Four Youths Are Named.

The youths are Dominick Zullo, 19 years old, 3226 Polk street; John De Salvo, 17 years old, 3103 Congress street; Angelo Masso, 21 years old, 518 South Central Park avenue, and Jerry Lehman, 18 years old, 1959 Washourne avenue.

Mrs. Opas, according to the story she told Prosecutor Murphy, determined to have her husband taken for a ride after domestic trouble had sent the couple into court on several occasions.

She told the prosecutor that she got in touch with a man known to her only as "Tom" and broached the subject. "Tom" introduced her to Zullo, who, after some discussion of the price, agreed to kill Opas for $5,000, Mrs. Opas said.

Start Asking Demonstrations.

Zullo then rounded up his three companions, according to Assistant State's Attorney Murphy, and began to frequent the motor sales company and demand demonstrations. These demonstrations, the prosecutor said, were planned in order that Zullo might point out Opas to his companions, and the demands continued as the youths waited for a good opportunity for the slaying.

Opas became suspicious last Saturday and seized Zullo at the salesroom. Despite the youth's protests he was taken to the Stockyards police station, where he confessed the plot after questioning. The other members of the gang were seized and Mrs. Opas was arrested yesterday morning.

After her confession of the slaying plot Assistant State's Attorney Murphy said he would continue to question her in the hope that she would reveal the identity of the man who introduced her to Zullo.

BIND AND ROB REALTY MAN.

Georgia Governor Proclaims Martial Law to Oust Five

Atlanta, Ga., June 19.—(AP)—The Georgia highway department, the capitol and certain other state property were put under martial law today by Governor Eugene Talmadge, and civil suits growing out of his lengthy budget controversy with the highway board were ordered transferred to military courts.

The governor's action, followed by a few hours the action of highway officials in tieing up by injunction more than $2,000,000 of highway funds, which the governor had ordered removed from banks and impounded in the state treasury under military guard.

Finance Officers Included

The state treasurer and the comptroller general, named defendants in today's action, were likewise put under martial law.

Adjutant General Lindley Camp read the governor's order to J. W. Barnett, chairman of the highway department, ordered Barnett out of the highway building and took charge of the premises.

General Camp also ordered four of the five ranking highway engineers whose names were stricken from the department's budget by the governor—which action has been the bone of contention—off the highway department's property.

A detail of 15 National guardsmen took charge of the building, and General Camp said National guardsmen in various sections of the state would be put in charge of highway department property as fact as word could be sent out.

Operation Not Molested.

In an order dispatched to the six divisional engineers over the state, Gen. Camp said, "There is no change in the status of operation of the state highway department, which will continue unmolested until further notice."

He said the fifth highway engineer whose name was stricken out by the governor, H. J. Friedman, division chief at Waycross, would be advised by a National Guard officer there to get out of office.

The highway department's operations were placed under Jud P. Wilhoit of Warrenton, one of the three members of the highway board. Wilhoit has supported the governor in his dispute with the highway board, which began April 1.

Declines to Comment.

The chief executive declined to comment on his order. "It tells the whole story," he said.

The row between the governor and the majority members of the highway board started shortly after the board submitted its budget for the months of April, May, and June. The governor struck off approximately $200,000 from the budget, and also ordered the dismissal of Chief Engineer B. P. McWhorter, and Engineers E. N. Seymour, S. B. Slack, L. B. Ackerman Jr., and H. J. Friedman.

4 GUNMEN RAID ROADHOUSE, KILL PAL OF DRUGGAN

Harry Robinson, 39 years old, once a bailiff of the Municipal court and later a companion of Terry Druggan, a beer baron, was shot and killed yesterday afternoon in his Edgewater café at Twin Lakes, twenty miles southwest of Kenosha, Wis.

Four men, according to witnesses, entered the place with the apparent intention of killing Robinson. They found eight patrons on the first floor of the resort and herded them all to the porch. One man then stood guard over the guests while the others went upstairs and met Robinson.

Several shots were fired and the four men then fled. Robinson was found dead at the top of the stairs, his body riddled with bullets. No effort to rob any of the patrons or employés of the café was made. Robinson's killers are believed to be Chicago gangsters. Until a few months ago he conducted a saloon in Chicago.

DIES OF TRAIN INJURIES.

Hazel Malone, 22 years old, 11161 South Ashland avenue, a Negro, died yesterday in the county hospital of injuries which he received June 17 when he fell beneath the wheels of a Rock Island freight train.

STATE SENATOR AND ALDERMAN CLASH OVER BEER

The meeting of the city council subcommittee which is drafting a beer regulatory ordinance broke up in some disorder yesterday with a colloquy between State Senator Frank McDermott, a brewer, and Ald. Matthias [Paddy] Bauler [43d], a saloonkeeper.

Senator McDermott had appeared before the subcommittee, headed by Ald. James J. McDermott [14th], to protest against the proposed $1,000 license fee plus a $25 charge for every truck used for breweries, distributors, and jobbers of beer. Brewers, he pleaded, have made no money for 14 years, and the council should ge lightly in exacting fees from them.

Reminded of Bootleg Price.

"You're charging $17 a barrel for beer, aren't you?" asked Ald. Bauler.

"Say, you got $55 a barrel, so you needn't holler," retorted the senator. Fifty-five dollars a barrel was the standard price of illicit beer during the prohibition era.

"Don't say that unless you can prove it," said Ald. Bauler.

"How much does it cost you to make a barrel of beer?" asked Ald. Bauler.

"Go and ask Charley Weber," suggested Senator McDermott as he walked out of the committee room.

The subcommittee approved an ordinance providing for special bar permits for picnics and dances. The permits would permit operation of a bar from 8 a. m. to 3 a. m., for which the permittee must post a $1,000 bond and pay a $10 fee.

Brewers Protest Fee Proposal.

George H. Kiefer of the United States Brewing company protested against the $1,000 fee for brewers, suggesting that a $500 fee, including permission to use any number of trucks, would be sufficient. T. J. Doyle of the Atlas Brewing company told the subcommittee that in many cases a man who is both a distributor and a jobber would have to pay a double fee under the present form of the proposed ordinance.

The subcommittee has two amendments pending before it, one of which would prohibit the sale of beer in filling stations, garages, ice cream parlors, groceries, confectioneries, fruit stores or bakeries. The other, the purpose of which is to extend the present beer ordinance, which expires June 30, in case the new beer ordinance is not finished by that time, would increase the fees paid by many establishments now selling beer.

Under the present ordinance, if an establishment such as a restaurant already pays a city license fee in excess of the $150 per half year required for a beer license, it need pay only the higher fee. Under the amendment the owner would have to pay both fees.

This amendment is expected to come up for discussion on Thursday, when retailers and jobbers of beer will appear before the subcommittee.

3 BODIES FOUND IN LAKE WHERE PLANE CRASHED

San Bernadino, Cal., June 19.—[Special.]—Salvage crews today recovered the bodies of Harry Sweet, Hollywood film director; Vera Williams, movie "extra," and Hal Davitt, scenario writer, from the wreckage of a plane which plunged with them into Big Bear lake yesterday. The plane fell into 20 feet of water, a quarter of a mile off shore of the lake which is in the mountains near here.

Fifty men aboard a barge, equipped with a crane, succeeded in raising the plane. The bodies, which were in the cabin of the craft, were brought here in the afternoon. They will be taken to Los Angeles for burial.

The plane, owned by Sweet, was flown from a Los Angles airport Sunday afternoon. Sweet, who was 32 years old, was regarded as a good pilot. Over Bear lake, witnesses said, the plane failed to come out of a dive and fell into the lake.

Sweet was a director of many comedy films. Davitt had been associated with him for the last two years in writing comedies. Miss Williams was known in Hollywood under the name of Claudette Ford.

Ask Indictment of Police for Speed Trap Beating

ASSERT ACCUSED POLICEMEN HAD VISITED CABARET

Investigators of the state's attorney's office were busy yesterday attempting to learn the truth of information given to Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert Crowley to the effect that the two policemen of Evergreen Park had spent several hours in a cabaret prior to arresting and allegedly mistreating two couples of motorists. The policemen themselves vehemently denied this charge when questioned by the prosecutor.

State's Attorney Courtney, who ordered an investigation of the charges made by Edwin G. Tuerk, 30 years old, 7826 Lawrence avenue; his wife; W. Lon Lowrie, 6150 Greenwood avenue, and his fiancée, Miss Elizabeth Scott, 8046 South Carpenter street, is expected to decide today whether to present the matter directly to the grand jury. Mr. Courtney himself interviewed the witnesses before turning the inquiry over to his assistant.

Policemen's Stories Disagree.

Charles Roche and Herbert Drabandt, the village policemen, made contradictory statements when questioned during the afternoon by Prosecutor Crowley. Roche admitted slapping the men around when they resisted the arrest, but denied using a blackjack, as is charged.

The policemen, who denied they had been drinking, charged that the motorists were the ones who were under the influence of liquor. The car in which Tuerk and Lowrie were riding, the police say, was zigzagging along 95th street. The men became abusive, the policemen told the prosecutor, and physically resisted arrest.

Mrs. Tuerk said she was knocked down by a blow from one of the policemen and she had a bruise on her face when she appeared at the state's attorney's office yesterday. Policeman Drabandt told Prosecutor Crowley that he saw no one hit Mrs. Tuerk and that she was never on the ground.

Says Woman Tripped and Fell.

Policeman Roche, who was questioned separately, denied that he had hit Mrs. Tuerk, but admitted that he saw her on the ground. He explained that when he knocked her husband down because the latter was trying to get Policeman Drabandt's gun from him, Mrs. Tuerk tripped on her husband's feet and fell.

"That is how she got mussed up," said Policeman Roche.

Chief John Paller said he knew nothing of the affair because he did not reach the police station until it was all over.

Says Speed Traps Menace Fair.

Attorney Joseph Braun, counsel for the Chicago Motor club, whose organization has been active in the speed trap fight, charged that a ring of speed traps, organized to prey on visitors to A Century of Progress, is operating in counties surrounding Cook county. He charged that justices of the peace and motorcycle policemen are in collusion to make "hay while the sun of A Century of Progress shines."

"Motorists are assessed exorbitant fines in the counties surrounding Cook," said Attorney Braun. "We have hundreds of complaitns. The acts of the country justices are giving Chicago such a bad name that motorists will not come this way. We have found cases in which visitors after spending twenty-four to forty-eight hours in country jails have turned back for home."

The motor club has opened a special bureau to receive complaints from motorists. These complaints will be checked by the club investigators and the information turned over to the prosecuting authorities.

Dr. A. S. Dewing of Harvard Quits Place on Gold Issue

Cambridge, Mass., June 19.—(AP)—Arthur Stone Dewing, Ph.D., professor of finance at Harvard's school of business administration and internationally known authority on corporation practice, has resigned, he announced today, after a personal difference with Dean Wallace B. Donham over withdrawal of some $30,000 in gold from a local bank last March.

The resignation, Dewing said, was submitted in March and accepted by the Harvard corporation on May 8. Dewing declared Donham's "interference with his personal affairs" was the culmination of many differences. He characterized Donham's rule as "dictatorial."

Donham from his summer home in Chatam denied he had asked for Dewing's resignation which, he said, was voluntarily submitted to the corporation. "Our faculty is made up of full time teachers," he said. "While all of our men are free to do consulting work, when consulting work becomes of major importance and there is a conflict between it and teaching they usually choose between the two. Professor Dewing resigned voluntarily."

Operator of Utilities.

Dewing is a director of a number of important corporations and operator in recent years of more than a score of New England utility companies, one of them the Chatam Water company of Chatam, Mass.

"Early this year," he said, "the Chatham company of which I am president, was urged by the local selectmen to build a substantial extension to its pipe line. When it was represented that by undertaking the work we could give employment to a number of men, we did some close figuring and decided to start the job.

"I personally solicited bids for the pipe to be used with the understanding we would pay cash. Only by obtaining low bids did we feel we could afford to spend the money.

Prepares to Pay Wages.

"When the Detroit bank situation broke, I believed that ultimately all banks would close. Much of the money payable on the pipe contract would be falling due and there were the wages of the local workmen to be considered.

"As a result, I withdrew slightly more than $30,000 from the Cambridge bank and held the gold for a day or two when the situation seemed better and I returned it. I withdrew none of my own funds."

Hoarders Hold Over Million.

Washington, D. C., June 19.—[Special.]—The amount of gold in the hands of defiant hoarders today passed the million dollar mark, Attorney General Cummings said.

One hundred and eighty-three persons who refused to yield up their gold when called upon by department of justice agents are believed to be holding $1,143,945, according to the attorney general.

The drive on hoarders has rounded up just about a fourth as much gold as that now estimated to be in the hands of these 183 people. Only 160 out of the 3,011 persons investigated have turned over gold, and the total surrendered is only $285,894.

U. S. JUDGES SEE EPSTEIN GO ON BENCH TOMORROW

Benjamin P. Epstein, who was elected to the Circuit court bench on June 5, will be inducted into office at the county building at 11 o'clock tomorrow in the presence of federal officials with whom he has been associated for many years.

Judge Evan A. Evans of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals will preside. Judge Samuel Alschuler of the Appeals court, and Judge James H. Wilkerson of the United States District court, will also be present. A score of other federal officials, many of them from the district attorney's office, will be on hand.

Judge-Elect Epstein's public career dates back to 1913 when he was appointed an assistant district attorney by Judge Wilkerson, then the United States district attorney here. For seven years Judge-Elect Epstein served as first assistant.

WIVES WITHOUT A COUNTRY 'PICKET' BRITISH MINISTER

Protest Against Law; Fight Police.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 19.—Women without a country fought London police tonight in an attempt to picket the person of Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon. The women were protesting against a law which denies British nationality to a woman who marries a foreigner.

Three times police were forced to rescue Simon. Seven women attempted to surround the foreign secretary in front of his home twice. There also was a tussle with police when he and Lady Simon were sitting in evening dress in an auto in front of their residence. They were delayed in a dinner engagement while police pried a demonstrator from the hood.

The protest chiefly arises through naturalization laws of the United States and some other countries which do not confer citizenship upon foreign wives of nationals. It recalls the act by congress enabling wealthy American brides of Europeans with cheap titles to retain their nationality. Consequently, they are entitled to the protection of the American courts in their financial affairs.

Seven women, four of whom have no nationality or right to passports because they were married to husbands of other nationalities, gathered first at the foreign office. They were informed they could not see the foreign secretary. The women then moved to the front steps of his residence and surrounded him when he arrived. Police again saved him.

Simon, after dressing for dinner, soon reappeared after Lady Simon was safely installed in the automobile. The women surrounded him again. Police again cleared a pathway for Sir John. In the midst of the scuffle, Miss Dorothy Evans, honorary secretary of the league of nations' committee on the nationality of married women, mounted the hood. She was forcibly removed and Simon drove off for dinner at the German embassy.

There the siege was renewed, but the foreign secretary sent down word that he could not see them and the police again were compelled to clear an avenue for his escape.

SPANISH FLYERS POISED FOR HOP TO MEXICO CITY

Leave Cuba Today; Next Stop Is Chicago

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, June 19.—Capt Mariano Barberan and Lieut. Joaquin Collar, Spanish trans-Atlantic flyers, today were officially notified by the Spanish embassy that Premier Manuel Azana had granted them permission to visit A Century of Progres Exposition at Chicago. An invitation to fly to Chicago was extended the aviators by Mayor Kelly, Rufus C. Dawes, president of the World's Fair, and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

The aviators tonight announced their tentative route on the flight from Mexico City to Chicago. Weather permitting, the Spaniards will take off from Havana at dawn tomorrow for the capital of the Mexican republic. The distance is about 1,175 miles and they expect to reach their destination in about 12 hours.

To Stay in Mexico a Week.

After about a week's stay in Mexico, the airmen announced that, following THE TRIBUNE'S suggestion, they would take a course from Mexico to Laredo, Texas, east as far as the Mississippi river and then north to Chicago, following as closely as possible the route taken by De Soto and other Spanish explorers along the "Father of Waters." De Soto, who discovered the Mississippi was buried in the river.

"THE TRIBUNE'S suggestion for a flight along the route of the Spanish pioneers is a great idea, a beautiful conception of romance and history," Capt. Barberan said. "We shall follow the indicated course as much as possible, and shall try to make a nonstop flight.

"At any rate, we will reach Chicago in time for the American Air races [July 1 to July 4] if nothing unforeseen occurs or forces us to abandon our present plans. We have no adequate words to express our appreciation to Mayor Kelly, Mr. Dawes and especially THE TRIBUNE for their kind invitations to visit Chicago."

Flyers' Ship in Arctic.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HARBOR GRACE, N. F., June 19.—The icebreaker and sealing steamer Ungava, chartered by the Italian government, arrived at Griguet, at the northeastern tip of the island, today.

The royal Italian yacht Alice and the supply ship Senef, carrying fuel and supplies for Gen. Italo Balbo and his armada of 24 flying boats, arrived at Griguet several days ago, but were held up by ice. The Italian newspaper men and stores aboard these boats will be transferred to the Ungava, which will proceed to Sandwich Bay, Labrador. Sandwich Bay is scheduled as the first stopping place of the Italian flyers on the North American continent.

Today's weather report from Cartwright, Labrador, says that loose ice is running off shore and that the harbor itself is clear. The mass flight from Italy had been delayed because of ice conditions at Sandwich Bay.

40,000 GALLONS OF WHISKY DUMPED IN HUDSON RIVER

New York, June 19.—[Special.]—The waters of the Hudson river off Hoboken were tinged with amber today as 40,000 gallons of rye whisky were pumped from the hold of the good ship Ulster, an "oil" tanker that had been sailing under false colors.

The ceremonies were conducted from the bridge of a coast guard cutter under a court order obtained by prohibition authorities from Federal Judge Guy L. Fake.

In official reports the cargo represented a frustrated shipment of holiday cheer, that had been discovered at the Bayonne docks shortly before Christmas.

Flying Team Practices for American Air Races

Here is what is said to be the world's greatest civilian precision flying team, composed of John Livingston, Harold Neumann and Arthur J. Davis. These pilots will stage one of the most thrilling flights at the American air races here July 1, 2, 3, and 4, flying so close together that the wings of the planes appear to be locked.

CITY BECOMING AIR CAPITAL AS RACES APPROACH

Entry List Is Longest for So Early a Date.

BY HUGH SEXTON.

Chicago is rapidly becoming the focal point of interest throughout the world as famous flyers prepare to convene here in two weeks at the American Air Races. The ice is moving out of Sandwich bay in Labrador, planned as at landing place on the route of twenty-four Italian seaplanes led by Gen. Italo Balbo across the north Atlantic to this city. The ice in this bay is the last obstacle to the flight.

Capt. Mariano Barberan and Lieut. Joaquin Collar, the Spanish army pilots who flew from Seville to Cuba ten days ago, are taking off at Havana early this morning for Mexico City. They will terminate their official flight there and then fly to Chicago to visit the World's Fair and participate in the air races, which will be held at Chicago airport July 1, 2, 3, and 4.

Finnish World Flyer to Be Here.

Capt. Valter Bremer, famous Finnish long distance pilot who is on a solo flight around the world, will be here in his Junkers amphibion. Many other ocean and world flyers will gather with the cream of the country's racing and stunting pilots to make the four day spectacle the aviation classic of the year.

Maj. R. W. Schroeder, director of events of the rabes, announced yesterday that entries for the ten closed course high speed events are piling up at a rate unprecedented for air races. At no previous air racing meet, he said, have so many entries been received so far in advance of the event. The entries are being tabulated, he said, and will be announced by the end of the week.

John B. [Jack] Wright, famous sportsman pilot of Utica, N. Y., who has won 112 cups in all forms of aerial racing and competition in the last four year, visited the headquarters of the air races in Hotel Sherman yesterday to enter five of the races. He will fly the racing monocoupe [Warner motor] built by John Livingston of Aurora, Ill., which has a top speed of 220 miles an hour.

Roger Q. Williams Here Today.

Roger Q. Williams, who flew from New York to Rome in 1929, and who plans another similar flight this summer and a return flight from Dublin, Ireland, nonstop to Chicago, will arrive in the city this morning to make plans for his participation in the air races. Williams is having a plane built specially for the long overwater flights he has mapped out for this summer, and he plans to demonstrate its ability at the races. He will describe his flight and the air race program over WGN tomorrow night.

Bayonne, N. J., June 19.—(AP)—Winthrop Rockefeller, fourth son of John D. Rockefeller Jr., took a $4.50 per week room in the industrial Y. M. C. A. here today and began his education in the oil business from a job in the personnel department of the Bayonne refinery of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

KIRKLAND DENIED HIS FREEDOM ON TECHNICAL PLEA

Anderson, Ind., June 19.—[Special.]—Virgil Kirkland of Gary, who is serving one to ten years in the Pendleton reformatory, was denied release on a writ of habeas corpus today by Circuit Judge Bartlett Campbell. Kirkland was sentenced in Valparaiso two years ago for assault with intent to rape his 18 year old sweetheart, Arlene Draves, who died as a result of the attack.

Oscar B. Theil of Gary represented Kirkland. He based his plea for Kirkland's release on an Indiana law, passed in 1920, which holds that a person cannot be sentenced for a lesser offense than the crime for which he was indicted.

Theil argued Kirkland was indicted on a charge of first degree murder. The jurors returned a verdict of guilty of assault and battery with attempt to rape. This verdict was returned at the second trial of Kirkland.

Police Guard Unloading of $1,500,000 Silver Bullion

Jersey City, N. J., June 19.—(AP)—Guarded by more than a score of police, $1,500,000 in silver bullion from China was unloaded today from the liner President Roosevelt.

END OF DRY ERA TO REVIVE JOBS, MUSICIANS TOLD

Joe N. Weber of New York, president of the American Federation of Musicians, predicted an increase in employment of musicians in opening the annual convention of that body yesterday in the Palmer house. More than 800 executives of musicians' unions throughout the country were present.

"When the 18th amendment is abrogated," asserted Mr. Weber, who has been president of the national federation for 33 years, "the American people will forsake the speak easy and return to the beer gardens and cafés to hear good music. Our officials have never tried to bring music into the speakeasy."

James Petrillo, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, welcomed the visitors to the convention, which is the largest in the history of the organization. The meetings will last through Saturday.

FAIR HAS FIRST WEEK DAY CROWD OF OVER 100,000

Swedish-American Fete Swells Turnout.

BY VIRGINA GARDNER.

Attendance at the World's Fair totaled 100,902 yesterday, setting a new week day record. It was the first week day turnout of more than 100,000 and the fifth figure of that size recorded during the 24 days the Fair has been in progress.

The heavy attendance followed a record breaking Sunday, on which 132,490 were admitted. The Sunday total set a record for paid admissions for the Fair, the previous high being 119,675 on opening day.

The bright sunshine helped to attract the crowds to the Fair, but the temperature was a bit too high for comfort, 96 degrees being recorded on the Havoline thermometer during the afternoon. Despite the huge crowd, only eight persons were taken to the emergency hospital on the Exposition grounds with symptoms of heat prostration.

Swedish day was a factor in attracting the day's crowds.

Swedish Pavilion Thronged.

Three thousand persons an hour passed through the Swedish pavilion, according to John Sjunneson, secretary of the Swedish exhibition committeee. They were massed in waiting lines from the building, a cheerful yellow structure in severely modern design, to the Avenue of Flags at times. Ninety per cent of the attendance was by persons of Swedish origin, said Tage Palm, director of the arts and crafts exhibit in the pavilion. Among the visitors was Karl M. Bengtson, architect of the building.

They passed in slow moving lines past the exhibits of modern Swedish industrial art, including furniture, weaving, glassware, and the like. The 30 manufacturers exhibiting were invited by the commission appointed by the Swedish government, Palm said. The crowds lingered before the map by Kurt Jugnstedt of Sweden which shows population centers of Swedish-Americans in this country. The sculpture, all of it by the outstanding Swedish sculptor, Carl Milles, exhibited outside the building, particularly the huge wild boars on either side of the entrance, attracted much attention likewise.

Children Wear Bright Colors.

Lending color to the Exposition crowds were children in gayly colored national Swedish costumes, boys in yellow knee pants, red stockings and waistcoats; girls in embroidered kerchiefs, striped aprons and quaint headdress. They took part in programs throughout the day, entering into drill team contests in the court of the Hall of Science, singing in chorus in the Court of States.

The program opened with a parade of Swedish Province societies in national costume to the Court of States, addresses, religious services and choruses held there in the morning being attended by more than 2,500 persons. More than 1,000 Swedish-Americans attended a luncheon in Old Heidelberg inn, where they were addressed by Count Folke Bernadotte, nephew of the king of Sweden. In clear English the count asked if the audience objected to his speaking in Swedish and, after approval expressed in hearty applause, he continued in Swedish.

Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby, speaking for Mayor Kelly, asked the count to send to the king of Sweden the respects of the people of Chicago.

Charles S. Peterson, vice president of A Century of Progress, was toastmaster. In the afternoon musical programs by other province society groups were heard by 5,000 persons in the Court of States, who gathered under the shelter of the balconies from the glaring sun.

Delivers Greetings from King.

The Swedish-American program was culminated last night by festivities in the Court of States, when Count Bernadotte delivered greetings from King Gustav V. of Sweden. The count was introduced by Consul C. O. G. Lunquist. A tableau, "Columbia," was presented in which Miss Helga Lindgren as "Miss Columbia" and Miss Beatrice Brugeson as "Miss Sweden" had parts. The American Union of Swedish Singers was featured. Herbert R. Hedman presided. Dr. Allen Albert of A Century of Progress staff and Dr. Judas Lincoln spoke.

Today will be Norwegian-American day at the Fair, featured by the arrival of the full rigged Norwegian training ship Sorlandet. The Sorlandet will be escorted to her mooring by a committee aboard the S. S. Wilmette, the committee including Norwegian Minister H. H. On the ship's arrival at the Fair the U. S. S. Escanaba will fire a salute while the Concordia college band plays the national anthems of Norway and the United States.

The officers, crew and cadets of the Sorlandet will be among the guests of honor at a banquet to be held at 7 p. m. at the Stevens hotel as the last of the day's festivities.

KIDNAP WOUNDED ROBBER SUSPECT FROM HOSPITAL

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 19.—(AP)—Two men broke into the Homeopathic hospital tonight and carried Peter Sebolsky, 27, of Cicero, Ill., down a fire escape. Sebolsky was wounded and under arrest as a robbery suspect.

Six patients in a ward on the second floor saw the intruders remove a window screen and carry Sebolsky out with a 75 pound shackle attached to his leg. They sped away in a waiting machine.

Sebolsky was brought to the hospital April 15 with a bullet wound in the leg. Police say he is suspected of participation in a holdup. He first gave his name as Peter Morrison.

Sebolsky is not known to the Chicago or Cicero police and his name does not appear in any local directory.

AUTOS FROM 46 STATES NOTED AT WORLD FAIR

Visitors Represent All Walks of Life.

BY HAL FOUST.

The million automobiles expected to bring World's Fair visitors from beyond Chicagoland this summer are beginning to arrive in conspicuous numbers. An actual count in the parking lot at the 18th and 23d street gates to the Exposition during the weekend showed that one out of every six cars had licenses from states other than Illinois.

On Sunday night, in this one parking lot, there were automobiles from every state in the Union except Maine and Georgia. Indiana led the list with a total of 272 cars. Michigan with 129 and Wisconsin with 132 were running close for second place. Well represented among the more distant states were Texas, with 30; New York, 33; California, 25, and Pennsylvania, 24.

Cars from Neighbor States.

Virtually next door neighbors to Chicago, as modern automobiles are driven over modern highways, were 69 cars from Ohio, 42 from Iowa, 41 from Missouri, and 33 from Minnesota.

Investigation of the license numbers, with the aid of TRIBUNE correspondents throughout the country showed that visitors are driving here from the movie studios of California, the lumber towns of Washington and Oregon, the ranches of New Mexico and Texas, the mines of Arizona and Colorado, the cattle ranches of Wyoming and Montana, from the plantations of the Carolinas, from the manufacturing centers of Pennsylvania, and from the colonies of wealth in Connecticut, Long Island, and Massachusetts.

Chicago's guests at A Century of Progress include salaried workers, professional men, farmers, school teachers, artisans, factory laborers and capitalists. They are a cross-section of America, as representative of all vocations as they are of all geographic sections of the country.

Demand for Sleeping Equipment.

Chicago, with its rapid rise from a village in 1833 and with its growth in the last generation, drew much of its population from other states, so that a large portion of these folks from out of town have relatives or old friends in the city. Hotels and tourist camps are doing a big business but it hasn't detracted from record sales of day beds, cots, davenports and such extra sleeping equipment for private homes.

"There'll be many more cars from other states before this summer is ended," said Maj. E. S. J. Irvine, superintendent of transportation for A Century of Progress. "Chicago will be the center of the greatest motor crusade in history. We expect 2,250,000 visitors from beyond Chicagoland to arrive in private automobiles."

Spark from Battery Ignites Gasoline; Boy Loses Life

George Batterbury, 7 years old, 4506 North Newcastle avenue, died yesterday in the county hospital of burns received on Sunday in an unusual accident in the garage behind his home. While watching his father, Arthur, a painter, repair an automobile storage battery the boy accidentally knocked over a can of gasoline. Both battery and can were on the floor. The can, striking against the battery, caused a spark and this ignited the gasoline, causing a small explosion and setting fire to the boy's clothes.

A permit to operate a narrow gauge railway along the lake front from the Monroe street parking space to the north entrance of the World's Fair was granted to the Grant Park Transportation company yesterday by the Illinois commerce commission. The application was approved with the understanding that the equipment will be removed within thirty days after the Exposition closes.

The order of the commissioners, which was announced by their attorney, Irvin Rooks, called attention to the testimony of traffic experts in recent public hearings that attendance at the Exposition may reach more than 500,000 daily and that present transportation facilities would be inadequate.

Among those who supported the railroad project were Maj. E. S. J. Irvine, director of transportation for the Exposition; D. H. Burnham, vice president of the Exposition, and Leslie Sorenson, traffic expert for the city. The plans had been attacked by attorneys for the Illinois Central railroad, street car and bus companies.

SHIP ARRIVES ON 1ST TRIP OF NEW SERVICE TO N. Y.

The Baracoa, a 1,600 ton freighter, docked yesterday at the North Pier terminal, completing the first run of the Colombian Steamship company's new direct cargo service between New York and Chicago. Capt. H. U. Davis brought the ship on the "outside" route, via the St. Lawrence river, the Welland canal, and the great lakes.

The arrival of the Baracoa is another link between the middle west and the Atlantic seaboard. According to H. T. McNiece, traffic manager for the Colombian line, it provides shippers here with the chance for direct trade service to Colombia, the West Indies, and other intercoastal points.

The Colombian line will maintain regular sailings on a ten day schedule until the close of lakes navigation. A sister ship of the Baracoa, the Bolivar, is sailing from New York today. The Baracoa leaves tomorrow on its return trip.

Hummel Made Permanent Zion Industries Receiver

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday appointed Fred E. Hummel as permanent receiver for the Zion Institutions and Industries of Zion City. A motion that Ralph R. Pihl, general manager of the concern, who has been acting with Mr. Hummel as temporary receiver, be appointed a permanent co-receiver, was taken under advisement by the court. Attorney Paul Fisher, representing several creditors, objected to the appointment of Pihl. Fisher said Pihl is "under the domination of Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of Zion."

HOMEBOUND LOOP WORKERS WATCH LEAPING FLAMES

A spectacular fire which started yesterday as loop and Michigan avenue buildings were being emptied of homebound workers practically destroyed the south park tool and repair sheds in Grant park at 9th street.

The sheds were one story frame affairs covering nearly an acre of ground immediately east of the depressed right of way of the Illinois Central railroad. Burned with them was thousands of dollars' worth of park equipment, including several tractors, mowers and snowplows.

The fire threw off huge clouds of smoke and sent flames high in the air. Fire companies, summoned by a 2-11 alarm, had difficulty in stringing sufficient hose lines to fight the flames. The damage was estimated at $25,000.

Walter J. La Buy Takes Oath as Circuit Judge

Circuit Judge Walter J. La Buy, elected on June 5, was administered his oath of office yesterday by County Clerk Sweitzer. Judge La Buy, a member of the Cook county board until yesterday, took with him to the bench a gavel which had been used by his father, M. A. La Buy, a justice of the peace in Chicago half a century ago, and by his brother, Joseph, a former Municipal judge. He is 44 years old and lives at 915 Milwaukee avenue. His wife, Helen, and two daughters, Alice, 12 years old, and Helen, 14, witnessed his induction, as did a number of Democratic officials.

'MOTHER' TURNS PUBLIC FANCY TO WHISTLER'S ART

What's It Worth? Is Oft Repeated Query.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

The fact is obvious. The reason is less so.

Day in and day out for three weeks TRIBUNE readers have been calling up our information bureau: "How much did it cost to transport that 'Mother' picture from Paris to the World's Fair?" . . . ["$2,000, sir."] . . . "Is it true that Whistler was in want when he painted his mother?" . . . ["No, madam."] . . . "How much is that World's Fair Whistler painting worth?" . . . [Valued at a million dollars by the Louvre museum, sir, and insured by the Art institute for half a million."] . . . "Say, is it a fact that Whistler died without knowing that the world considered 'Mother' a masterpiece?" . . . ["No, madam."] . . . "Who owns that painting called 'Mother' that's at the World's Fair picture show?" . . . ["The French government, sir."] . . . "Can you tell me if a person can buy a copy of the picture of Whistler's mother?" . . . ["Yes, madam, in gallery 50 at the head of the Art institute grand staircase."]

But August Keeps His Head.

And so on, until you would think our August Bartz and his aids would be just about nerts.

In short, "Mother" is the biggest drama in modern art history and it has taken a prodigious hold on the heart of the people. It presents to them the irony of deferred recognition and of an incredible spread in prices.

Joe Pennell, great etcher and Whistler's biographer, who loved irony as much as Whistler did and who did not take his native city with any slavish seriousness, often said that once Philadelphia could have bought "Mother" for $600. As a matter of fact, the French government did buy it for the Luxembourg museum for $800 in 1881 and later came to set such store by the painting that it moved the work to the Louvre.

That transfer exquisitely rounded out the irony, for a frequent remark of Whistler's was ——

"My standard is the Louvre. What is not worthy to go in the Louvre has nothing to do with art."

Art Is Art.

Another of his gems was ——

"There is—there can be no Art Nouveau—there is only Art."

That sockdolager he handed to John Lavery—now Sir John—when the Irish painter was holding forth on the claims of l'art nouveau.

Iconoclast of bewhiskered bunk though he was, Whistler was no contemner of tradition. Pennell said in print and out that he "revered the old masters."

Although "Mother" is the sensation picture of the Fair, the judicious do not acclaim it as the Fair's chef d'oeuvre. Nor is it.

Nevertheless it is a very noble picture. Even the extreme modernists—or modern extremists—concede its grand repose, its simple but delicate execution, and—first test of a masterpiece—its economy of means in the production of a great effect.

Sarcasm That Bit.

Probably its sensational popularity is due for the most part to Whistler's affecting presentation, at once gentle and vivid, of a theme of universal appeal. And the public's interest is further enlivened by the painter's fame as a withering wit. A friend brought to his studio the news of the death of S——, a well meaning, muddling sort of painter who had never really arrived, and the friend added, "He died at sea."

"Where he always was," said Whistler, and went on painting.

That bite was only one of thousands.

Today people stand before the mordant satirist's spiritual presentation of his mother and murmur, "How sweet," "What perfect peace!" Some of them gaze with tear dimmed eyes upon the gentle old lady.

Wholly placid as she seems as she looks toward the armed man who guards her in gallery 25 of the Art institute, Anna Mathilda McNeill Whistler had her fervid moments, a will of her own, and a temper.

When Whistler Heard Something.

One of the moments came on a Sunday afternoon when she returned from church to her son's and her home at No. 2 Lindsey row, Chelsea, London, and found him and a confrere painting on the panels of the hall conventionalized ships with sails spread. Grown and famous though he was, the son learned from his mother's indignant comments that he was not to break the Lord's day unrebuked.

Mother needed to be placid to live with her son. Sometimes when he was painting he would hire the hurdy gurdy man to play by the hour in the front garden "because," he explained, "I like music." Other times he would enliven the home with imitations of a man sawing wood or of two men quarreling, of whom he was both.

The picture that is now the talk of the town and that THE TRIBUNE will reproduce in a half page of roto-gravure color next Sunday was painted in the studio in Lindsey row in 1869 when Whistler was 35 years old, and 12 years before his mother died.

Mother, as you readily see from her portrait, was "quality," having come of the North Carolina McNeills on one side and of the Winans of Baltimore on the other.

Mother's Romance.

Early in life she demonstrated her fixity of purpose, saying that since she could not marry Maj. George Whistler, U. S. A., who was married, she would never marry anybody. But fate decreed for her. When the first Mrs. Whistler, who was Anna McNeill's intimate friend, lay dying she said to her husband, "I hope that if you marry again you will marry Anna." And he did.

Late in life the second Mrs. Whistler herself imparted the story to a London friend.

"Mother" is, from the chronicler's point of view, the most arresting fact in the galleries of 19th century painting because it exemplifies history's harmonizing of the final event with a great man's early ambitions. Whistler wanted of all things to be in the Louvre. Well, thence he came to us and thither he will return in November.

Once—not very many years ago—that sublime pomposity, the late Sir Charles Purdon, who became head of the Metropolitan gallery in New York, where they also took their bishop from England, said, "I do not understand Whistler and do not want to."

A day came when Joe Pennell, who knew what he was talking about, called Whistler "the most striking personality, the most distinguished artist of his time."

Will the Flower Be There?

Just thirty years ago this coming 17th of July Whistler died at the age of 69.

I hope somebody will lay a flower or two in front of "Mother" on that day.

Turn now to the wall opposite "Mother" and view another great piece of portraiture by an American—John Sargent's painting of Robert Louis Stevenson at home in the late summer and early autumn of 1885, when he was writing "The Strange Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," curdlingest thriller and most poignant sermon in modern English fiction.

Stevenson's Pungent Letter.

Here we can have the high advantage of the sitter's own pungent description of this memorable picture, for under date of Oct. 22, 1885, Stevenson wrote from Bournemouth, England, where he was fighting tuberculosis, to Will Low, American painter:

"Sargent was down again and painted a portrait of me walking about in my own dining room, in my own velveteen jacket, and twisting as I go my own moustache; at one corner a glimpse of my wife in an Indian dress, and seated in a chair that was once my grandfather's—but since some months goes by the name of Henry James's, for it was there the novelist loved to sit—adds a touch of poesy and comicality. It is, I think, excellent, but is too eccentric to be exhibited. I am at one extreme corner; my wife, in this wild dress, and looking like a ghost, is at the extreme other end; between us an open door exhibits my palatial entrance hall and a part of my respected staircase. All this is touched in lovely with that witty touch of Sargent's; but, of course, it looks dam queer as a whole."

A Happy Pair.

Stevenson, then 35 years old, and John Sargent, who was 29, got on famously together, the novelist writing to his mother that the painter was "a charming, simple, clever, honest young man," adding "He delighted us."

The portrait is a triumph. It teaches you to know Stevenson precisely as he walked, posed—he loved to pose—and wore his long hair. It shows Sargent at his best, too, "simple and honest," as Stevenson put it, and long before he became courtier-like painter of fashion plate portraits of ladies of fashion.

SECRETARY PERKINS.

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins passed through Chicago last night from Madison, Wis., where she received the degree of doctor of laws from the University of Wisconsin, on her way to Washington, D. C.

Although she was in Chicago only four hours, Miss Perkins said she would attempt to confer with Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, whom she recently appointed as chairman of an advisory committee to be set up in connection with the new federal employment service.

"I am heartened by the fact that the Illinois legislature, in addition to six other state legislatures, is about to pass laws fixing a minimum wage for women," said Miss Perkins. She also expressed her pleasure that many state legislatures were becoming interested in industrial legislation in general.

She was accompanied on the train by Edna St. Vincent Millay, the poetess.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

The hand woven silk picture of President Roosevelt, which is on exhibition in the Chincse pavilion, is to be presented to the President, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Feng Shan Ho of the Hunan exhibit at the Fair.

J. Ignacio Gomez, purchasing agent of the Mexican National Railway company, arrived yesterday in Chicago with one of the company trains. He brought a collection of jewels valued at $10,000,000 to be included in the Mexican exhibit at A Century of Progress.

Fireworks utilizing electricity and steam will be displayed at A Century of Progress at 9:15 o'clock Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday nights, hereafter, it was announced yesterday. A scintillator, the invention of W. D'Arcy Ryan, chief of exterior illumination, is placed on the lake shore at the south end of the Exposition grounds. It sends 1,660,000 candlepower of white and colored lights on smoke bombs, steam geysers, and steam wheels, thus stimulating columns of fire.

Champion peonies of the United States are to be selected in the national peony show in the Horticultural hall of A Century of Progress tomorrow. This, the second showing of fine peonies since the Fair opened, is expected to surpass anything of its kind in this country, according to Paul L. Battey of Northbrook, chairman of the American Peony society's show committee.

From Texas last evening came 750 visitors to the Fair. They arrived via the M., K. & T. railroad and will remain a week. All are members of Junior Chambers of Commerce in the Lone Star state. Forty are delegates to the national Junior Association of Commerce convention opening in St. Paul Wednesday.

More than 7,000 passengers were carried in and out of the Exposition grounds Sunday on lake steamers, alongsshore craft, and speed boats.

A dress review will be a feature of an annual meeting of the "Heroes of '76" in Fort Dearborn on Friday. The meeting will be in connection with the National Sojourners' convention to be held at the Fair Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. The Sojourners are Masons who have served in the army, navy, or marine corps.

A beauty contest to select Little Miss Enchanted Island will be held at 3 p. m. Friday. The winner and runnerup will be awarded prizes for health, beauty, and ideal development. The first two entrants are Janette McKnight, 5 years old, 1041 Seminole road, Winnetka, and Dorothy Halvorsen, 6 years old, 1043 Seminole road, Winnetka.

The Minnesota state exhibit is a popular gathering place for Swedish-Americans, who have played an important part in Minnesota history.

FIX 5 MILE SPEED LIMIT FOR SMALL BOATS IN RIVER

Speed boats plying between river points and the World's Fair have been restricted to a speed of five miles per hour in the river as a safety measure, it was learned last night. The order was issued recently by Capt. H. R. Searles, commander of the Chicago division of the United States coast guard service.

"There are about seventy-five speed and small passenger boats operating out of the river," explained Capt. John O. Anderson of the Chicago coast guard station at the mouth of the river. "If they were permitted to strike up a clip of forty miles an hour in the river accidents would inevitably occur, possibly with loss of life. The five mile an hour restriction is in the interest of safety."

Capt. Anderson said that until the restriction was put into effect many small boats tied up at docks along the river were being damaged by the back wash of the speed boats. Three coast guard boats are on watch constantly to enforce the order. Warnings are given for first violations. Flagrant violators are liable to $500 fines. There is no speed restriction outside the river mouth.

small, indivisible mass. It was found to consist of parts—electrons. Then came the X-ray and radio activity and the new laws were applied to the motion of the atomic particles. This is the development of atomic science.

Those who have followed the disintegration of the atomic nucleus appreciate these tremendous steps. What it will bring it is too early to say. Will it be as great as electromagnetic induction? Perhaps so. These discoveries, together with our knowledge of the very remote aspect of the universe, give us a more complete picture of the world. We have a part to do in building up a new kind of world."

Dr. John J. Abel of Johns Hopkins university at Baltimore, retiring president of the association, said that the nation owed a debt of gratitude to the exposition for gathering together these exhibits and this demonstration of science. He, too, was impressed with the short time that has passed since Marquette and Joliet passed this way in their canoes.

Urges Exposition in 2033.

"The public," Dr. Abel said, "often fails to appreciate certain points relative to science. It does not feel as we do, that one discovery is bound to follow another. Now that the road is open I hope you will have a second Century of Progress here in 2033. In that year, I am confident, there will be new discoveries, new technical applications, also new developments in other fields, in the spiritual and philosophical realm.

"I look forward especially to new ways of extending beauty and truth and a humane spirit among the races of mankind. I make this prediction, that one discovery is bound to follow another. Science cannot stand still. It is the one great territory of adventure left to mankind. It is based on the fact that the potentialities of nature are illimitable both in degree and kind.

"There is the solidarity of men of science. A new discovery made by one of them, in any land, is immediately known. No national boundaries stand in the way. It passes from land to land. It is like the sunlight."

First Meetings Are Held.

First meetings of the physics, chemistry, mathematics and meteorological sections of the science association were held during the day at the University of Chicago and on McKinlock campus of Northwestern university.

It was learned at the sessions of the American Physical society at Eckhart hall and Ryerson laboratory at the University of Chicago that great progress has been made on the electrostatic high voltage generator being built at Round Hill, Mass., and that sufficient voltage and power for nuclear research is now assured. Construction of the vacuum tube has started and the experimenters are hoping to get 10,000,000 volts with which to attack the nucleus. This was reported by L. C. Van Atta, E. W. Samson, and R. J. Vande Graaf, all of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

An Atom Breaking "Hammer."

Disintegration of the elements by swiftly moving protons was the subject that excited chief interest. This came in three papers, from Ernest O. Lawrence, M. Stanley Livingston, and Malcolm C. Henderson of the University of California. They described what might be called an atom smashing hammer or bullet, which works once in a while at least, hitting its target within the vacuum tube.

This new weapon is called the deuton, composed of the infinitely small core of the heavier of the two atoms of hydrogen.

When deutons were shot into the cores of atoms of lithium with an energy of 1,330,000 volts they smashed the cores, and the fragments, known as alpha particles, which compose helium, flew off with an energy of 12,600,000 volts.

This proves that there is energy latent in the nucleus of the atom.

Glimpses of Noted Scientists

Among the notable scientific visitors in Chicago is the Swedish chemist, Dr. Theodore Svedberg, head of the Institute of Physical Chemistry at Upsala and 1926 Nobel prize winner. Tall and gaunt and gray at 48, Dr. Svedberg addressed a joint session of two sections of the American Association for the Advancement of Science yesterday in Thorne hall on McKinlock campus. In an interview yesterday he said that ten years ago, while working at the University of Wisconsin, he performed some of the preliminary experiments that brought him ultimate fame in the chemistry of colloids. He will give two more addresses during the week on his process of determining the molecular weights of proteins by means of sedimentation.

Dr. C. U. A. Kappers, director of the Central Institute for Brain Research [neuroanatomy] in Amsterdam, Holland, a hearty looking, gray haired man, wears golf clothes at the scientific sessions. In 1924 and 1928 he was a lecturer at the University of Chicago. In 1929 and 1930 Dr. Kappers taught at the American University of Beirut in Syria, which gave him an excellent chance, he explained, of studying the anthropology of the near east, a topic which he is to discuss in one of his papers.

Wives of visiting scientists who wish to go on a tour of the north shore tomorrow are requested to register today at the registration booths at the Stevens hotel and at the universities. One hundred can be taken on this trip, which includes a visit to Northwestern university, a luncheon at Shore Acres, visit to Lake Forest gardens, and tea at Glencoe. Cars will be provided. Mrs. Irving Cutter and Mrs. Tiffany Blake are in charge of this entertainment. Other plans will be made each day for those who register.

Prof. Philip Fox of the Adler Planetarium was the rallying point yesterday for most of the distinguished foreigners expected, having been in charge of the correspondence previous to their visits here.

The everglades of Florida and the redwoods of California are the most interesting things in North America to Ludwig Diels, professor of botany at the University of Berlin and director of the Berlin Botanical Gardens, both government institutions. Prof. Diels will read two papers at the meetings today.

Most of the foreign scientists speak excellent English and many of them have visited Chicago previously. Several are Nobel prize winners, as are some of the Americans attending, notably Dr. R. A. Millikan of the California Institute of Technology and Dr. Arthur Compton of the University of Chicago.

Sir A. Daniel and Lady Ida Hall registered yesterday at the Stevens for the sessions of the scientific groups. Sir Daniel is scientific adviser to the ministry of agriculture and fisheries of Great Britain and director of the John Innes Horticultural institution at Merton, near London. Lady Ida will accompany Sir Daniel to the west coast when their Chicago visit is finished, and then to Regina, Canada, where he will head the British delegation at the world grain conference.

Washington, D. C., June 19.—(AP)—A presidential proclamation was issued today fixing immigration quotas for the next fiscal year.

The quotas for principal nations follow:

SHOWS NATIONS RISE AND FALL BY PROPAGANDA

An outline of how nations used propaganda to build themselves up or to destroy other nations was given last night by Edgar Stern-Rubarth, formerly an assistant of the Wolff agency, at the tenth annual institute of the Norman Walt Harris foundation in International House, University of Chicago.

Political propaganda, he said, is as old as civilization itself. It was used by the ancient Greeks when they carried stores to the barbarians boasting of the glories of Greece.

It was not until the world war that purely political propaganda was employed, continued Mr. Stern-Rubarth, and that at Crew House, the office of Lord Northcliffe. Out of that, he said, arose the fake German atrocity stories. Since then, he said, national propaganda has spread in other countries, notably in France and Germany.

EXPLAINS RISE OF NATIONALISM IN POST-WAR ERA

Nationalism in the decades prior to 1850 went hand in hand with democracy; now it has come to be a symbol of reaction. So declared Bernard Fay of the College de France, biographer of George Washington and Benjamin Franklin, in a lecture last night at the opening session of the Midwest Institute of International Relations, held in the First Methodist church of Evanston.

Nationalism, Mr. Fay asserted, is bound up with the soil. It is "man's marriage with his land." Post-war nationalism, he added, grew out of the fact that statesmen had to find some idea with which to combat communism in Europe. Even today, he declared, a crusade against nationalism would be a crusade for communism. It was thus necessary, he held, to recognize and keep it.

Reach for a Lucky

Copyright, 1933, The American Tobacco Company.

Well—here's why I enjoy Luckies

Somehow, I have always felt that it takes a really fine cigarette to please a man. And since many of the men whose judgment I value smoke Luckies... I reach for a Lucky, too. True, I enjoy Luckies' fine tobacco quality and their delicious mildness. But my real reason is perhaps a trifle feminine. Men may not appreciate this as much as a sensitive woman—but I'm particularly grateful to "Toasting" for that comforting assurance of purity. I've talked to many women about this—remember, a cigarette becomes an intimate thing with us, we place it between our lips. And so, perhaps, because I am a woman this is my woman's reason for always saying "Luckies Please!"

Childbirth Is a Leading Topic on Program.

Subjects pertaining to child birth occupy an important place on the program of the eighty-ninth annual convention of the American Institute of Homeopathy, which opened yesterday at the Morrison hotel. About 600 physicians of the homeopathic school of medical thought are in attendence.

Dr. Thomas H. McGavack of San Francisco told the delegates of experiments he had recently conducted to help women supposedly incapable of bearing children to realize their desire to have offspring. The success of the experiments, he said, may give other such women hope that they may experience motherhood.

The method, Dr. McGavack explained, involved the use of extracts from the thyroid, pituitary and superenal glands of sheep, calves, and pigs. The extracts, he said, should be prescribed for the patient in small doses. The effect, he said, was to stimulate the activity of the same glands in the patient, thus creating a condition which would make motherhood more likely.

Birth Control Spreading.

Birth control is being more generally practiced in the United States every year, Dr. Scott C. Runnels of Cleveland declared in another address.

"In some of the larger cities the birth rate this year will be about two-thirds of what it was ten years ago," he said. "The tendency has been under way for some years, but the drop has been markedly accelerated recently. Among the causative factors are the spread of the knowledge of contraceptive methods by obstetricians and at maternal health clinics.

"It has always been claimed that the birth rate rose during and following periods of unemployment. The present depression differs from all others preceding it in its effect on the birth rate."

Counsels Against Smoking.

Dr. Runnels counseled expectant mothers to give up smoking during pregnancy if possible. He said his experience had been that most women smokers could not follow the advice, the tobacco habit being too strong for them. The danger of smoking, he said, was that the tobacco nicotine might injure the muscles of the unborn child's heart.

Discussion is scheduled at a forthcoming session on the medico-legal death of deformed infants. The discussion will be led by Dr. William A. Guild of Chicago and Judge Nuncio Bonelli, former assistant in the Probate court.

TWO SOUTH CAROLINA MEN APPOINTED AS U. S. LOAN MANAGERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 19.—[Special.]—South Carolinians, it appeared today, are to play an important part in the government's new home owners' loan corporation over which former Congressman William F. Stevenson of South Carolina is to rule as chairman of the home loan bank board.

South Carolinians, it was learned, have already been appointed to high salaried positions with the title of "assistant general managers of the Federal Home Owners' Loan corporation." They are W. P. Goodman of Rock Hill and James A. Hoyt of Columbia, S. C. As far as could be learned, they are the only two appointees to be named to such impressive posts under the new corporation.

Meanwhile, Chairman Stevenson and his fellow members of the home loan bank board were striving to complete state setups for the new home owners' loan corporation through which small home mortgages are to be refinanced by the government. Thus far, it was recalled, the board has succeeded only in completing the organization for two states—South Carolina and North Carolina. As early as June 16, Mr. Stevenson announced the head office of the corporation in South Carolina would be at Columbia, with a branch office at Greenville.

MASTER MAKES FINAL REPORT ON EASTLAND

Special Master in Admiralty Lewis F. Mason yesterday presented his final report to Federal Judge George A. Carpenter on the litigation growing out of the Eastland disaster, which occurred on July 24, 1915, with a loss of 812 lives. Mr. Mason found that claims totaling $8,000,000 were justifiable, but that the company's liability was limited to the value of its interest in the vessel.

The Eastland is now the U. S. S. Wilmette, a naval training ship operating on the great lakes. It was sold by the original owners, the St. Joseph-Chicago Steamship company, for $42,000. About $38,000 of this amount went for the salvaging of the boat from the Chicago river, so that, after deducting court costs, there is nothing left for the $8,000,000 of claims.

Master Mason fixed the responsibility for the capsizing of the Eastland upon the negligence of the engineer in charge of the ballast tanks. The port side tanks were full, while those to starboard were almost empty. For that reason, Mr. Mason found, the company is not liable beyond the value of its interest in the Eastland and cannot be sued for judgments upon other properties.

MAYOR FAVORS CUT IN CAB RATE, CONTRACT GRANT

Limit Number to Assure Living Wage, He Says.

At the request of members of the city council committee on taxicabs, Mayor Kelly yesterday stated his views on provisions of the taxicab ordinance now under consideration. The mayor said he is for a reduction in rates, for the contract ordinance that may grant a franchise for five years or for any other number of years, and the number of cabs permitted on the streets to be dependent upon assurance of a living wage for cab drivers.

The committee, headed by Ald. John A. Massen [48th] as chairman, had spent all morning in discussion of the noncontroversial features of the proposed ordinance. The aldermen intended to wait until all else had been settled before discussing the rate, the number of cab licenses to be issued, and whether to grant the five year franchise.

"Inasmuch as this is a contract ordinance and all our work will go for naught unless the cab companies accept it, and the mayor having veto power, I think we should discuss those provisions with the mayor before we go into them ourselves," said Oscar F. Nelson [46th].

Opposes Riding Five for 25 Cents.

"Yes," agreed Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th], "the mayor is in a position to get greater concessions from the cab companies than we are. He expects to tell them that they must take off every item of expense and operate so economically that they can afford a rate cut."

"I am for cheap and responsible operation of cabs," Mayor Kelly told a subcommittee of aldermen including Nelson, Arvey, and Thomas P. Keane [31st]. "But not so cheaply operated that they would compete with street cars. By that I mean that I don't think five persons should be able to take a ride for 25 cents.

"I think a charge of 25 cents for the first mile is sufficient. That would take a passenger all around the loop. The flag charge for the first period of the ride should not be more than 15 cents. Perhaps there should be a charge for extra passengers. The waiting charge should not be added to the bill until the expiration of the three minute period, so that there would be no charge for waiting two and three-quarter minutes.

"I don't want the rates based on high priced cabs, as that gives the manufacturers all the benefit. Companies buy high priced cabs and then say they should be permitted a rate sufficient to pay for the cab in a short time.

"As to the number of cabs permitted to operate, I think we should determine the number by the earnings of the drivers. If drivers are not enabled to make a living wage the number of cabs should be reduced. A cab not earning its keep and its driver's living should be taken off the streets.

"I don't think any firm should be given licenses to operate here for the duration of the World's Fair only. Under the contract ordinance we will have reliable companies operating here that intend to keep on operating and not quit the field after the rush of business is over."

The mayor's attention was called to a bill passed by the lower house of the legislature and now pending in the senate which would take jurisdiction over cabs from the city and place it with the state commerce commission. He said he is going to Springfield today and he will seek to have the bill killed, at least in so far as it concerns taxicabs.

The taxicab committee is to meet again this morning in the expectation of recommending an ordinance which will meet the mayor's approval and which will be acceptable to the cab companies.

BREWER, FREED BY KIDNAP GANG, HAS FEW CLEWS

Says He Saw but Little of Abductors.

was: 'If you value Mr. Hamm's life and you don't want him killed, you better pay up.'

"The third one came Saturday afternoon about 4 o'clock. It was delivered to L. J. Sullwold's garage. Sullwold was an employé of the Hamm company. The note was found in an automobile in the garage after a telephone call informed Charles to that effect.

"In the telephone conversation we were informed that we would be given telephone instructions Saturday night. We got the instructions between 8 and 9 o'clock, and they came by telephone."

Ransom Amount Not Revealed.

Negotiators then prevailed upon the abductors to take less than the $100,000 they demanded, but Charles refused to reveal how much was decided upon and paid. Hamm has not yet been told, and Charles said he would advise against ever making the amount public.

Acting under instructions from the kidnapers, Dunn then went to Duluth Saturday night. From a hotel room there he carried on negotiations with the kidnapers.

Following orders of the kidnapers the ransom car was driven south from Duluth. The driver was instructed to kick the money out of his automobile when another machine passed him and gave a certain signal.

Ransom Kicked from Car.

Between Rush City and Pine City two automobiles passed the ransom car. When the occupants apparently satisfied themselves the ransom car carried only the driver and the money, the signal for delivery of the ransom was given and the money bag was kicked out as the ransom car driver kept going.

One of the kidnapers' automobiles was a red roadster without license plates. Two men rode in it. The other contained several men.

After making the delivery the ransom car returned to Duluth and Dunn awaited word from the kidnapers. This came Sunday, while at the same time the abductors told Hamm in the unlocated house that they had "some good news for you."

The "news" was the payment of the ransom and promise of his freedom. He was supposed to have been freed Sunday morning, but for some unaccountable reason was kept prisoner.

Shortly before 7 a. m. today Dunn, still in Duluth, was advised by the kidnapers that Hamm was freed. Hamm by that time already had been found near Wyoming by St. Paul police and returned home about 8:30 a. m.

LOOT LOOP STORE WINDOW.

TELLS STORY OF KIDNAPING

(Copyright: 1933: By the Associated Press.)

St. Paul, Minn., June 19.—(AP)—The following was written for the Associated Press by William Hamm, millionaire president of the Theodore Hamm Brewing company, who was held nearly four days by kidnapers, who originally demanded $100,000 ransom.

"From the time I was kidnaped by two men and another man who was driving their automobile shortly after noon last Thursday I never was abused. They treated me kindly all the time.

"I was surprised as two men came up to me about 12:45 p. m., last Thursday. One of them said 'hello, Mr. Hamm,' and, after shaking hands, one grabbed me on each side and they put me into a car.

"They were not rough with me but they convinced me I ought to go. I had only a fleeting impression of the two men's appearances, although one of them resembled Verne Sankey. I couldn't be sure of course.

"I didn't take particular notice of the kind of car I was put in. I'm not up on all the automobiles. I didn't see any guns but I felt one against me during the ride out of town.

Made To Lie Down in Car.

"When I entered the car, they made me lie on the bottom of the automobile after putting a white hood over my eyes. I am not sure which way they headed out of town.

"I couldn't say how long a drive we took, but it seemed about eight hours, and the same time coming back today when three men again were in the car with me. There wasn't very much conversation during the ride back.

"After we had gone about 30 miles out of St. Paul we stopped and met another car. There were several men in it. There I signed four ransom notes while laying on the bottom of the machine.

"Then they took off the hood and placed some goggles over my eyes. They were taken off just before we pulled up to the house where I was held. I couldn't recognize any of the country we went through because I had those goggles on my eyes all the time and they were covered inside with cotton.

"Finally, after I had been driven quite a long time, we stopped at a house. It was a two story house somewhere in Northern Minnesota, although for a time I had thought it was in Wisconsin. The windows were boarded up.

"It was dark. There was a light in the room where I was put. The room was furnished simply and the house looked like a farmhouse or a city home. It might have been a farmhouse on the outskirts of the city. I heard traffic noises.

"They came in to see me in the room any time I wanted anything. I called them when I wanted something and they treated me nicely. I asked for anything I wanted and ordered anything I wanted.

"It is hard to say how old the men were, for I got only fleeting glimpses of them. Every time they came into the room I had to turn my face to the wall or face the side opposite from the kidnapers. I believe there were five or six men all together.

Informed on Negotiations.

"They kept me informed as to the progress of the negotiations. Sunday afternoon about 3 o'clock they came up and told me they had some 'good news.' That was that the ransom money had been paid. I don't even know how much money was paid. I had good simple meals during my imprisonment; nothing elaborate.

"That night, Sunday, we started out after dark, two men, the driver, and myself. They put the goggles back on me and after another ride they left me out at Wyoming on the main highway. I had some money. They made no effort to take it from me while I was a prisoner. They didn't say anything after letting me go and it was kind of dark so I couldn't see what kind of a car was used.

"I landed in Wyoming early this morning and there I called my home. It was about 5:30 in the morning then, O, yes, the men did say something when they let me out. One said: 'If there is anything we can do to help you, Mr. Hamm, just let us know.'

"After a little while the police came and took me home. I never saw a newspaper while I was held prisoner and I didn't hear any conversations about any other kidnapings.

"I don't think I could find the place where I was held prisoner. I am happy to be home again."

CHILD'S MOTHER TELLS STORY OF GIRL'S KIDNAPING

Barnstable, Mass., June 19.—[Special.]—Mrs. Margaret McMath faced the kidnapers of her 10 year old daughter, Peggy, today in Superior court and gave evidence against them. Kenneth Buck and his brother Cyril, both of Harwichport, are the defendants.

The efforts of defense attorneys are toward absolving Cyril of guilt in the crime, and it is said to be their intention to have Kenneth testify in favor of his brother, who was the contact man and Mrs. McMath's companion when the child was restored to her.

Mrs. McMath told of receiving a telephone call from a supposed lineman who asked her to leave the receiver off the hook for ten minutes. It was during that time that Peggy was taken from school, and the move was to prevent a call by the teacher to the McMath home. The mother said she became alarmed when the child did not return home on the school bus, and, going to the school, learned Peggy had been allowed to leave early because of a telephone call.

She told of telephoning her father, William R. Kales, in Detroit and arranging through Ralph Snow, local banker, to get $70,000 ransom money from her father.

Miss Gertrude Collins, court clerk, testified to taking a stenographic confession from Kenneth Buck.

"How could you do such a thing?" she said she asked him.

"I hadn't had a job in a year and I was desperate," she said he answered.

3 County Commissioners See Project as Wasteful

Opposition to the inclusion of the proposed $2,000,000 Cook County Nurses' home in the list of projects recommended for construction with funds obtained from federal loans under the three billion three hundred million dollar public works program was voiced yesterday by three county commissioners. Commissioners Charles H. Weber, Amelia Sears, and Daniel Ryan pledged themselves to vote against the project.

"The present plans call for luxury which is entirely out of keeping with the spirit of the times," Commissioner Weber said. "While the federal program is designed to help public works, I doubt that the proposed home comes under such a classification.

Urges Saving of Tax Money.

"The plans call for a penthouse, swimming pools, lounging rooms, a telephone in every room, and other conveniences found only in the best of clubs. Further, the bids were let at prices of several years ago. These are far too high. While the present facilities for the nurses are not what they should be, there is no reason they should have a palace built for them. I am in favor of not building the home at all and saving taxpayers' money."

Miss Sears said contractors might sue the county if construction proceeded under new bids. For this reason she, too, declared the project should be abandoned at this time. Commissioner Ryan expressed himself against the nurses' home because he considers the cost far too high.

Commission O. K.'s Projects.

The governor's unemployment commission has approved the project, together with seven other projects for Cook county, totaling $74,582,950. The others are: $36,450,000 for the sanitary district's sewage treatment program; $1,500,000 for forest preserve improvements; $7,182,850 for the south park board for the outer drive bridge; $2,000,000 for the Lincoln park board for the same purpose; $22,000,000 for the city filtration plant, $3,250,000 for the Ashland avenue bridge and $200,000 for the Illinois waterway terminal.

The commission also has recommended 22 downstate projects to cost $5,457,050. These are:

Apple river, water works	$ 35,000
Beardstown, water works	40,050

New York, June 19.—[Special.]—Max D. Steuer, defense counsel, asked the federal trial jury today to exonerate Charles E. Mitchell of the government's charges of evading 1929 and 1930 income taxes amounting to $800,000.

Mr. Steuer pictures the government as seeking to "make Mitchell a criminal" because of his prominence, in order to satisfy public agitation, whereas others are permitted to contest the government's demands for additional taxes, without being indicted. The prosecution, he asserted, has presented no proof of Mr. Mitchell's guilt—only "insinuations, innuendoes, inferences, and suspicions."

On the other hand, Mr. Steuer pictured the banker as one who had got into financial difficulties from the highest motive, sacrificing his personal fortune to save his company—"The company first, the company last, the company all the time." As a result, he said, Mr. Mitchell's fortune of more than $20,000,000 had been lost and he had been plunged into debt to the extent of $6,000,000.

Within Rights, He Says.

It was the defendant's "absolute right, ethically as well as legally," Mr. Steuer declared, to register some of these losses for income tax purposes by his private sales of stock to his wife and to W. D. Thornton, president of the Greene Cananea Copper company. The lawyer defended these sales as legal and bona fide in intent and purpose.

Mr. Steuer emphasized that Mr. Mitchell had obtained the best legal advice available before making these sales and before deciding not to report the receipt of $666,666.67 from the National City company management fund in July, 1929.

The offices of the internal revenue bureau at Washington had approved the treatment of the $666,666.67 management fund item as an advance and not income in the case of Stanley A. Russell, a vice president of the National City company, Mr. Steuer pointed out.

Defends Sale to Wife.

Mr. Steuer devoted most of his summation to the Mrs. Mitchell transaction. Analyzing the sale of 18,300 shares of National City bank stock by Mr. Mitchell to Mrs. Mitchell on Dec. 20, 1929.

Mr. Mitchell's dilemma was, the lawyer said, that he could not sell in the open market, yet he had the right to sell to establish his tax loss.

Mr. Steuer argued that the sale to Mrs. Mitchell did not and could not defraud the government. If the stock had been sold in the open market, he pointed out, $212 was the highest that could have been obtained per share, which would have meant that Mr. Mitchell would have paid no tax, the same result as from the sale to Mrs. Mitchell.

Geo. Z. Medalie, the government prosecutor, will address the jury tomorrow. Justice Henry W. Goddard will deliver his charge on Wednesday.

Why risk your life when blow-out protection is FREE?

Tests prove this new tire is 3 times safer at high speeds

The new Goodrich Life-Saver Golden Ply resists heat . . . makes the new Goodrich Silvertown 3 times safer from blow-outs at high speeds.

YOU may never go faster than 40. But that doesn't mean that you can't have a blow-out . . . or that you're safe from the awful results.

What causes blow-outs?

Today's high speeds—40, 50, 60 and 70—generate terrific heat inside the tire. Rubber and fabric separate. A blister forms . . . and GROWS. Then suddenly it happens . . . BANG! A blow-out. And a terrible drag pulls your car off the road.

But now Goodrich has perfected the Life-Saver Golden Ply. This invention resists intense heat. Rubber and fabric don't separate. Thus, blisters don't form. Blow-outs are prevented by eliminating their cause.

At gruelling speeds on the world's fastest track, the new Goodrich Silvertowns, with the Life-Saver Golden Ply, lasted 3 times as long as first quality tires that did not have this feature. These Silvertowns never blew. They were run till the tread was gone—but the Life-Saver Golden Ply refused to give.

Safest non-skid tread

The tread, too, is safer from skidding. Scientific tests prove that the new Goodrich Silvertown has the most skid-resisting tread. Its squeegee drying action gives your car extra road-grip and reduces danger of skidding to a minimum.

Goodrich Safety Silvertowns cost no more than other standard tires. Why take chances? That blister—that blow-out in the making may be in your tires right now! Put a set on your car . . . and BE SAFE!

DISCORD DELAYS ADJOURNMENT OF ILLINOIS HOUSE

Differ on Precedence Given Certain Bills.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 19.—[Special.]—Efforts to send the house on a flying start toward adjournment this week ended abruptly tonight in discord.

What was expected to be a meeting extending into the late evening was terminated by a general demand that further business be postponed, which arose when Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski [Dem., Chicago] demanded that a minor bill called up be read in full. This was his method of protest against the refusal of Speaker Roe to recognize his motion calling the administration utilities regulation bill for final action ahead of other measures.

Adamowski was present at an informal conference at which it was decided to put full speed behind not only the utilities bill but also the administration's new 2 per cent sales tax measure.

He became indignant when Speaker Roe continued to recognize the sponsors of bills which hadn't been discussed in conference, and apparently lost his temper completely when the presiding officer gave priority to a bill to prohibit the use of silencers on hunting rifles.

Adamowski Stops Routine.

"I move that that bill be read in full," Adamowski shouted.

"But why?" asked its astonished sponsor, John D. Upchurch [Dem., Eldorado]. "There is nothing wrong with this bill."

"I insist on my motion," Adamowski declared.

In the succeeding hubbub John P. Devine [Dem., Dixon] moved adjournment until tomorrow morning, and unanimous assent followed.

After adjournment the speaker explained that he had "merely been keeping promises made to members before Adamowski spoke to me about the bill in which he was interested."

"It is my intention to let the house go right ahead tomorrow with both the administration's policy measures," Roe added.

In spite of this breaking up of the schedule, the house did accomplish considerable work, although it took final action on no senate measures.

Pass Several House Bills.

Those passed were house bills. A number in which Chicago is particularly interested were sanctioned. They include:

1. The $40,000,000 board of education bond issue for the working cash fund, which will pave the way for payment of teachers and other employés. Representative Raymond T. O'Keefe [Dem., Chicago] engineered this bill through third reading by a vote of 81 to 9.

2. The Bolton bill, creating four year terms for Chicago aldermen, which would affect new councilmen elected in 1935. John M. Bolton [Dem., Chicago] declared the bill would save $500,000 each biennium. Minority Leader Schnackenberg protested, but the house passed the bill, 81 to 18.

3. The three bills setting up the Illinois housing commission, through which Illinois could ask loans for tenement replacement from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The bills had the warm support of the State Federation of Labor.

4. The truck regulation bill, which would put passenger and freight motor carriers under control of the Illinois commerce commission.

5. A Burns economy bill, reducing the salary of the lieutenant-governor from $5,000 to $4,500.

6. One of the Sinnett bills, creating a superintendent of real property liens and mortgage investments in the department of finance. This bill grew from extensive hearings held in Chicago.

1,993 GET DEGREES AT U. OF MICHIGAN; HONOR VETERAN, 93

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 19.—[Special.]—At the eighty-ninth annual commencement exercises today 1,993 graduated from the University of Michigan were awarded diplomas and 16 received honorary degrees.

George Mason, 93 year old civil war veteran of Chicago, was awarded the degree of master of arts, 72 years after his class graduated from the university.

Mr. Mason attended the university and would have graduated with the class of 1861 when the civil war started. After being advised by President Henry P. Tappan, first chief executive of the university, that it would be advisable for him to enlist in the Union army, Mr. Mason left school a few weeks before commencement to train for service.

Mr. Mason was a director of the Chicago public library from 1874 to 1880. He is still in active business.

1,100 Graduate at Wisconsin.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., June 19.—[Special.]—More than 1,100 University of Wisconsin seniors were graduated today with bachelor degrees in the presence of about 6,000 parents and friends in the university fieldhouse. An additional 500 higher degrees were conferred.

Seven honorary degrees were given to persons prominent in political, social, economic, and scientific fields. In conferring these degrees Glenn Frank, president of the university, outlined the achievements of each person receiving them.

Those given honorary degrees were Rufus C. Dawes, president of A Century of Progress; Edna St. Vincent Millay, poetess; James Aston, scientist; Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor; Eva A. Evans, judge in the Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago; Guy Stanton Ford, dean of the University of Minnesota graduate school, and Henry C. Taylor, agricultural economist.

OFFICIALS GOING TO CAPITAL TODAY TO PUSH BILLS

Mayor Kelly, State's Attorney Courtney, Patrick A. Nash, chairman of the county Democratic organization, and A. J. Horan, bailiff of the Municipal court, will go to Springfield today to urge the legislature to adopt financial relief bills for Cook county.

Among these bills are two designed to repair the damage to the salability of tax warrants caused by the board of appeals' order for a 15 per cent cut on assessments of homes and small flat buildings, which has caused banks to refuse to buy more tax warrants.

One of the bills would prohibit the appeals board from making further horizontal or blanket assessment cuts in real estate assessments.

RECEIVER HIRES EIGHT LAW FIRMS FOR SINGLE CASE

Action Started Against Lawyers by Jarecki.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday totaled $486,666. The collections for the day and the total of uncollected taxes for four years as shown in the following table:

June 19	$ 47,440	$ 111,695
Uncollected	19,299,919	50,632,297
	1930.	1931.
June 19	$ 135,611	$ 191,920
Uncollected	81,896,134	113,461,849

The discovery that eight law firms had been engaged as counsel to advise the receiver concerning a piece of property upon which only $6,313 in back taxes are due caused County Judge Jarecki yesterday to order all lawyers in the case to be made defendants in informations to be filed by Assistant State's Attorney William T. Crilly.

The property is at 1504 North Dearborn street, owned by Minnie H. Wile. The Straus National Bank and Trust company was appointed receiver for the property in June, 1931, and the eight law firms have been retained since then. The case came before Judge Jarecki on a petition to appoint County Treasurer McDonough as receiver to collect income to pay the back taxes.

Orders Informations Filed.

Scanning the records in the case, Judge Jarecki noted the many lawyers in the case.

"We'd better find out here how much of the income from the property has gone for legal expenses," he directed Prosecutor Crilly. "File informations against all these lawyers in order that they may explain where the income has gone and why the back taxes have not been paid."

The eight firms named in the informations were the following: Butz, Von Ammon & Marx, Levisohn & Levisohn, Silbert, Isaacs & Woley, William J. Sheridan, Lester L. Bauer, James W. Cutshaw, Rothman & Mintz, and Ernest W. Clark.

Judge Jarecki also threw eight properties into tax receiverships during the day so that the income might be collected to pay delinquent taxes. The eight properties are:

7631 Greenview avenue, owing $8,244.
58 E. Oak street, owing $8,848.
659 North State street, owing $10,339.
613 Cass street, owing $7,491.
Textile Building, 139 South Wells street, owing $5,934.

Several taxpayers paid a total of approximately $25,000 in back taxes yesterday in order to avoid tax receiverships.

Find Many Can't Pay.

At least 50 per cent of the properties taken into receivership by the county treasurer under Judge Jarecki's orders have been found to be in such poor economic condition that there is no hope of payment of taxes out of the income, according to a report by County Treasurer McDonough yesterday. Among the properties found to be worthless for receivership purposes were the following:

The county treasurer will confer with Judge Jarecki regarding these properties and suggest that the tax receiverships be vacated and the properties offered for sale for taxes.

TWO HELD AS ROBBERY SUSPECTS.

Bradford Fields, 16 years old, 847 Cornelia avenue, and Paul Patsky, 18, of 660 Roscoe street, were held as robbery suspects yesterday at the Town Hall police station after they were arrested in an automobile in which a revolver was found.

HAWAII READY FOR MAINLANDER TO GOVERN ISLES

View Shifts; Roosevelt's Popularity Factor.

BY JACK MORROW.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WAILUKU, MAUI, T. H., June 19.—The Roosevelt administration's unsuccessful attempt to get a bill through congress amending the organic act of Hawaii to permit the appointment of a "mainlander" as governor has revealed a surprising change of public opinion in the islands. Instead of becoming wildly excited over the prospect of being ruled by a nonresident or "carpetbagger" under a commission form of government, most residents of Hawaii observed President Roosevelt's move with an amazing calm.

There is little likelihood, either, if the present attitude continues, that a second attempt will arouse much agitation in opposition.

A year ago an attempt to appoint a nonresident governor would have been strenuously opposed.

Investigation tends to show that this remarkable switch of opinion may be attributed to three causes, first, failure of the Democratic leaders here to agree upon a gubernatorial candidat; second, disappointment, not to say disgust, at the antics of the last legislature; third, the popularity here of Mr. Roosevelt and a faith that he will work out the problems of Hawaii to the territory's best interests.

Ruction among the Democrats had its origin in the last elections. The leaders believed that the failure of the Democratic national convention at Chicago to include a home rule plank for Hawaii in the platform meant defeat locally. As a result, they nominated Lincoln McCandless for delegate to Washington, believing he would lose, but agreeing privately that he should be first choice for governor of Hawaii if Mr. Roosevelt was elected.

McCandless, however, was elected. It was then proposed to amend the organic act so that McCandless could resign, be appointed as governor and also dictate his choice as delegate to Washington. But at this point the rift developed. John H. Wilson and J. Walter Doyle, new collector of customs, and influential Democrats led opposition to such a scheme. Consequently the party floundered.

The legislature helped along this change of attitude toward outside government by failing to balance the budget, by levying a one-half of 1 per cent tax on earned and unearned incomes, and by tinkering with the educational system.

The third factor in the surprising tolerance of outside control is the popularity of Mr. Roosevelt. This is due partly to the feeling that he will "take care" of the sugar industry.

San Francisco, Cal., June 19.—(AP)—Hershell E. Aldridge, resident of the Base hospital at Palo Alto, was upheld by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals today on his contention that a telegraph company employé had no right to disclose to his finacée the contents of a message showing he had been previously married.

But the court ruled he was entitled to only $1 damages, instead of $500 previously awarded in District court against the Western Union Telegraph company.

YOUNG LAWYERS LAMPOON ELDERS IN SKITS TONIGHT

Younger members of the Chicago Bar association put aside their briefs and law books last night for grease paint and whiskers to lampoon their elders in a dress rehearsal of "Felonies of 2933." The musical comedy, which centers satire on receiverships, alimony and the association's board of managers, is to be presented tonight and tomorrow night in the bar headquarters in the Burnham building.

In the prologue a group of law students of 2933 listen to the thesis of a fellow student, who has been conducting an archeological research into legal proceedure in Cook county in 1933. His researches are revealed in the scenes which follow.

The first scene is in the chambers of Judge Sisters. The judge is bickering with an alderman over the appointment of a master in chancery while a thronged courtroom awaits his taking the bench. The appointment is made only when the alderman proposes a nephew of the judge. Ward committeemen dictate his position on the election of a south park commissioner, and preferred lawyers secure audiences in chambers.

Sings "Lily White Judge."

The judge, portrayed by Dean Terril, sings "A Lily White Judge Am I," which includes the lines:

"All I do is pass out fat plums
By making receivers out of bums."

The second scene is in the office of Master in Chancery Harvey [William H. Miller] as 21 hearings are in progress in the anterooms of his suite. The master is shown reaping fees so great that he can loan millions of dollars to bankers to enable banks to remain open.

Another scene is laid in the offices of the Windy City Title company, of which Miss Prettibones [Kathryn Barassa] is president. Still another scene burlesques the processes of foreclosure in showing men of various occupations doing the work of other professions.

Gibe at Members of Bar Board.

The board of managers of the association is gibed at in being represented at a mock meeting as so overburdened with the weight of its importance that its members disregard all laws and all courts and pass pronouncements overriding all authority. At the conclusion of the meeting the managers join in the chorus of "We're the Self Appointed Saviors of the Law."

Alimony is hit in the portrayal of a trial before Judge Sisters. His colleague, Judge Straw, comes before the bar to ask an increase in alimony from his wife. The increase is granted only after the pledge that a portion of the increase will go to Judge Sister's campaign fund.

The comedy is the work of Attorneys George W. Gale, Theodore Adler and Morton Schaeffer. It is dedicated to those at whom the fun is poked "with malice toward none and humor for all." All who participate in the production have been members of the association for less than six years.

STEAMSHIP LINE CELEBRATES ITS 75TH BIRTHDAY

The 75th anniversary of the North German Lloyd steamship line was celebrated yesterday at the company's offices, 130 West Randolph street. Seventy-five years ago yesterday the first Bremen, a three masted steamer of 2,687 tons, made its maiden voyage to New York from Germany, carrying 22 cabin and 93 steerage passengers.

Since then 9,998,100 passengers have crossed the ocean on Lloyd ships. The company's vessels have made 8,253 round trips across the Atlantic. The first Bremen required 12 days and 10 hours to cross, while the present Bremen, an express liner and the fourth vessel of the Lloyd company to bear the name, makes the trip in 4½ days.

"That's our 75 year record of progress," said H. N. Roeser at the agency yesterday.

MRS. MABEL WILLEBRANDT.

New York, June 19.—[Special.]—Trial of a $200,000 libel suit brought against Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt, former assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition enforcement, was started here today. Gus O. Nations, St. Louis attorney and former chief of the prohibition enforcement bureau in that city, brought suit which is being heard before Federal Judge Patterson and a jury.

Mr. Nations alleges that he was defamed by Mrs. Willebrandt in an article, published in newspapers throughout the country, in which, according to his attorney's statement in his opening address today, she termed him "a crooked but popular prohibition agent."

RELIEF FAMILIES RAISE 1,925,170 BU. VEGETABLES

Families on the relief rolls in 62 downstate counties are raising 1,925,170 bushels of vegetables this summer, according to estimates made yesterday by J. C. Readey, director of subsistence gardens for the Illinois emergency relief commission.

"While a part of these vegetables will be used during the summer months as they mature, a large volume of them will be available for storage and canning for fall and winter use," Mr. Readey said. "Community canning centers will be set up in many counties."

The estimated yield is 113,876 bushels of beans, 186,780 bushels of beets, 247,250 bushels of cabbages, 198,400 bushels of carrots, 184,800 bushels of corn, 123,200 bushels of onions, 25,800 bushels of parsnips, 516,120 bushels of potatoes, and 328,944 bushels of tomatoes.

Illinois Gets $2,829,549.

Washington, D. C., June 19.—[Special.]—The federal government today handed out $8,639,168 to five states, including Illinois, for carrying on their emergency relief activities.

Illinois' share of the total advance was $2,829,549, which brought the amount thus far granted to the state under the Wagner-Costigan-La Follette direct relief bill to $7,434,663.

BRITISH HONOR PRESIDENT OF U. S. DECORATORS

William R. Moore of Chicago, president of the American Institute of Interior Decorators, was awarded an honoary fellowship in the Incorporated Institute of British Decorators at the second annual conference of the American organization last night in the Drake hotel. This honor, bestowed for the first time on a foreigner, was announced by Henry G. Dowling, president of the British group, at a banquet last night. It was conferred because of Mr. Moore's unique services rendered to art, Mr. Dowling stated.

At the same time Mr. Dowling presented to the American institute as a gift from the English decorating body a 123 year old ivory and ebony gavel which once belonged to the United Parish club and is believed to have been used by some of England's greatest men.

The national convention of interior decorators will continue throughout the week at the Drake, closing on Friday with a tour of the north shore in buses, and ending with a dinner-dance at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

SPEAKER URGES GREATER UNITY AMONG U. S. JEWS

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The 1,200 delegates to the biennial convention of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations—the coöperative agency among the Reform synagogues of the country—considered plans yesterday whereby the branches of American Judaism hereafter may make concerted pronouncements on matters pertaining to Jewish welfare throughout the world.

Roughly, Judaism is at present divided into three branches: Orthodox, Conservative, and Reform. It was pointed out last night by Dr. Abraham Hirschberg of Temple Sholom that in such an international situation as that arising from Nazi persecution of German Jews there has been "no united voice of protest from American Judaism." Dr. Hirschberg added that often great damage is caused by hurriedly called mass meetings of protest.

Makes Proposal for Unity.

A proposal aimed at the correction of this situation was made by Ludwig Vogelstein, of New York, chairman of the union, in his opening address before the convention, which is being held in the Stevens hotel. He urged that the existing Synagogue Council of America represent the opinion of Jews of America on all questions affecting the rights of Jews throughout the world. Mr. Vogelstein recalled the previous appeal to the same end made by Judge Horace Stern at the last convention in Philadelphia.

"Sooner or later," said Mr. Vogelstein, "we must learn the truth that our supreme distinction in the world-wide spread of Jewry is our religion. If the Jewish religion is the supreme tie which holds us together, then the synagogue should be our mouthpiece. Orthodoxy, Conservatism, and Reform have a common platform—Judaism."

Mr. Vogelstein asserted that attempts had been made to unite Israel for causes and on bases which were not universal in their appeal to Jews. He referred to widespread differences of opinion concerning Zionism and the Zionist plan for the rehabilitation of Palestine as the possible focus of world-wide Jewish loyalty. The influential Reform groups have not shown great enthusiasm for the Zionist movement.

Represents Three Divisions.

The only agency representing the three divisions of American Jewry, Mr. Vogelstein said, is the Synagogue council. Because the council is founded on the religion, Judaism, and because it is composed of representatives of Orthodox, Reform, and Conservative Jewry, Mr. Vogelstein declared it to be the logical "mouthpiece of American Jews."

The convention will close on Thursday. Last night a symposium on the topic, "Religion Tomorrow," was opened. The speakers were Dr. Max C. Currick, of Erie, Pa., and Dr. Jacob Marcus, of the Hebrew Union college, Cincinnati.

THE AIR RACES.

The American Air Races, being staged by the Chicago Air Race corporation under the sponsorship of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be held at Chicago airport, 63d street and Cicero avenue, from July 1 to 4 inclusive. More than 300 of the nation's leading racing and stunt pilots and many of the country's best parachute jumpers will participate in the event. Cash prizes totaling $20,000 have been posted for four stock model races, six free for all races for specially built racing craft, and four precision landing parachute contests. In addition there will be a program of aerobatics including the following outstanding performers: Bennett Griffin, who flew to Russia with James Mattern last year; Art J. Davis, veteran racing pilot Roy Hunt, winner of last year's Cord cup race George T. Burrell Jr., who stunts a Ford trimotor transport plane; Frank Faulkner, who loops an autogiro; Capt. Richard Granere, formerly of the British Royal Flying corps, who does "crazy" flying; Bettie Lund, foremost woman stunt pilot of the country; Bob Moore, who flies a Beachey model pusher plane, and John Livingston, who has won more air races than any other pilot, who does aerobatics at 300 miles an hour, diving his racing plane from a height of 4,000 feet into difficult maneuvers close to the ground.

Air racing has done more than any other branch of aviation to develop the industry from its purely military status at the close of the world war into the present network of commercial air lines. The new knowledge of aerodynamics, which permits the construction of planes carrying ten passengers and cargoes of mail, baggage, and express at 190 miles an hour, has been gained on the proving ground of the air racing course, where motors have been developed to their highest efficiency and designs have been refined to their greatest perfection. Although pilots have been killed in the pursuance of this "sport," their sacrifices have helped to pave the way of aviation to new levels of safety and efficiency.

From an educational viewpoint the air races will mark a new advance in such events. The spectator will see the new fast types of transport planes which are flying from coast to coast in twenty hours as they arrive and depart on their scheduled runs. The announcer on the public address system will describe these transports in detail, explaining the extent to which commercial aviation in the United States has developed until it surpasses the service in any other nation. Between the arrivals and departures of these air liners the racing and stunting program will be run off. Entered in the races are all types of stock model airplanes, from small single seater planes to large semi-commercial types, all of the latest design and with the new, powerful motors. These will be demonstrated for the spectator around a five mile closed course. In the races for specially built racing craft the spectator will see tiny planes which appear to be all motor tearing around the closed course at speeds of from 200 to 250 miles an hour. These races are very thrilling; they represent the testing of the newest thought in motor engineering and plane design under the most grueling conditions that can be created, at wide open throttle. The motors used in the races of today will help to make possible tomorrow's flivver plane, in which airplane travel is expected to become as economical for the average American as automobile travel over long distances.

The stunting exhibitions are demonstrations of the skill and precision of the individual pilots they demonstrate the maneuverability of modern aircraft and reflect the power of the army air corps as a weapon of national defense. Each race, each maneuver, is to be described in full by the announcer on the public address system, so that the spectators will be able to understand the rapidly moving program to the fullest extent.

The value of the races is enhanced considerably by the fact that the spectators will be able to see during one afternoon two elements in the development of aviation in the United States. Before them they will see the proving ground in operation and also the finished product—new high speed transport planes which rush the mail, passengers, and express across the country day and night at their daily work.

A PORTRAIT OF HUEY LONG.

Senator Long of Louisiana was distinguished in the closing days of the session by having his portrait presented to the other Conscript Fathers. The painter was Brig. Gen. Samuel Tilden Ansell, retired, former acting advocate general of the army. The medium was a petition to the senate asking that the moral character and works of the Louisiana Kingfish be investigated. Gen. Ansell was counsel for the committee appointed by the senate to investigate charges of corruption in the state primaries. In consequence of thse activities he really met the Kingfish face to face.

It might have been thought that Ansell, being engaged in a senate inquiry, would have some protection, but Huey took to the floor to say things of him which exceeded any license the oldest timer ever had known to be made of privilege. Huey said he would not claim immunity, but when he was sued he scurried for senatorial protection. Ansell was left on Capitol hill as the victim of the hit and run bayou boy.

His petition for an investigation of Huey's moral character has a bit of privilege on its side and makes the most of it, going into the Kingfish's private life and public acts to show cause for an inquiry into his qualifications for a seat in the senate. It is always uncertain how sensitive the senate will be found as to a member's eligibility. If the Conscript Fathers need him or are afraid of him they are likely to find him an admirable mixture of the virtues. If they are sick and tired of him they view him with less admiration. Generally the clubby feeling prevails, once a man is in.

Reports of Huey's nuisance value preceded him to Washington. He at once demonstrated that report was neither informed nor imaginative.

LOCAL INTEGRITY AND FEDERAL AID.

The taxpayers of the nation will be glad to learn that the federal relief dictatorship has been moved to warn state officials that they will be expected to restrain their expectations and put some reasonable restrictions upon their plans of expenditure. At best the possibilities of extravagance and political manipulation on a scale never known before, even in our own recent experience, can be foreseen by any one who gives any thought to our political conditions. The federal dictatorship will have to be abnormally alert and resolute if a scandalous exploitation of federal aid is not to affect the benefits hoped for by the administration.

Director Hopkins weighted his general appeal for moderation with some concrete rules which would check some of the more obvious possibilities if strictly enforced. He suggests, for example, that persons no longer in need should be removed from the rolls. This and the whole question of drafts upon the federal funds will depend upon the integrity and firmness of the local administrators upon whom the plan depends. The state organizations are made chiefly responsible for determining local relief needs and for administration, and this obviously opens the way to political spoilsmanship and self-interested pressures on a vast scale in the aggregate. But if local citizenship is awake and conscious of its responsibility in this situation it will be able to keep these wasteful and destructive influences within bounds. It is a test of the basic character of American democracy, which is that of local responsibility, and every community should now brace itself to fulfill its duty. The defeat of graft and self-interest, of waste and perversion in public projects calls for the vigilance and determined public spirit of the communities, in short, of militant good citizenship. Without it the whole program of relief and restoration will break down and our new state will be worse than that from which we are painfully fighting our way out.

THEY DIDN'T TAKE IT SERIOUSLY.

It is reported that the proposal of the German minister of economics at the London conference for the restoration of the German colonies in Africa was not taken seriously. We can believe it. Loot is not readily restored by the beneficiaries. Nevertheless what he said is sound policy and deserved the respectful treatment an assembly of self-seeking governments was unwilling to give it. That it was ignored throws a light not much needed upon the character of the conference and its fate should have significance for Americans while we are waiting to see what the boys in the back rooms are getting ready to offer us.

The restoration of the German colonies would give to that country an opportunity for expansion which it is competent to exploit efficiently. The notion that a people like the Germans can be compressed within the limits of boundaries set in the 18th century without creating a dangerous force in Europe and at the same time weakening the economic as well as the social and political structure of Europe is one of those products of war madness of which the peace treaties of 1919 were such deplorable examples. We in America who have been rebuked so liberally in recent years for refusing to embrace all self-serving proposals from Europe on the principle that the nations are interdependent and that no nation can prosper in the destruction of another's prosperity would be more impressed if Dr. Hugenberg's remarks on the same theme were not received with contempt at London. Their reception will remind our people that the moral exhortation to which we have been subjected is for our consumption only and need not detain us.

The Other Side

[Sioux City (Ia.) Journal.]

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE suggests that the industrial control and public works bill obviously is the beginning of a Fascist revolution in this country. It points out that the legislation gives the chief executive the authority to supervise the quantity of goods to be produced, the prices at which they will sell, the markets into which they will move, and the wages that are to be paid the workers who produce them. To THE TRIBUNE that is Fascism.

Perhaps it is Fascism for the federal government to undertake such supervision of the economic and industrial structure of the country. Maybe President Roosevelt is some kind of Mussolini to undertake to order how the current of national life shall flow. One may admit this to be true and yet one may find it difficult to explain just why Washington should hesitate to take the steps indicated.

Even THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE surely would admit that as a nation and people we could not go on as we have been going, that something had to be done and that, everything else having failed to function in the national interest, it obviously became the duty of the government to take the lead in behalf of the people. Industry did nothing to alleviate the suffering. Capital neglected its own duty. Business and financial leaders were lethargic in spite of appeals and warnings sounded throughout the country for the last two years. Now the government is acting, and if it succeeds no one should care whether it has done it with Fascism or some other ism. What the people want is results.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

SOMETIMES it seems a little sad to us forgotten men that the dreams we dreamt in childhood and in college and the high hopes of our parents and our teachers came to nothing and we are just old, old sawhorses going up four feet in the treadmill and then sliding back four feet and we do that all day long and day after day and we never got anywhere and we never will get anywhere. But, anyhow, bandits don't kidnap us and seal our mouths with tire tape and rap us on the bean and take us to a dank, dark, dirty cellar and threaten to cut our hearts out if the family doesn't come across with fifty or a hundred thousand simoleons. It seems tough to be poor, but after all it's nice to feel certain that if one ever does get kidnaped the villains will stop in the next block, light a match and give us the once over and then say, disgustedly: "Hell's bells! This hain't the right guy. We couldn't collect two dollars and thirty cents on him. Give 'im a kick in the pants and throw 'im out." Yes, life has its compensations after all.

NEW VISTAS.

A day will come, in not undreamed of years,
When men shall wake with singing on their lips.
Their toil will bloom with hope, uncursed by fears;
They will not labor to the tune of whips;
They will not close their days as battered ships.
Then all shall be as gods, Olympus-born,
And joy shall grace each heart. As beauty drips
From Summer dawns, so from the fields of corn

Then lust will die, and gold will lose its lure.
No soul will gloat while others starve for bread.
The lore of love will prove the ample cure
For all earth's ills, now meetly harvested.
And every child, still bright with heaven's gleams,
Shall play in Eden gardens, tenanted
By fays and elves. By softly flowing streams
We men of earth shall find again our long lost dreams.

"MOVIE QUEEN Loses Jewels at Yale-Harvard Boat Race."—Headline. Sorry, you'll pardon us. We hate to be old fashioned—and it's rude to interrupt—and all that—but could some one take their minds off of movie queens long enough to tell us who won, Yale or Harvard?

AN AUTOIST driving down in Indiana resisted a hitch hiker he was giving a ride and who suddenly produced a gun and started robbing the car driver's wife and sister-in-law. During the fight the autoist lost control of his car, which rolled into the ditch, and he was killed. Philanthropic motorists should remember that hitch hikers with guns are very high strung, nervous and temperamental and should do nothing to excite them or make them peevish. It is far better to hand over all money and valuables, including the car, ask the hitch hiker how his mama is getting along and if the rest of his folks are all well and what would he like for Christmas. Then kiss him good-by and get out. Also kiss the car good-by.

"GROCER RUBS Off $9,000 Debts of Customers."—The Trib. Quite interesting, and we read something like it every day. Meanwhile we are patiently waiting for some of the grocers, and dentists, and tailors, and haberdashers that we owe to announce they have also wiped out everything owing to them from their customers. But day after day passes and nothing happens. Darn the luck, we went in debt to the wrong people.

AND THE FRONT PAGE tells of the marriage of a British earl to a former hat check girl. Which is mighty clever of the earl. The earl business is pretty well played out; the foreign heiress market has gone to a new low as former heiresses' papas wait their turn in the bread line and an earl cannot pull down a good job as doorman in front of a swanky hotel unless he is seven feet high and looks like Apollo. And there are so few earls like that. Now the hat check job is always good, for people will probably always wear hats. The college boys are still trying to put a dent in the hat check business by going without hats, but shucks, they haven't got enough money to pay the bills at the restaurants that have hat check girls, so they haven't put the slightest dent in the great hat check industry. The earl is right. heiresses are a dud these days, but a good lively hat check girl can always find a job.

"SCIENCE WILL END WAR," said Robert A. Millikin at Drake university, "by making it more destructive and enormously more expensive." Yes, so long as it's a mere matter of killing and maiming, society will make no real effort to stop war. But if it's going to cost more money—well, that's something different again. Look how sore everybody gets every time the income tax or the price of gasoline or hot dog sandwiches gets boosted.

TRIALS OF A TRITE 'UN.

I am out of luck in all I put my hand to;
Column batting lists will never show my score,
For my every fond endeavor
Though I deem it passing clever
Has been better done by some contrib before.

Ditties dashing are de trop when I conceive 'em,
My best notions are but echoes of the past:
Though I may forget I read it
I'm assured that some one said it,
Unsuspecting how his quip would be recast.

Twanging gayly on a lyre's my daily hobby,
But my lyrics give the muses cause for hate;
In a manner deft and glib
I can imitate ad lib

ROUND WORM SYMPTOMS AND TREATMENT.

MOST of the accepted signs of worms are entirely without foundation, at least so far as round worms are concerned. Children thus infested do not pick their noses and have no itching of the nose. They have these symptoms just as other children do—no more frequently and no less. The same is true of convulsions. Children are prone to attacks of convulsion and children with worms do not escape, but they have no special tendency either toward or away from convulsions. The only symptom of round worms that is dependable is finding specimens of worm or of eggs.

Among the simple symptoms, about the only ones that appear to be at all trustworthy are restlessness while asleep and some minor discomfort located around the navel.

On the other hand, there are effects of worms that are occasionally encountered about which little is said. One is thumps, similar to thumps in hogs, due to a modified pneumonia caused by young worms boring through the lungs. Another is colicky pain and nausea, and even symptoms of obstruction of the bowels, perforation due to wandering worms; or laryngitis suggestive of diphtheria, due to worms crawling into the air passages. In a few cases profound anemia may result from an excessive supply of worms.

The proportion of children having round worms varies from one in fifty in certain parts of the country to one in three or even more than that in other parts.

The toilet facilities and the general cleanliness of the home and premises are the determining factors of greatest importance, according to a study made by Dr. A. E. Keller.

Effort to protect children against infestation with round worms should start by curing those who are infested. Dr. Keller thinks the best and safest worm medicine for round worms is hexylresorcinal, given in hard capsules. The dose is one and a half grains for each year of age up to age ten. The dose for a person over ten years of age is fifteen grains.

It is not necessary to give a purgative prior to the administration of the worm medicine. No breakfast is allowed the morning the medicine is to be taken, nor for four hours following the medication. This limitation on eating applies especially to meat and eggs. If the child complains of feeling faint a cup of tea or coffee, some toast or cereal may be allowed.

The person under treatment need not stay away from school. No purgative is taken until the next morning. Then a dose of salts is given. A second dose, three weeks after the first, is advisable in order to get the worms that hatched and matured after the first dose.

Next in value as a worm medicine is worm seed, sold also under the name chenopodium. This medicine, obtained from a common weed, is the principal ingredient in most worm candies. There are several preparations of this drug. As a preventive measure ranking close to proper treatment in importance is the provision of toilet facilities and keeping the premises more cleanly.

ALLEY FILLING.

Chicago, June 14.—[Friend of the People.]—Can you help us in some way to have ashes put in our alley between Sunnyside and Slocum, Austin and McVicker avenues? There are about 60 feet in the center of the alley that are so muddy that we can't get through for weeks after a rain. J. M. D.

Request for filling for alley between Sunnyside and Slocum, Austin and McVicker avenues has been placed on file and will be complied with at the first opportunity. We have numerous such requests, as there are many unimproved streets and alleys in this section of the city.

JOSEPH J. BUTLER,
Superintendent of Streets.

STOCK PURCHASE.

Savanna, Ill., June 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I bought some utility stock at $33, represented to be the market price, from a local official of the same company. I now find that the same class of stock was selling for $35 on the Chicago market at the time I purchased mine, and a few days later at $20. Now I am told the company is in receivership. What can I do about this? C. E.

If it was listed on one of the exchanges and your deal was impliedly on the basis of the market price, then you would be entitled to relief against the person with whom you dealt. If he has assets or income so as to be financially responsible, we would advise you to place your claim in the hands of an attorney for collection.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 20, 1917.

LONDON.—The principle of woman suffrage was adopted in the house of commons yesterday by the overwhelming majority of 330 votes. It is expected that a proposal now will be made that the franchise be conferred on women on the same basis as men.

PETROGRAD.—The building of the newspaper Russkia Volia, Petrograd's richest and most largely circulated newspaper, was seized yesterday by a corps of armed anarchists who expelled the staff, destroyed all the copies of the paper and the books and declared that they would stand siege. The Russkia Volia is particularly hated by the anarchists because it strongly supported the provisional government and attacked the bolsheviki and other extremists.

WAR SUMMARY.—At Washington the cabinet discussed plans for drastic curb on trusts and other interests which refuse to furnish their war products to the government at reasonable prices. The President would be empowered to commandeer and operate mines, smelters, cement plants, oil wells, and refineries under proposed plans. Herbert C. Hoover outlined to senators his plans for conserving the nation's food supply. He says that without government control success in the war may be perilled and charges that manufacturers and distributors have mulcted the public out of $250,000,000 in the last five months. Vice Admiral Sims of the United States was placed in command of the allies' fleet in Irish waters. London reports successful raids southeast of Le Verguier and on the Bapaume-Cambrai road. Berlin reports the recapture of Monchy trenches from the English. Paris reports the smashing of German counter attacks on the Champagne. Berlin reports the repulse of French attempts to advance near Hurtebise. Paris reports occupation of more Greek territory with civilians surrendering arms and ammunition.

CHICAGO.—Between $20,000 and $30,000 in gold, silver and paper money was stolen from the Adams Express company safe in a Burlington flyer car in the west side yards of that road last night by two bandits. The robbers, masked and armed, suddenly appeared and held up two express messengers, who were alone in the car. They bound and gagged the messengers and then applying a dial to the safe combination emptied the currency into six sacks and swung off the car as the train was backing into the Union station.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Twelve veteran French aviators under Capt. Deboy-Riven arrived in Washington to help America train for the air war in Europe and also to assist in convincing congress that a liberal aeronautic appropriation is necessary if the United States gets into the conflict immediately.

WORLD'S FAIR QUESTION BOX

Requests for information concerning A Century of Progress will be answered in this column. It is urged that questions be stated briefly.

ANSWER—The attendance was 716,880, and 40,000 pass admissions.

QUESTION—How many blocks is the Chicago and Northwestern railway station from the 12th street entrance? What is meant by the Midway? In going to the 39th street entrance are we going toward North Chicago?

The Midway is the amusement center of the Fair, and is so named after the old Midway of the Columbian Exposition and because it is approximately in the center of the Fair grounds.

North Chicago is north of the Fair grounds, and the answer to your third question would depend on which side of 39th street you were when you were walking.

CUSTOMERS' MEN AND THE NEW LAW.

Chicago, June 14.—It is quite evident that many of the so-called customers' men in La Salle street houses have never heard of the new securities act. In one of the most respected houses, all the old '29 forms of ballyhoo have been trotted out to rope in customers, new and old. "Kennecott is going through the roof on this move, absolutely." . . . "Chrysler, by all means . . . it's going sky high." . . . "I'm telling you, Commonwealth and Southern will show you a six point profit by the middle of the week, that's a positive fact." These are just samples of the kind of slop poured out by one of the men, taken down verbatim in shorthand by a friend of mine and destined for the inspection of the federal trade commission, together with the name of this particular barker and others. The managers of houses where such methods are allowed to prevail are likely to wake up some fine morning to a realization of what they have let themselves in for. A. BONDHAUS.

TRANSFERS AT NIGHT.

Chicago, June 13.—The letter from C. H. Evanson, superintendent of transportation Chicago Surface Lines, just points out another case of the failure of office and field to function together.

I know all about their schedules, having studied them enough, and have been in their offices a number of times. It is true that the cars are scheduled to meet, and approximately do meet, at many points, but passengers cannot transfer because the cars do not wait for them to do so. If the trainmen have orders to wait they certainly do not do so, as can be testified to by any one who rides the cars nights. Perhaps if Mr. Evanson's letter were posted up in the barns it might do some good.

Just the other night I rode north in Western avenue from Madison street and saw the connections being passed up right and left by the motorman, although he did stop on the wrong side of the street to pick up a policeman who dashed out of a saloon and who, of course, paid no fare. E. J. T.

FOR THE FAIR.

Chicago, June 10.—I've had several letters from women from different points of the United States who seem to feel A Century of Progress is more for men than for women. They do not care to come as they feel they will find everything beyond their understanding. I think it may be a good idea to publish an article touching on the many things of interest for the woman housewife. Then, too, I know many women who are bored by the "common herd." Their sense of humor is so blunted they cannot find amusement in watching a crowd and seeing different people, although they will go to Europe and down the Nile and to Algeria, China, and Spain and see and smell just to return and say they have been there. That, too, will make another article. E. C.

SCHMELING'S FIANCEE.

Chicago, June 13.—Your article "Schmeling to Wed German Movie Actress" refers to Anny Ondra. Her real name is Anna Ondrakova and she is well known to European movie fans in Bohemian films. I have seen her both on the screen and stage and know what I am talking about. She is a full-blooded Bohemian. C. E. STYCH.

PERMANENT REGISTRATION.

Chicago, June 10.—I heartily indorse your editorial in THE TRIBUNE of this morning regarding the situation on the permanent registration bill now in the senate.

The vaunted economy program of the Democratic party of Cook county and Chicago has been proven grand stand play by their attitude on this bill. Yes, they allowed it to pass the house, but only with the understanding that it would never be called up in the senate. This is clearly proven by the action of the elections committee, who were evidently acting on orders of Pat Nash et al. And all because this bill would separate some of their polls patronage from a few pay days. What matters that this bill would save hundreds of thousands of dollars annually to the taxpayers? Their political machine can't have its powers curtailed in the least degree.

Also, this permanent registration bill would eliminate the repeat and floater voter and so do more for clean elections than any other bills now in Springfield backed by the Democratic organization of Cook county and Chicago, which bills provide for the punishment of fraudulent voting but do not prevent it. Does that mean that they feel the need of the repeat and floater vote to keep them in power?

We taxpayers should demand the passage of the permanent registration bill at once by the senate. It deprives no citizen of any rights, but means cleaner elections and a great saving of the taxpayers' money. ONE OF THEM.

TEACHERS DEFENDED.

Chicago, June 14.—Mr. Barclay's recent letter to the Voice of the People contains so many untruths that it should be taken with as few grains of salt as are THE TRIBUNE'S editorials on the school situation.

On June 8 the teachers could not have been on State street as he stated. The schools were not closed and teachers would have been dropped from the system had they absented themselves from their classrooms.

Does Mr. Barclay know that the teachers' irregular pay days started in December, 1929, and have continued until now they get a pay check only when they shame the powers that be into it?

If these debts he refers to were contracted before the irregular pay days started, why did these creditors need to put collection into his hands? Teachers who did not pay their just debts in normal times could be dismissed from the service and creditors did not hesitate to do it. There are a few dishonest people in every profession, including the law profession. MOTHER OF A TEACHER.

A GOOD SAMARITAN.

Chicago, June 12.—Saturday, June 10, at Foster avenue beach, a boy tripped off the breakwater and began drowning. Almost simultaneously, before the lifeguard became aware of what happened, a youth appeared at the surface of the water with the drowning lad safely in his arms. Modestly the rescuer retired from the scene of the near-tragedy to dress and go home. While he was removing the boy from the water some one was removing his shoes from his clothes, and thus was he rewarded for being a good Samaritan.

The first thought that struck me was there must have been a senator on the beach. Being a conscientious man, as all senators are, he felt it his duty to tax the rescuer. As the United States is off the gold standard, the senator did the next best thing and took the shoes. MORTON CLEVINS.

PEORIA GREETS SEAWAY BARGES WITH A PAGEANT

Marquette and Joliet at Waterway Dock.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Peoria, Ill., June 19.—[Special.]—Painted warriors manning birch canoes, a black frocked priest with shaven pate and a chevalier of France booted to the waist and bright in silks and plumed hat gathered on the Illinois river beneath the historic Sandstone bluffs on Peoria's waterfront today. They welcomed for the city the first cargo barges on the way to Chicago up the lakes to gulf waterway from New Orleans.

The strict utilitarianism of the battleship gray barges and the graceless but sturdy towboat, Tom Sawyer, was in dramatic juxtaposition to the glitter of the pageant which depicted the landing here of Father Marquette and his Indian guides in June, 1672, and the establishment of a fort on the cliffs by Robert Chevalier de La Salle a dozen years later.

Welcome Has Practical Side.

But Peoria's welcome had its practical side. The ceremonies also dedicated the $400,000 combined rail and waterway terminal at the Main street docks. Three switch lines of the 13 railroads which reach this thriving city in the midst of one of the most fertile agricultural areas in the world, have direct communication with the federal barge line boats.

The terminal is the expression of belief held by the people of Peoria that the newly completed Illinois waterway will really give the middle west its chance at world trade through southern seaports. The corn grown in Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, can find a cheap transport to the south and southwest through Peoria by combined rail and water carriers.

Civic and commercial leaders of the city gathered at breakfast given in the Pere Marquette hotel for Maj. Gen. Thomas Q. Ashburn, president of the Inland Waterways corporation, who arrived with the tow early today and the delegation of commissioners of the port of New Orleans, who arrived here Sunday night in their yacht, Hugh McCloskey.

Waterway Enthusiasts There.

Among these were H. B. Morgan, "dean" of the waterway advocates at Peoria, where he has preached inland water transport for 50 years; Mayor C. L. O'Brien, E. I. Rogers, president of the Peoria chamber of commerce and president of the Peoria and Pekin Union railway; Clarence Hullman, head of the Federal Warehouse company; Frederick A. Stowe, editor of the Peoria Transcript; Dr. R. H. Daniels, chairman of the waterways committee of the chamber of commerce; A. T. Griffith, harbor master; G. A. Bahler, general manager of a tractor company; and Charles C. Jones, long time Peoria resident.

"The solution of the whole problem of transport is one of coördination and coöperation," Gen. Ashburn said. "My wish is to see rail, water, trucking working together so that each gets a living return for its efforts. All is done to the end that the people of the middle west get a cheap form of transport, which is their right."

As the celebration ended the tow, now made up of four 500 ton barges, each of which holds the equivalent of 15 freight car loads, massed about the Tom Sawyer and moved upstream. The next stops are Ottawa, Joliet, and the Michigan avenue bridge in the Chicago river.

The body of Capt. William P. Wright, national commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, was laid to rest at sundown yesterday in Naperville cemetery near his boyhood home, following services in Memorial hall of the public library and at Trinity Episcopal church, 26th street and Michigan avenue. Fewer than 50 of his civil war comrades were able to attend the services.

The Grand Army service was conducted by Col. Russell C. Martin of Los Angeles, senior vice commander-in-chief, who will succeed Capt. Wright as national head of the G. A. R. Col. Martin, after delivering the opening address, placed a small flag in the casket.

The funeral cortège moved from the public library to Trinity church, where the Episcopal service was read by the Rev. John R. Pickells. A detachment of cavalry from the Sixth corps area at Fort Sheridan, sent by Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, escorted the cortège to the church, and a detachment of infantry with a firing squad and buglers accompanied the body to Naperville for the brief service at the grave.

ANNA H. ROGERS DEAD; PUPIL OF MARY B. EDDY

Mrs. Anna H. Rogers, 79 years old, a pupil of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, the founder of Christian Science, and for many years a leader in that church in Chicago, died yesterday at the home of her son-in-law, Attorney Charles Temple Palmer, 6224 St. Lawrence avenue. She had resided at the Temple home since 1909.

Mrs. Rogers was a daughter of John H. Wilson of Mount Carroll, Ill., who was for thirty years probate judge of Carroll county and at one time an associate of Abraham Lincoln. She is survived by a granddaughter, Charlotte Rogers Palmer. Funeral services will be held at the Palmer home today at 4 p. m.

Dr. Freeland Dunn Is Dead; Head of Chemical House

Dr. Freeland Dunn, 52 years old, manager of W. J. Bush & Co., 431 South Dearborn street, dealers in essential oils and chemicals, died suddenly last night in his apartment in the Churchill hotel, 1255 North State street. Surviving him are his widow, Olivia, a daughter, Virginia Lee Dunn, and a son, R. Barth Dunn. Funeral services will be held tomorrow forenoon at the Holy Name cathedral.

FRENCH 'QUEEN' BURIED; MOURNED BY THOUSANDS

CHAMBERY, France, June 19.—Exactly one month after she sailed for Chicago to become one of the court of honor of the Queen of A Century of Progress exposition, the body of Lyette Teppaz was laid to rest in the soil of her native Savoy today.

Thus ends the story of the brown eye girl of peasant stock who went to Paris to earn her living and then was chosen by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE from among thousands of European contestants as one of the 51 most charming girls in the world. She died in Chicago on June 6 in the midst of the celebrations opening the World's Fair and in the heighth of her glory.

A crowd of several thousand jammed the little church of Notre Dame and surrounding streets this morning. After the purposely simplified ceremony, solemn requiem mass having already been held in Chicago, the white carved coffin, which had been transported some 4,600 miles, was carried through the streets to the cemetery. Four young girls of Chambery were honorary pallbearers. Mourners followed afoot, as is the French custom. The procession included representatives of THE TRIBUNE and hundreds of friends.

The body lay in the chapel yesterday. Hundreds of townspeople came to pay their last respects, and so dense were the crowds that the curé was forced to close the church in the evening. Joseph Teppaz, 60, the girl's father, was unable to attend the services, but was taken by another daughter yesterday to view the body.

DEPORTATION OF VOLPE IS HELD UP BY ITALY'S DELAY

After a two and one-half year fight in the courts, which terminated successfully in the United States Supreme court two weeks ago, it still appears doubtful whether the government will be able to deport Tony [Mops] Volpe, Capone gangster.

This was learned yesterday when immigration officials said Volpe could not be started back to his native Italy on the alien train which leaves Saturday, the second since the Supreme court upheld his deportation warrant.

The delay is due to the failure of the Italian government to furnish a passport, or certificate of acceptance, for Volpe. This failure was originally ascribed to a desire to await the final action of the courts, but now that this is over a new question arises. Under the Italian civil code it is said to be doubtful whether a man once naturalized in a foreign country can still be considered a subject of Italy. Volpe was naturalized in this country, but his certificate was later revoked. He was ordered deported for reëntering the country, from Havana, and evading inspection by making false statements about his naturalization.

MOTORCYCLIST LOSES LIFE BY GIVING SALUTE

Henry S. Beamis, 21 years old, of Walnut, Ill., who died Sunday night in the Little Company of Mary hospital, was killed as a result of observing the traditional greeting among motorcyclists, the Willow Springs police decided yesterday.

Beamis was riding a motorcycle along Harlem avenue at 87th street near Chicago Ridge, Sunday afternoon, when he passed another motorcycle on which Mr. and Mrs. C. Peters, 5039 South Damen avenue, were riding. He raised a hand in salute and lost control of his machine, which left the pavement and turned over in a ditch.

Mr. and Mrs. Peters stopped a passing motorist, who took Beamis to the hospital.

The death of Beamis and four other deaths in the county yesterday raised the motor toll to 446 since Jan. 1. The other victims:

George Tolacek, 4923 South Damen avenue, chauffeur for Deputy Coroner John Domivic. Died in Holy Cross hospital from injuries incurred in a collision Sunday night.

John C. Pfeiffer, 80 years old, 5644 South Ada street. Died in Evangelical hospital. Struck by a hit and run driver June 15.

Mrs. Ida Roger, 55 years old, 3634 West Grand avenue. Died in Danish-American hospital from injuries incurred June 8, when struck by an automobile in front of her home.

Mrs. Louisa Warnholz, 60 years old, 1837 Roscoe street. Died in Columbus Memorial hospital yesterday of injuries she suffered May 29.

LAST OF 9 DEAD IN PLANE CRASH IS IDENTIFIED

Identification of the nine victims who were burned to death June 11 when the Northern Light, World's Fair amphibion plane, crashed near Glenview was completed yesterday when Mrs. Eugene Gollup of New York identified one of the bodies as that of her husband, an office manager. He had come to Chicago to visit the Fair. The plane crashed on June 11, killing a pilot, a mechanic and seven passengers who had been picked up at the Fair for a ride.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

"Dinner at Eight," the box office play of the past year in New York, came to the Grand Opera house last night to add authority to the stage's contribution to Chicago's World's Fair summer. It is a production with a reputation for pleasing and stirring the followers of the drama, the current champion in its class; and its arrival is an occasion that inspires the cheer leading mood.

With crisp, vitalized stage direction, and with a large cast that is rich with distinguished players, this work by George S. Kaufman and Edna Ferber, who practice the craft of letters with the golden touch of invariable success, comes under the well known heading "a cross section of life." Its material, moreover, is high life, Park avenue life in the terms of the society magazines, and the juicy scandals that are rumored to lurk behind its glittering curtains.

Here the American middle classes, sitting in their theater chairs, may gratify their curiosity and their sense of irony about the New York aristocracy. On this point, I suspect, much of "Dinner at Eight's" box office prowess depends. It permits its audience to sit as keyhole Olympians, enjoyably observing the private affairs of the upper classes.

Mrs. Jordan, talking vivaciously through her teeth in the most affected Park avenue style, prepares to give a small dinner party in honor of Lord and Lady Ferncliffe, just off the boat. We see her select her cast for this function, and in the ten scenes that follow we see what is happening to some of her guests, and also to her husband, her daughter, and her domestic retinue, as the festive occasion approaches. We become intimate with them all except the Ferncliffes, who flit off to Florida without taking the pains to break the engagement.

For instance, there is Larry Renault, quondam idol of the screen, now fading into professional obscurity and thinking that a return to the legitimate stage will restore his lost grandeur. He is having a secret amour with his hostess' debutante daughter, but he cannot pay his hotel bills or find a part to act. Suicide awaits him in the second scene of the last act.

There is a financial pirate named Daniel Packard, who has come out of the west to loot New York. He is scheming to deprive his hostess' husband of the shipping business that has been in the family for a hundred years. He is a power in the land, but he cannot keep other men out of the bedroom of the ex-check room blonde with the baby talk whom he has chosen as a second wife.

There is Dr. J. Wayne Talbot, physician to Park avenue, who prescribes aspirin and kisses for the amorous Mrs. Packard. His host of the gay evening to come stumbles into his consulting room in a state of collapse and is sent away with a mild warning to watch his diet. But he tells his nurse that the stethoscope had revealed a fatal lesion of the heart, and that Mr. Jordan would undoubtedly drop off tonight, tomorrow, or next week.

The scenes march swiftly along toward the final episode when the guests [minus the disappearing Ferncliffes] assemble in the Jordan drawing room at 8 p. m. prepared for cocktails, an excellent dinner, and witty conversation. None of them are glad to be there, but the amenities must be preserved and the dinner must go on according to the canons of Emily Post.

"Dinner at Eight" is a clever and ingenious drama admirably staged. Its acting calls for a long list of honorable mentions, including Charles Trowbridge as the husband, Jane Wyatt as the daughter, Ann Andrews as the mother, Paul Harvey as the financial potentate, Judith Wood as his doll wife, Austain Fairman as the medical libertine, and Crane Wilbur as the extinct cinema star.

Why, to get a look at the lovely girl—Lillian Anderson—elected Queen of A Century of Progress, in the contest recently promoted by THE TRIBUNE, AND her two maids of honor, Lorraine Nevins and Ruth Joyce Hardie. Is that nice?

Messrs. Balaban and Katz, approached on the subject, said "DELIGHTED! WHEN?" And the date was set. NOW——

Starting Friday, the Queen of a Century of Progress and her maids of honor will appear in person on the stage of the Chicago theater for One Week! When I learn at just what hours these eye-filling maids will strut their stuff, I'll jot the time down in our illustrious Film Time Table.

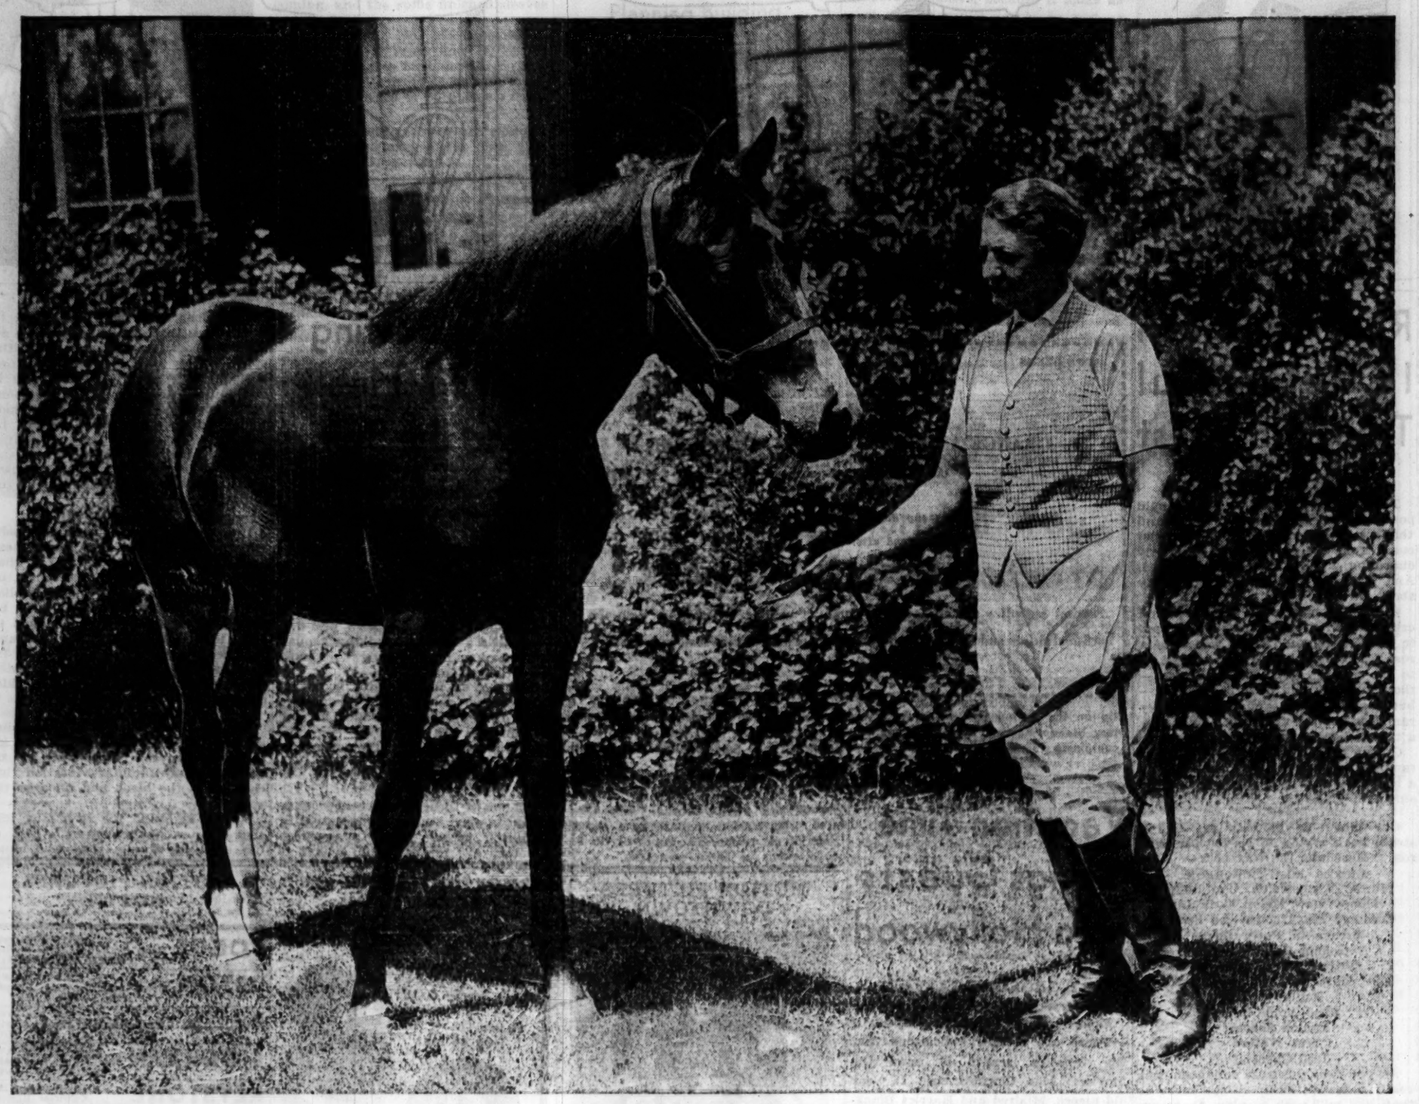
Society Awaits Opening of Races at Arlington



This little filly by Reigh Count and Miss Begoe that Mrs. John D. Hertz is holding won't be racing under the Hertz colors at Arlington Park this season, for she is only a yearling and won't be eligible for racing until next spring. Several of Reigh Count's colts and fillies will be racing at Arlington this season, however, giving Mr. and Mrs. Hertz an added interest in the racing events at the attractive race track this summer. They will be among the many watching the races on the opening day, next Monday, but neither of their daughters, Miss Helen Hertz nor Mrs. Alfred Ettlinger, will be with them, for they are abroad. Mrs. Ettlinger and her husband will be here shortly after July 1, however, but Miss Hertz is planning to remain abroad until later in the summer. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Inspect New Museum of Arts, Science

Guests See Story of Man's Rise.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

A little girl, 7 years old, climbed the broad steps of Chicago's old Field museum in Jackson park yesterday afternoon. She passed between the great Ionic columns, crossed the threshold, and then stopped for a moment in wonderment.

"Mommy, is this granddaddy's house?" she turned and questioned her mother following close behind.

The little girl was Adele Stern. She had come with her mother, Mrs. Alfred K. Stern, to see the great museum which her grandfather, the late Julius Rosenwald, has restored, through his gifts, as a house of science and industry.

She was the youngest of the 200 or more guests invited to a preview party yesterday, but none the less appreciative of the museum's wonders, for not an exhibit in the great north wing or the far reaching coal mine [all that is open yet to public view] escaped her childish curiosity. The other guests who heard the brief words of William R. Abbott, the president of the museum, and Mayor Edward J. Kelly, were the trustees—Sewell L. Avery, George A. Ranney, Lessing J. Rosenwald [the son of the founder], Joseph T. Ryerson, Clarence W. Sills, Col. Albert A. Sprague, and Leo F. Wormser among them—members of the South Park board, and Mrs. Julius Rosenwald.

"We forgot to ask our wives today," said Mr. Abbott, speaking for the officers and trustees. "I was in Florida when the invitations for the party were issued and neglected this important detail."

Mr. Abbott described the museum [its official name is the Museum of Science and Industry, founded by Julius Rosenwald] as "a technical ascent from the cave man to the engineer."

Then he went on to explain the significance of the opening of only sections of the museum at a time. "What the museum presents now is a cross section of what it will ultimately become," he said. "It took 25 years to bring the Deutsches museum to its present state. The Science museum of South Kensington has a history that goes back more than 80 years, and the Conservatoire des Arts et Metiers dates to the French revolution. A museum, like a university or a business enterprise, is the momentary end product of an evolution. So it happens that a portion of the building in Jackson park is opened in 1933, simultaneously with A Century of Progress."

The north hall which the official party visited yesterday strikes the very keynote of what the "great house" is to be. It is animation everywhere. All of the art of the stage director is invoked to tell a technical story. Yet it is no technical Coney Island. The dramatic is not introduced for its own sake, but as a means to an educational end.

Round the walls are the murals of Nicholas Remisoff, David Leavitt, and Edgar Miller, not merely decorations, but pictorial summaries of the museum's ultimate collections. The coal mine is the story of coal from its very beginning, from the day that "coals were carried to Newcastle." It is another suggestion of the future educational role.

Mayor Kelly spoke yesterday about the building itself, a classic monument to the machine age, exhibit A in Mr. Rosenwald's vast exposition of the industries. He told of its beginning as the Fine Arts building of Chicago's World's Fair of '93, of the tenure after the Fair of the Field museum, its occupancy up until 1920 [the reason the building is familiarly known as the old Field museum] and the trials and tribulations encountered in the present restoration.

"Praise be," he concluded, "that we have it today."

And praise be, we repeat, that we have it today. It is a monument to that glorious fifth century B. C. when Athens was building on its Acropolis the Ionic Erechtheum and the Doric Parthenon. It is a monument to the Fair of '93, a greatest cultural achievement of Chicago and mankind. And now it is a monument to man as a builder and tool user, a monument to the machine age itself.

Swedish Songs Are High Point of Fair Music

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The high spot of music at A Century of Progress yesterday was the sunset festival program in connection with the appearance of Count Folke Bernadotte in the court of the Hall of States.

Here was the American Union of Swedish Singers, a large male chorus under the direction of Joel Mossberg. They are a lusty voiced army. It is probably safe to surmise that no crooners are in their membership. Under the circumstances they were rightly disposed to pour out their voices with extra vigor and the enormous audience applauded them nearly as loudly as they sang.

This was an occasion when I regretted not being acquainted with the Swedish language. There was no difficulty, however, in appreciating the fact that there are some uncommonly good melodies in the song literature of Sweden, and certainly it took no knowledge of the language to enjoy the balance, the exact attack, and the fine fervor of the singers.

A somewhat imaginative list of announcements led to the belief that there was considerably more music around the grounds in the course of the afternoon and evening. Visits to three of these places disclosed no musical activities of any kind at the scheduled hours.

The Exposition has recently gone in for a good deal of popular music, especially on the northern end of the grounds. The two extremities of the Avenue of Flags maintain jazz orchestras, one opposite the Administration building and the other on the rise leading to the Hall of Science. Here, in the evening, popular music is played energetically and to the evident pleasure of those who linger close by.

'Adorable' Is Familiar to Movie Critic

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning:

"Well, my prophetic soul!" I thought as this picture got under way, "How do you know so well just what's coming next?"

But Where? I racked my brain. Light came. "Adorable" tells the story of "Her Highness Commands," viewed at the Cinema theater in February, 1932, featuring Willy Fritsch and Kaethe von Nagy, produced by UFA and directed by Hans Schwarz.

Few, if any, changes have been made in the tale. The heroine is still a madcap princess and the hero an officer in her guard—who, strangely enough, is unfamiliar with the face of his fair mistress. The two meet at a servants' ball where both are incognito. The princess poses as a manicure girl, the lieutenant as a delicatessen man. Their romance proceeds just as it did in "Her Highness Commands."

The music, I imagine, is different. It was delightful in the German picture. It is charming—in a lesser degree, I believe—in "Adorable." The theme waltz, "Adorable," has a fascinating lilt and swing.

Miss Gaynor is lightsome and more sophisticated than usual in the rôle so effectively played by Fräulein von Nagy. Henry Garat, recent French import, looks like James Hall and is a pleasing enough actor. He wears uniforms well. I don't think him one, two, three with some of our own boys—nor with Fritsch—but that, of course, is just my opinion.

G. Aubrey Smith does well with the rôle of prime minister—played in the German film by Rhenbold Schwenzel.

"Adorable" drags in spots. As a whole, however, it is clean, colorful and lively entertainment. [If credit is anywhere given the UFA production, I have been unable to discover it.]

See you soon.

Civil Wedding Rites for Barbara Hutton Will Be Held Today

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, June 19.—[Special.]—The civil wedding of Barbara Hutton, 20 year old Woolworth heiress, with Prince Alexis Mdivani will take place tomorrow before the mayor of the sixteenth ward of Paris and the religious ceremony in the Russian church will be held on Thursday.

Both the bride and bridegroom will wear street clothes for the civil ceremony, which is a very routine affair at which the mayor with his tricolor sash around him reads to the contracting parties an extract from the French marriage code and pronounces them man and wife in law. Miss Hutton will wear a light gray dress with a little cape.

Neither of Prince Alexis' brothers, now in difficulties with their wives and their passports, will take any prominent part in their brother's wedding, the reason given being the recent death of their father.

Young Englishmen to Play Cricket Here.

When the duchess of Richmond lands in Montreal on Aug. 5 she will have aboard her eighteen young Englishmen, all graduates of Oxford or Cambridge and all between 21 and 25 years of age, who without a doubt will cause many a heart flutter in the ranks of the young girls of society when the aforesaid young men come to Chicago on the 25th of that month.

They are coming to play cricket and rugby and all the Chicagoans who were educated in England are coming to the fore and planning to entertain the young visitors in royal fashion in between the matches. The Englishmen will visit Ottawa, Toronto, Buffalo, Hamilton and St. Catherine's before coming to Chicago, and everywhere plans are being made for giving them a jolly good time. Seven of them will stay in Chicago that week-end as the guests of Chauncey McKeever, who went to Oxford, and Gaylord Donnelley, who is a Cambridge alumnus, while the other eleven go to St. Louis for two cricket

BY JUDITH CASS.

JUST one week from this morning we will be using the past tense in writing of the opening of the fifth annual meet at the Arlington Park race track, for that colorful track out northwest of the city has its gala opening next Monday afternoon. The Post and Paddock club, where society congregates, will be gayer than usual this year, for society is entertaining many guests who are here to see the Fair, and as fascinating as the Fair is, most of them will desert the Exposition grounds next Monday to be at Arlington's opening.

The boxes and seats in the grand stand will be thronged, too, without a doubt, and, all in all, unless the weather is bad—perish the thought—it will be a notable occasion. The Post and Paddock club will be the scene of luncheon parties galore that day, not only in the large dining room and the shaded veranda, but in the attractive smaller dining rooms on the second floor, and probably all the white porcelain tableware with racing scenes in black silhouettes, which are such a smart feature of the service, will be in use. And if the day is anything like this week's Monday, the soda fountain which is revealed when one of the paneled hunting scenes in the dining room is swung aside will do a "land office business."

Marshall Fields Have Season Box.

The Marshall Fields have a box for the season, but they probably will not be here for the opening, although they are expected a week or so later. Mrs. Field, formerly Mrs. Dudley Coates and before that Audrey James, is a great beauty as well as a great sports enthusiast, and wherever she is she is the cynosure of many eyes. Among other out of towners who probably will be here at some time during the season, if not for the opening, are Mr. and Mrs. John Hay Whitney of Long Island, Mrs. William E. Hitt of Virginia, and Mr. and Mrs. Morton L. Schwartz of New York.

Some of the Chicagoans who are sure to be seen at the Post and Paddock next Monday if they are in this vicinity are Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hertz, who will have a string of horses racing; the Warren Wrights, whose horse, Warren Jr., will uphold the honor of the Wrights' stables; the Laurance H. Armours—he is president of the Post and Paddock and a vice president of the Arlington Park Jockey club; Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Glore, he is treasurer of the Post and Paddock; the Harry H. Lobdells, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Thompson, Edward N. Hurley, the Stanley Fields, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard S. Florsheim, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carruthers, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Marshall, the Albert Laskers, the Charles A. McCullochs—he is president of the jockey club; and the four Cudahy sisters, Mrs. Frank E. Wilhelm, Mrs. Vaughan C. Spalding, Mrs. Austin Niblack, and Mrs. John Noble Stearns Jr.

The last named is arriving tomorrow with her husband to visit her family for a week or ten days, and the opening of Arlington is sure to be one of the things her devoted relatives and friends will want her to attend.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, June 19.—[Special.]—The country estate of Paul D. Cravath, near Piping Rock, was the scene of a play on Saturday evening given as a benefit for the Locust Valley unemployment relief work. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coburn appeared with a cast of twenty-five in "A Midsummer Night's Dream." The production was given under the direction of Mrs. Don Marquis, who will manage the Red Barn theater at Locust Valley this season, which begins on June 26. In advance of the performance dinners were given by Mrs. Roswell Eldridge, who is mayor of Saddle Rock, and by Mrs. August Belmont.

Mrs. Colgate Hoyt of Meadow Spring, Glen Cove, is in New Haven this week to attend the graduation from Yale of her two sons, Clement Williamson and MacLean Williamson.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Pulitzer Jr. have joined the colony at Glen Head, where they have leased the country place of Mr. and Mrs. Van H. Cartmell at High Farms. Mr. and Mrs. Cartmell will be in Locust Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic A. Delano, who were at the Gladstone from Washington, started yesterday for Newburgh, where they will pass the summer.

SWELL GARRICK

BY ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

"Swell" Garrick, the world's perfect tailor dummy, is the label given him by those who didn't know that his well molded body had been created by athletic training rather than tailoring skill. When his friend, young Alistair, a subaltern in the Guards, is taken over by card sharpers and gives a check he can't meet, Garrick promises to retrieve the check. Maitland, the gambler, is the purported guardian of lovely Rhoda Fairclough, who is unknowingly being used as a decoy. Her presence makes Garrick's task to his liking. Maitland plots to trick Rhoda out of a fortune left her by an uncle who died in Rome. Garrick exposes to Rhoda, before Maitland and his gang, their crooked card tricks. Garrick is overpowered by Schewan, Maitland's chief, but manages to defeat Schewan's purpose of burning him alive in his car. Garrick consults his solicitor in regard to Miss Fairclough's inheritance.

INSTALLMENT VIII.

A CERTIFIED LUNATIC.

"It is, of course, an everyday matter to us," Mr. Bonniwell added. "The unusual feature is your—ah—suggestion that the guardian intends to behave in a—ah—felonious manner. You will allow me to say that it is very dangerous to make such allegations without proof. Are you sure, for instance, that he has not some innocent, if misguided, motive in leading the young lady to suppose—?"

"A friend of his, who is really his boss, burnt my car last night and tried to burn me in it," said Garrick, and added: "But I have punished him for that. Perhaps, sir, as a matter of interest, you would like to hear the whole story!"

Garrick told him.

"So you see," he added when Mr. Bonniwell had recovered from his surprise, "I could put the whole crowd of them in prison if I wanted to. But I don't think that will be necessary."

"You could put them in prison, could you!" said Mr. Bonniwell, who saw a chance of getting his own back. "And who would you call as a witness to support your charge against them? On your own admission Miss Faircloughhad fainted."

"One against me, sir! I was too cocksure. I don't suppose I could prove anything."

"You never will be able to prove anything," said the solicitor absently. "I mean, the educated crook in Britain breaks the law but he keeps the right side of the rules of evidence. In many so-called crime mysteries, the police know perfectly well the names and addresses of the perpetrators. But they can prove nothing. I do beg, my dear Garrick, at the risk of your thinking me a fussy old fogy—leave these men severely alone. Let me attend to this property of the young lady's and—have nothing more to do with them."

"I represent Miss Fairclough's legal interests," he bluffed. "Will

"Right you are, sir! I'll just see that Miss Fairclough leaves her guardian without molestation and lives somewhere else until—well, until I come to you again to fix the marriage settlement. . . And consult you as to what ought to be done about a career."

It was all very nice and simple, looked at in Mr. Bonniwell's office. He would just go round to Maitland's house, take her to his aunt, Lady Carstairs, and—

As he stepped into the road, a huge yellow American roadster screamed on its gears, coming straight at him. Where a man less highly trained must inevitably have been killed, Garrick dodged the wing by the fraction of an inch.

'Driver must be drunk!' mused Garrick and took a taxi to Maitland's house.

There was a big car drawn up before the door and the taxi stopped behind it.

"Wait for me," he ordered. "If I don't come out in twenty minutes, call the police."

As Garrick walked the few paces to the front door, he was surprised to see three men coming out of it who were anything but crooks. The first he recognized as Sir Arnold Heppinstall, a very eminent physician, who was known to him personally.

Garrick strode forward.

"Good morning, Sir Arnold!" And then, on inspiration: "Is Miss Fairclough in a serious condition?"

"Ah, Garrick, how are you! Serious? Well, I do not myself take a serious view. Of course, it depends what you mean by 'serious'! But with care and attention—but really, Garrick, you must excuse me!"

Sir Arnold got into the big car, followed by the two other distinguished looking men.

So Rhoda was as bad as all that, was she! Garrick strode past 'the butler' into the hall. Opposite him, busying herself with baggage, was a hospital nurse in the uniform of a very well known institution of nurses. Because of her presence he sustained the fiction that the crook was a real butler.

"Please tell Maj. Maitland I must see him instantly."

Maitland came downstairs almost at once and took him into the room opposite the unfurnished room in which Garrick had been trussed up the previous night.

"I have a man outside the house who will fetch the police if I do not appear in twenty minutes," he said. "I mention it in case you should have arranged with one of your friends to shoot me in the back."

Maitland shook his head as if he were a very worried man.

"I'm through with all that," he said. "Mr. Garrick, I've been a fool and worse. I'm a disgrace to the service—I'll save you from saying it. I've been a card-sharper—and I was trying to get Miss Fairclough's money. You've dished that. No doubt you've already put her affairs in the hands of a lawyer."

"Quite!" said Garrick. "As to giving up card-sharping, you can't help it, Maitland, with that broken wrist. What has happened to Miss Fairclough?

Maitland sank into a chair in an attitude of utter dejection.

"Ask Sir Arnold Heppinstall," he groaned. "He and another doctor have certified her as a lunatic."

"What!" gasped Garrick.

"A magistrate has signed the order for her committal. Within the hour an ambulance will be here to take her to Crannaway. You'll hardly object to Crannaway, Garrick. It has the best reputation in the country—and she'll be a paying patient there."

Garrick dropped his ebony walking stick and left it where it fell. Not for a moment did he believe that Rhoda had really become insane. He believed that some abominable business was afoot but for the moment he could not see what.

"I must see Miss Fairclough."

"As far as I'm concerned, go ahead!" answered Maitland. "You saw one nurse in the hall. There's another in the room with her. And I think the nurse will keep you out. You can't force your way in or Sir Arnold will make a fuss. She—she has forgotten everything—who she is and the rest of it. And she's got suicidal mania." Maitland spoke as if the words were being forced out of him.

"I can't force my way to her room. I'll wait and see her carried to the ambulance," said Garrick.

Garrick went back into the drive to keep in touch with the taxi man and waited. In half an hour a motor ambulance turned in. Garrick went into the hall.

Two men attendants were received by the nurse and taken upstairs. Five minutes later they came down bearing a stretcher. But the stretcher was hooded.

He bowed to the senior nurse.

"I represent Miss Fairclough's legal interests," he bluffed. "Will you be good enough to raise that hood so that I can assure myself of her identity?"

The nurse did as he asked. There was no doubt about the identity. Rhoda, flushed and feverish, lay on the stretcher. She looked up at him without recognition and turned her head away. The stretcher was carried to the ambulance.

"Follow that ambulance?" Garrick ordered the taxi man. "Whatever you do, don't let it out of sight!"

Even when it reached the western outskirts of London the ambulance proceeded at a leisurely twenty-five miles an hour and the taxi had no difficulty in keeping in close touch.

There was, in short, no deception about the ambulance. It drove straight to the great mental institution of Crannaway, and there Rhoda Fairclough, the woman he loved, was received as a certified lunatic.

Garrick's heart sank. He had hoped there would be a trick somewhere—but there could be no crooked trick in connection with Crannaway any more than there could be any crooked trick in connection with Sir Arnold Heppinstall, the fashionable physician.

His intuition told him that it was utterly absurd to suppose that Rhoda Fairclough could really have lost her reason with such amazing suddenness. She was the only woman in the world for him—but she was also a very healthy, well-balanced girl, the last person on earth, one would have thought, to go suddenly out of her mind and develop suicidal mania.

On the way back to London he thought it over from every angle, then, with sudden inspiration, leant out of the window and told the man to drive to the house of Mr. Peter Garrick, professor of therapeutic chemistry to the University of London.

Rose Luncheon Is Delightful Treat for Guest

BY MARY MEADE.

There's just one single thing I could possibly write about this minute—and that's a rose luncheon. For I've just come from one of the most piquantly charming affairs I've ever enjoyed. And I simply have to tell somebody about it!

Something pale green and sheer and crisp was what our hostess had chosen to wear. You could tell it was to be a rose party long before she enticed us to the porch. Not hot house roses—though they would have been lovely—but those glorious yellow and pinky ramblers climbed from big bowls with a tantalizing flower garden fragrance.

SUMMER ROSE LUNCHEON.
Minted Watermelon, Cantaloupe
Honey Dew Melon Cocktail
Creamed Mushrooms and Sweetbreads in Patty Shells
Golden Potato Puffs
Buttered Baby Carrots
Hot Cloverleaf Rolls Parsleyed Butter Balls
Rose Apple Salad
Lemon Sherbet
Nut Wafers
Iced Chocolate

As you see, this rose luncheon was really a festive affair—if it's more so than you will wish to plan, there are ever so many ways it may be adapted to your needs. But, since I believe many a hostess will like it just as it stands, let's have a bit of explanation and a recipe or two.

First, the cocktail. This calls for one of these tiny round scoops to make perfect balls of the melons. When blended, it gives a pink, yellow and pale greenish white combination you'll love. Let the balls stand and chill in their slightly sweetened juice for several hours. Our hostess had now lined her cool sherbert glasses with mint leaves, letting them come perkily up over the edge. She next tucked in the melon balls in circles—the top circle having small, even sections of crême de menthe cherry edged in between each two pink balls. The cocktail was served icy cold.

The potato puffs are easy. They're mashed potato seasoned with butter, cream, and salt with one beaten egg added for every 1½ cups of mashed potato. Drop the mixture from a spoon or curl it out through a pastry bag onto a greased sheet in puffy individual servings. Bake in a hot oven until golden brown. Serve very hot.

But the rose apple salad is the most fun of all.

APPLE ROSE SALAD.
¼ cup sugar
½ cup boiling water
6 medium-sized apples
2 packages cream cheese
1 teaspoon sugar
Juice from the cooked apples
Red vegetable coloring

Add the ¼ cup of sugar to the boiling water and when dissolved, add the whole peeled and cored apples and cook gently, turning frequently, until they are tender. Drain and chill the apples, saving the cooking sirup. Now blend the cheese with the one teaspoon of sugar, a little of the juice, and enough red coloring matter to give a delicate rosy hue. Wipe the outsides of the chilled apples and proceed as follows. Dip an orange spoon into the cheese mixture and level it off with a spatula.

With the edge of your thumb, gently push the cheese from the base out toward the point of the spoon. When it is about two-thirds of the way out, take an apple and lay the cheese against the top side of it, furtherest from you. Gently draw the spoon downward, following the line of the apple. This leaves a perfect pink petal curling up over the edge of the apple. Making a row of these petals all the way around, then another lower row with points falling between each two in the upper row. This makes your apples into beautiful pink roses, ready to be nested in cups of crisp lettuce and served with whipped cream mayonnaise passed at the table.

Bathe your face before retiring with Cuticura Soap and warm water to remove the dust and grime from the pores. When the skin is irritated, as with clogged pores and blackheads, gently smear with Cuticura Ointment before bathing. Consistent use will assure a clear, healthy skin.

Vacation Time Brings Guests to Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., June 19.—[Special.]—There are several indications that the vacation season is upon the movies. Mae Clarke's twin 15 year old nieces, Mildred and Harriet Blackson of Philadelphia, having just graduated from high school, have arrived for a visit and are tramping around Hollywood in wide eyed wonder.

Neil Hamilton has John Whidding, a young man from New York, here as a vacation guest. Whidding six years ago started corresponding with Hamilton. He wrote such interesting letters that Hamilton kept up the correspondence. Whidding has been sitting on the set of "One Sunday Afternoon," Hamilton's present picture, every day.

It's going to be a reunion of the March family. A sister is coming on from Washington, D. C., and Frederic's two brothers will be there from New York and Milwaukee. The Chicago Fair will be one of the vacation side jaunts.

Howard Wilson, the Alabama youth who hitch hiked here recently and attracted the attention of the Radio studio writer of beginners' contracts, also gets a chance with Dix. So do the Stroud twins, Claude and Clarence, who were comedians in a recent New York revue hit but will do serious stuff as Dix's co-actors.

Tomorrow's Menu.

Roller Skating Best for Health and the Spirits

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Time was—and not so very long ago—when the deb set the fashion for Mom and the older sisters. Mom and the big girls stole the flapper's idea of coiffure and dress length. Now, we have reason to believe, the deb idea is not young enough for Maw and the older girls. They're skulking around the playroom for hints on their back-to-youth movement.

And they've hopped with both feet on the roller skates idea. Mom, who hasn't been on a skate—roller, ice and certainly not the other kind—since she wore a middy, is trying the rollers out in highways and byways where traffic threatens not.

It's one of those things that's catching on in good style and most awfully promising in the way of age-arrest. The men are taking it up, which, of course, does that very little thing to an exercise that makes an exercise all it should be. Any exercise with the spirit of play in it is better than one without it. And any exercise that is done out of doors is an improvement on one done at home. So, altogether, this roller skating craze should be due for a hearty revival. Anything, we claim, that lifts women out of upholstered seats and onto their own active pedal extremities we're for heartily.

Unless you're on rollers yourself, you take your life in your hands these days in Central Park, N. Y., what with all the twosomes, threesomes, or lonesomes whizzing by on the roller vehicles. Already the skates worn by the grownups have been changed in style to better become their age and ambitions. Two-wheelers they are, instead of the four-wheelers upon which the very young generation goes skidding by.

It's a grand sensation, this roller skating. As one addict says: "The little wheels on the rough walk set up that curiously familiar vibration that cardionates the blood and uncorks the spirit."

And it is grand for reshaping legs that have gone heavy with lack of use. For the thighs, too. And hips!

Society Will Entertain at Race Opening

games, but they all will be back here by the 28th for a ten days' stay.

The penthouse on the Medinah Athletic club is to be their domicile while they are in Chicago, but they probably won't do much more than sleep and change clothes there, for they are to be so busy. On Monday, the 28th, Mr. Donnelley will give a stag dinner for them at the Harvard-Yale-Princton club; the next day they will play rugby football against an Illinois rugby fifteen and the next day will be spent in visiting the Fair, with a dinner at the Century club.

On Thursday, the 31st, Mr. Donnelley is giving a dinner dance at the Onwentsia, after a rugby match between the Vandals [the Britishers' club name] and the Goths, picked by Mr. McKeever. Another rugby game is scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 2, at Stagg field, and on Sunday, the 3d, the visitors will play cricket against a picked Illinois team, the match to be played in Winnetka. Another match will follow the next day in the same north shore town, and then the young men will be off for more matches and more parties in Benton Harbor, Philadelphia and Montreal. They will sail for home from the latter city on Sept. 15 aboard the Duchess of Atholl.

Horse Show at Fort Sheridan.

The one and only "grownup" horse show of the summer will be the show Maj. Gen. Frank Parker is planning for July 3 and 4 at Fort Sheridan. With the annual shows at the Onwentsia, Indian Hill, and South Shore Country clubs called off this year, the army show will attract a society crowd.

This does not mean, Gen. Parker was careful to explain yesterday, that the usual autumn horse show at Fort Sheridan is to be canceled. The summer show is a new and additional attraction. There will be thirty-one events during the two days with a number of children's competitions among them.

The dates for the Century of Progress horse show Prince Cantacuzene, Gen. Parker, and Maj. Roy Nordheimer are interested in have been definitely set for Oct. 21 to 29. The place has been tentatively announced as the big 124th Field artillery armory on the south side where the international polo matches were held this spring.

Sale Today at Cudahy Home.

Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy is opening her lovely home in Lake Forest, Innisfail, today for a sale and exhibition under the auspices of the Chicago Woman's exchange. Mrs. Ambrose Cramer, Mrs. John G. Gary, Mrs. John Coleman Jr., Mrs. Lester Armour and Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams will be among the board members assisting in the sale of the beautiful things for which the exchange is noted. Vases and other accessories for summer porches and gardens are to be featured.

Mrs. Potter Palmer will be the hostess today at one of the series of luncheons being given in the Mather tea room of the Art institute in connection with the Century of Progress exhibition now on view at the institute.

Rene Grimm-Provence, commissioner for Morocco to A Century of Progress, has sent out invitations to the opening of the Moroccan pavilion today at 4:30 o'clock. Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes and Mrs. Potter Palmer will pour coffee, and they will be assisted by a score of prominent women under the chairmanship of Mrs. Charles S. Dewey. Included among those who have received invitations are the board of directors of the Alliance Française and the officers of the Alliance Juniors.

From Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Clarkson came the announcement yesterday of the marriage of their niece, Catharine Seymour Calhoun, to Ernest Russell Willson, on Saturday, June 10, at Marlboro, Vt. Mr. and Mrs. Willson will be at home after Aug. 1 at 311 Belden avenue.

A distinguished French visitor to the city is Jules Sauerwein, the chief editor of the Paris Soir and a former editor of the Paris Le Matin. He will be here for a week, spending most of his time on the University of Chicago campus, where he is delivering a series of lectures.

The French consul general, Rene Weiller, and Mme. Weiller have gone to New York to meet their daughter, Odile, who is coming here to see A Century of Progress. Mlle. Weiller is a student at the Ecole des Seances Politiques in Paris. The three of them will reach Chicago next Sunday.

Seven from City in Smith Class.

Seven Chicago girls received the degree of bachelor of arts at Smith college yesterday. And just as many proud parents occupied seats in John M. Greene hall to witness the ceremonies.

Eleanor Egan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Chandler Egan of East Delaware place, was one of these girls. Miss Ruth Marion Miksak, the James W. Miksaks' daughter, another. The others included Miss Virginia Benjamin, Miss Joyce Mundt, Miss Charlotte Righelmer, Miss Marion Stewart, and Miss Jean Rumsey, whose mother, Mrs. Henry A. Rumsey of Elm street, motored east last week.

Miss Ann Steinbrecher, daughter of the Paul Steinbrechers of East Schiller street, who was voted the most literary member of her class at Wellesley, graduated cum laude from that college yesterday.

The tennis matches now being played at the River Forest Town and Tennis club have brought Miss Elizabeth Chapin back here from Long Island. Meantime she is having a short visit with her father, Lowell M. Chapin.

Two Graduate at Princeton Today.

It will be a sad blow to debutantes and post debutantes who have come under the spell of Peter Charles Fortune's infectious smile and attractive personality to learn that he will not be at home this summer, but will instead spend it traveling abroad as a graduation present from his parents, the John L. Fortunes, who, with his sister, Miss Jane Fortune, are in Princeton, N. J., today to see him receive his diploma.

Also in Princeton today, and for the same reason as the Fortunes, are the F. Thomas Morrises of Winnetka, and their daughter, Miss Mary Louise Morris. They are bringing Seymour Morris, who receives his diploma, back to Chicago with them, and also three or four of his classmates, arriving the end of the week. After he has been here a fortnight Mr. Morris is returning east to sail for Europe, where he will spend three months. The Morrises and Miss Morris will be here this summer.

Interesting News of Travel.

Miss Josephine Patterson, who went east some time ago, is expected in Chicago this week.

Mrs. George W. Blossom Jr. and her children are expected home from a year spent in Pasadena about July 1. When they do arrive at their Lake Forest house there will be a great welcome for this lovely lady and her four charming youngsters, whom every one will undoubtedly find most grown up after their long absence, as Louise has become 16; George W. III., 14, and Barbara and Douglas have reached the important ages of 12 and 10.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Poole of New York and their children, Elizabeth and Nicholas, will arrive tomorrow to visit Mrs. John R. Winterbotham and Mr. and Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr.

Bernard F. Rogers Jr. and his two daughters, Corina and Adele, who have been living in Paris with their mother, Mrs. Higginson Rogers, are on their way to New York from France, for Mr. Rogers is bringing the girls to Chicago to spend the summer. They will be in town for a while and then will go up to Fish Creek, Wis., with Mr. Rogers, to enjoy a little country life.

Charles H. Wacker of Biarritz, France, who has been in New York for several days, now is in Chicago for a week's stay, visiting his brother, Frederick G. Wacker and his family, and their sister, Mrs. Earle J. Zimmerman, and her family.

The American Institute of Interior Decorators opened their annual conference here yesterday to continue through Saturday. Among the guests are some of the leading decorators in the country.

Tomorrow morning a forum at the Drake hotel is to be addressed by Mrs. James Ward Thorne. Mrs. Thorne will tell about her stunning period rooms in miniature now on exhibition in the Ackermann galleries. Later in the day Ralph Rodney Root, landscape architect, will speak. On Friday afternoon a trip is planned for the visitors through some of the loveliest north shore gardens.

Cotton Still Holds Crown as Style King

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Back to cotton . . . there probably isn't a shopper who can remember any more cottons than have been hung around the stores this summer. You can play in cotton sports frocks, you shop in crisp street cotton ensembles, and you dance and dine, cooly, and most decoratively in dinner dresses and dance frocks of dotted swiss, eyelet embroidery and any material just so it can be swished through the soapsuds with charming equanimity.

And now you'll find some of the most delectably cool underlayers and nightgowns of cotton that you have ever dreamed about . . . from fetching pink checked gingham girdles with a matching brasserie, to unbelievably cool white dotted swiss negligees to wear down to iced orange juice and a nibble of toast. These white dotted swiss negligees are heart breaking affairs, especially when they are tied with a baby blue sash, made with ruffles and wide ruffled sleeves.

For the pink racketeers, there are all kinds of new shell pink nets, some ravishing pink chiffons that are priced lower than they have been in many a shopping season, and some filmy white chiffon negligees, but the cottons still steal the show.

You can find old fashioned dimities, the kind of stuff that stays cool and crisp and unwilted even after repeated trips to the tub . . . they are in blue, pink, a pale green, and some prints that are knockout.

This year these inexpensive cotton nightgowns and sleeping pajamas feature a mile or two of ruffles around neckline, hemline, and some of them are fashioned exactly like the newest be-ruffled dance dresses with wide shoulders and a square neckline outlined with a demure ruffle of the same material as the gown, or you can buy contrast ruffles if you wish.

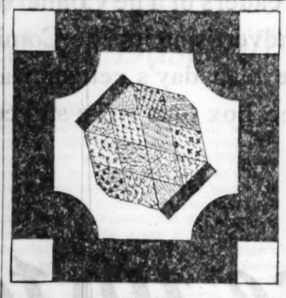
Interesting Quilt Will Utilize All Small Remnants



Japanese Lantern.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Japanese Lantern" is a pattern with several selling points in its favor. First, it is a new design. It is an interesting combination of quilt piecing and applique . . . the design is pieced and then appliqued on a twelve-inch block. More than that, it will enable the needleworker to use the many small scraps of prints left over from other quilting bees.

For a quilt pattern of this design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

City's Famous Artists Show Work at Fair

Hang Paintings in Home Planning Building.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

In the Home Planning building at A Century of Progress is a characteristic and interesting exhibit of paintings by members of the Association of Chicago Painters and Sculptors, of which John F. Stacey is president. The association includes many of the more famous Chicago artists and the canvases displayed are typical of their ability.

J. Allen St. John, who has long been an instructor in the Art institute school, is one of the painters with an enviable reputation. Many honors have been shown him through the years. In this exhibition he is represented by "Building the Rush Street Bridge," a stirring scene in the development of Chicago. Karl Plath, famous the country over for his magnificent bird studies, offers "Golden Parrots," a beautiful canvas.

Fruit of a long year abroad, Anna Lee Stacey and her husband, John F. Stacey, show two representative canvases. Mrs. Stacey has hung her very lovely "My Mantel in Paris" and Mr. Stacey shows his radiant landscape, "Misty Morning on the Seine." It is a loss to the contemporary American paintings in the Art institute official Century of Progress show that neither of these paintings hangs there.

Youngsters Use Heads When Spending Coin

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Wonder if the generation in the making at the moment won't be better prepared to meet the financial problems of marriage than preceding ones? The mother of a 14 year old tells an amusing anecdote in which financing a girl's evening was involved. The girl called up and asked the boy to come over and they'd go to a show, a movie.

The boy instantly responded with, "It'll have to be Dutch treat, then!" And so it was. The boy frankly stated the amount of money in his pocket and the girl accepted the necessary Dutch treat program.

Another mother tells me of her 17 year old girl and her beau, each on a modest weekly allowance, sitting down and figuring out exactly what entertainment might be enjoyed on their combined allowances, or what was then left. All of which may not be a sentimental trend, but certainly a sensible one.

Since money is the root of so much domestic wrangling and wreckage, this honesty of money expression should serve as a good training course. For the young man, particularly. He, it is, nursed on certain chivalric formulae that are economically outmoded today, who has most often been at fault on this money angle in marriage.

Pride, born of said chivalry, would not let him tell a girl he could not afford this and that. Countless men carried this false financial face right into marriage with the result that woman's so-called extravagance often was ignorance of the actual financial status.

Paris Makes Nonchalantly Styled Evening Wraps of New Linen Velvet

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Linen velvet may turn out to be one of the seven wonders of the fabric world. At present it's the white hope of its dark and desperate makers, because it looks as rich as silk velvet and is as cool as silk crepe or satin. Some of the best Paris dressmakers make little summer wraps of this material and some of the most fashionable women wear them for evenings around town.

The Patou jacket at the top of the sketch is made of green linen velvet, in a mossy shade. It is a simple square jacket that ends just above the waistline and has a small standing collar and revers. All the fantaisie comes in the sleeves, and that is plenty. These sleeves stand out along the shoulders like pointed wings, and from that place they are reduced in size until at the elbow they fit loosely. They are shirred at and just above the elbows.

The nonchalant evening cape, shown below, is from Louiseboulanger, and it is also made of linen velvet in the color of red hyacinths. The way this cape is cut is more like a shawl than anything else. It is square in front both at top and bottom, and the two top points of the square are knotted to hold the cape on. At the back it is round like a circular cape.

Hurry if You Want to Go to Sally's Party

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Are all you boys and girls in on the big race for invitations to White City? If not, you just haven't got good sense! For writing just one little letter you may have a chance to visit White City for an entire afternoon. Fifty boys and 50 girls are coming with me for a grand party out there Thursday, June 29, you know.

The lucky 100 will be those who write the best letters.

And are we going to go places and do things! We'll ride on all the roller coasters, go through the Fun house, down the slides, ride gayly through Venice, and even be whirled high, high up in the air on the Ferris wheel.

These, of course, are only a few of the attractions out there. I'd have to take an afternoon off to tell you about the good time to be provided for us—so you'd better just write to me and see if you can't come along!

You can take my word for it—this is not a party to miss. So scamper along and get your letters off, because they must be on my desk by day after tomorrow, or Thursday, June 22. On that day we'll select our 100 guests and their names will be printed in next Sunday's TRIBUNE.

Don't forget to include your name, address and age and address your letter to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

MINUTE MYSTERY
BY H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

REAL DRAMA.

"Did you see this, Joe?" asked Henry Clegg, a member of Fordney's club, as he handed the professor a newspaper. Fordney read the following account:

New York, June 9.—(A P)—Jack Kay, by many considered the best announcer in the country, interrupted the dramatization of one of Sherlock Holmes' adventures with: "At the next tone signal it will be exactly twenty-nine minutes after nine o'clock. Listen——"

But the sentence was never completed. A shot was heard by the radio audience. Most of them thought it part of the drama which Kay had been announcing. However, those in the studio saw him slump to the floor with a bullet through his head. Here was drama. Real drama!

Investigations have so far revealed that Jennings and Kay were the two final contestants for the job of announcing America's greatest program and that the sponsors only yesterday had selected Kay. There was bad feeling between them. All the people in the studio at the time, including Jennings, disclaim any knowledge of the identity of the murderer. It has been definitely established that Kay was shot by some one in the studio. The gun as yet has not been found.

"A very careless bit of reporting," was Fordney's comment as he handed back the paper.

WHY DID HE THINK SO?

[See solution on page 31.]

Summer Calls City's Society to Many Trips

McMillan of Winnetka is at home from a winter in Phoenix. . . . The young Edwin E. Tullises have moved from Lake Forest to Highland Park, where they have taken a house on Central avenue in which Mrs. Tullis' parents, Gen. and Mrs. Robert E. Wood, used to live. Miss Mary Wood has returned home from Farmington, and Robert E. Wood, II., who is a cadet at West Point, is arriving tomorrow to visit his parents. . . .

The Louis K. Boysens have their family circle complete now that Bobette is at home from college and Bigelow is back from the Principia school in St. Louis. Bigelow plans to enter college, probably Williams, in the fall. . . . The Secor Cunninghams and their daughter, Mrs. Aldis J. Browne, have left for their summer place at Hyannisport, Mass. Secor Browne, who goes to the Middlesex school, has joined his mother and grandparents in Hyannisport, but Aldis Jr. is going to be in Chicago for the summer. . . . Mrs. Charles Edward Brown and her daughter, Miss Betty Brown, and her young son, Townsend Brown, II., have left for the east. Edward T. Blair has left to spend the summer, and perhaps next winter, too, in France. . . . Mrs. Benjamin C. Allen has gone to England to visit her son-in-law and daughter, Maj. and Mrs. Oliver C. Bryson. Mrs. Allen Wilson and her child also are visiting the Brysons. Mrs. Allen will return in three or four months. . . .

Valentine and his daughter, Miss Jane Valentine, have left for their country place, Green Meadow Farm, at Ashland, Mass., to spend the summer there. Mrs. Valentine and young Joe are planning to leave on July 7 for a ranch in Wyoming, but they will be there only a month and then they will join the rest of the family at Ashland. . . .

The Howard Eltings and their daughter, Mrs. Joseph W. Donner of Buffalo, have gone to their farm at New Paltz, N. Y., for the summer. Mrs. Philip Elting and her daughter, Miss Ruth Elting, will not leave for their New York farm for about another month. . . . Mrs. Joseph E. Otis Jr. and Nancy, who is just back from her first year at Rosemary Hall, have gone up to Harbor Point for the summer. Mr. Otis joins them for week ends. . . . Mrs. J. Hill Whiting, who has been visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph E. Prussing, has left for Easthampton, L. I., to spend the summer with another daughter, Mrs. Jesse Spalding.

Bad Behavior Passes Quickly in Youngsters

Trying Phases of Childhood Are Temporary.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

A sentence or sometimes a paragraph I frequently come across in my letters—that is, in the ones you write me—interests me very much. It is expressed in various ways, but this particular extract gives the gist of it: "I am often tempted to write to you about the problems that arise. But before I can clearly analyze them and try to express them, the factors change or they solve themselves."

Isn't that true? And especially of young children?

They, having so much to learn and learning it so fast—about the world, material things, their homes, their parents, other children, and other grownups—get into ways of behaving that worry us, but pass through quickly. Of course, some habits or kinds of behavior become rooted and when they do there's something awry somewhere and we must dig it up and clear the air.

But on the whole younger children work out of behavior which we find troubling, quite naturally. Managed intelligently and let alone, they pass through this phase and outgrow that.

And from this knowledge many mothers should take heart—and also take their cue! Which is, don't supervise and direct your child too much.

Doctor Tells of N. Y. Study of Deafness

Dr. Edmund Prince Fowler, New York ear specialist, in an address before the scientific session of the American Federation of Organizations for the Hard of Hearing yesterday, said he believed that the chief cause of deafness—otosclerosis—seldom occurs without other contributing causes. Dr. Fowler is surgeon director of the Manhattan Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat hospital.

More than 500 scientists and laymen are attending the sessions which will be held through Thursday in the Lake Shore Athletic club. Speakers yesterday dealt particularly with scientific approaches to deafness and the problem of finding employment for the handicapped.

Dr. Fowler said he had reached his conclusion after a clinical study of 128 cases of otosclerosis, some private cases and others examined at the clinic in the hospital. The disease is the growth of a spongy bone substance in the internal ear.

"In 81 of these cases," Dr. Fowler said, "without any nerve deafness, 79 per cent showed distinct evidence of past or present inflammation in the middle ears."

HERE'S the record-breaking advertisement! Notice particularly it called for Ralston box tops—not just coupons. And Ralston is a high quality whole wheat cereal regularly priced at 25¢ a package. No other advertisement ever published pulled as many box tops or other direct evidence of the purchase of a client's product. This page appeared in The Comic Weekly, Sunday, February 19—so that its productive period encountered the handicap of the national bank moratorium. Hence the record-breaking results are doubly significant. They demonstrate again the ability and willingness of readers of The Comic Weekly to spend money in response to advertising in The Comic Weekly regardless of conditions. The high day's return was 28,372 box tops. Three months later, box tops were still coming in at the rate of 200 per day.

Ralston Sales Increase up to 46.9%

Lowest Inquiry Cost in Ralston History

The Comic Weekly also set an all-time, low inquiry cost record on Ralston—lower than any publication, radio or other form of advertising in Ralston history. Why? Because everybody reads the comics. The Comic Weekly gave Ralston the opportunity of economically reaching not only the parents but also the children who are the real cereal eaters.

5,000,000 circulation—concentrated in the wealthiest buying areas—The Comic Weekly reaches the entire family. For men it holds more interest than the sports page; for women, more interest than the woman's and society pages. For children, it is all absorbing to 99%. All of this at a cost of ⅓ of a cent per family.

For complete information on this powerful new advertising medium, and proof of any statement made, call Columbus 5-2642 in New York, or Superior 6820 in Chicago.

Every Sunday five million families (more than 15,000,000 people) read The Comic Weekly. They must know what is happening to Tillie the Toiler, Jiggs, Barney Google, Felix the Cat, Skippy, Pop-Eye, and other beloved characters. That's why Ralston and other shrewd advertisers place their advertising alongside these proven attention-getters. A. L. STARS ARE HOME TEAM IN BATTLE JULY 6

Voting on Lineups to Close Today.

BY ARCH WARD.

The American league team will be the home club in the game of the century at Comiskey park July 6. This was decided yesterday by the toss of a coin in the offices of President William Harridge.

John Heydler, president of the National league, and Mr. Harridge agreed to decide by lot which team should be entitled to the advantages that go to the so-called home club. Strictly speaking, there is no home team, because both groups are composed of all stars, the strongest combinations that can be recruited from the major leagues. It was necessary, however, to designate one club as the home team to facilitate the handling of details.

Second American League Victory.

Leslie O'Connor, secretary to Commissioner K. M. Landis, represented Mr. Heydler. John O. Seys, vice president of the Cubs, was an unofficial observer. Mr. O'Connor called heads as the writer flipped the coin and it turned up tails. This was the second time the American league had scored, for Mr. Harridge called the turn two weeks ago to decide the site of the game.

Yesterday's victory entitles the American league to use the American league ball the first half of the game and to employ an American league umpire behind the plate the first half of the contest. More important, it gives Connie Mack's players the right to bat last. It also gives them the right to wear the white uniform, which is considered a psychological advantage because it always is the color of the home team at regularly scheduled games.

A. L. Team at Del Prado.

The American league team will occupy the third base dugout. This technicality was not involved in yesterday's toss because tickets had been allotted on this basis.

Connie Mack and all members of the American league team will be quartered at the Del Prado hotel the day of the game. None of them will be in town until the morning of July 6. Mr. Mack will discuss team strategy with his men before they leave for Comiskey park, where the game is scheduled to start at 1:15 o'clock. The early starting time was decided upon to give American league players opportunity to catch late afternoon trains to the east where they must appear the following day.

Final arrangements for National league players will be made in New York today when Mr. Heydler meets the eight club owners. William L. Veeck, president of the Cubs, left yesterday to attend the session.

Still Time to Order Seats.

Persons who have applied for seats will receive their tickets in the mail this week-end or the first of next week. Those who have had instructions to call at Comiskey park July 1 are asked to mail back the card with a self-addressed, stamped envelope, and their tickets will be sent to them by mail.

If you haven't ordered your tickets there still is time. Officials of Comiskey park yesterday reported there were about 8,000 unsold grandstand seats. The price is $1.10. If you want to see the greatest game ever scheduled, send your request immediately to the All-Star Baseball Department, Comiskey park, Chicago.

This is the last day to qualify for the $500 prize money THE TRIBUNE is awarding to those who come closest to picking the starting lineups for the big game. Lineups postmarked later than midnight tonight will not be counted.

Only the Best Will Play.

The voting ends simultaneously in the other cities which have been conducting polls. Their final tabulations will be sent to THE TRIBUNE, to be added to the grand totals. It will be three or four days before the complete count will be available.

The fans' choices will be presented to Mr. Harridge and Mr. Heydler as soon as available. There will be no changes in the personnel of the teams unless the league heads feel that a player selected is not in condition to give his best. There will be no sentiment in the game of the century. It is the strongest team in the National league against the strongest in the American. Only the best merit a place in the lineups.

The complimentary list at Comiskey park will be suspended for this game. Net proceeds go to the Baseball Players' Charity organization, and every one except working newspaper and radio men will pay his way.

GOLFER'S CLEATS DIG UP DIAMOND LOST BY PARTNER

Denver, Colo., June 19.—(AP)—William Kennedy slipped when he started to drive a golf ball off the third tee of the Evergreen club course. He missed the ball.

His cleats dug up a $400 diamond that his golfing partner, Frank Iacino, had lost out of a ring while he was playing the hole on an earlier round. Iacino didn't know the diamond had been lost until Kennedy found it.

How They're Voting on National League Stars

The baseball fans of the nation will decide who will play in the game of the century at Comiskey park July 6. Fifty-five newspapers in all sections of the United States have invited fans to help pick the National and American leagues' greatest players.

The Tribune is offering $500 in cash prizes to the fans who come closest to naming the teams. The first award of $250 will go to the person who comes closest to naming the starting lineups [batting order] and the three pitchers for each team in the order they work. The fan who selects the American league's starting lineup with starting pitcher will receive $100. A similar prize will be presented for the National league team. Fifty $1 prizes will be distributed among the fans who can name the six pitchers.

In case more than the allotted number qualify for the awards, the prizes will go to those whose selections reach The Tribune first.

Schumacher Scores Fifth Shutout of Year.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 19.—The New York Giants this afternoon again plastered the Chicago Cubs with a shutout, 3 to 0, the second goose egg affair in two days the Chicagoans have been here. The tragic event was engineered by Hal Schumacher, who held the Cubs to three scattered hits, two of which were negotiated by Riggs Stephenson. As a result of their puny efforts the Cubs sagged 6½ games back of first place.

It was Schumacher's fifth shutout of the year and the second 3 to 0 performance he has turned in against the Cubs, the other one having been perpetrated in Chicago on May 18. It was the sixth New York victory in eight games played with the thoroughly frightened champions of 1932.

Ends Root's Winning Streak.

The tragic event of the afternoon ended Charley Root's winning streak at four straight. Charley pitched brilliantly in all but the first and eighth innings, holding the Giants to one single in the span between the Giants' opening and closing innings.

The winning run was scored in the first inning as a result of singles by the first three batsmen who faced Root. Critz opened the New York offensive with a single to center and stopped on second on the first of O'Doul's three singles. Ott then singled off the right field wall, Critz scoring and O'Doul stopping at third. Terry popped to Jurges and Vergez hit into a double play.

The next hit off Root was made by O'Doul with one out in the sixth and was followed by a pass to Ott. Terry, a bust all afternoon, sent a short fly to Stephenson and Vergez fouled to Hartnett.

O'Doul Hits No. 3.

The fifth hit off Root was made by Schumacher to start the eighth. Critz flied to Demaree, but O'Doul came up with his No. 3 single, putting Schumacher on third. Ott bounced to Bill Herman, whose throw to the plate was much too slow to get Schumacher. Terry again was a flop with a lazy fly to Demaree, but Vergez doubled to right, scoring O'Doul. Moore was thrown out by Bill Herman.

The Cub attack was negligible, as indicated by the score and the hit tabulation, but the Giants gave them several scoring efforts through the commission of four errors.

In the first inning English got on with a pass and Bill Herman hit into a double play. Babe Herman then made second base when Moore dropped his easy fly and took third on Stephenson's single to right. Hendrick ran the count to three balls and two strikes, after which he tapped to Ryan for the third out.

Miss More Chances.

In the third inning English again walked, this time with one out, but Bill Herman again hit into a double play.

In the fifth inning the Cubs got the bases full for the first of two times. Jurges doubled with one down and Root fanned. Jurges took third when English was safe on Ryan's high throw. Bill Herman walked, filling the

Another Alger Hero—That's Ross, if He Beats Canzoneri

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Young Barney Ross, who is preparing to meet the lightweight champion of the world, Tony Canzoneri, at the Stadium Friday night for the second most valuable ring title [an exception is made for the more or less shop worn heavyweight crown] must pinch himself, now and then, to make certain he isn't dreaming. Four years ago Barney won the Golden Gloves intercity featherweight championship against New York. Now he's ready to face Canzoneri, who is regarded universally as the best of all professional fighters for his pounds and inches.

Barney's career reads something like an Alger epic of the last generation; indeed, all Barney needs to fit a character in "Phil the Fiddler," or "Sink or Swim," is victory Friday night. The simile may be continued. Like an Alger hero, Barney finds he is opposed by tremendous odds. Canzoneri, who, after all, is rather an amiable villian, is highly favored to whip Ross.

Ross' Left May Win.

Against any other lightweight Barney would be the choice. Those few who may be expected to risk a few dollars on Barney's success are not minimizing Barney's ability, but are thinking of Canzoneri's success when his title is at stake.

"I'll cut loose with my roll if the price goes higher than 8 to 5 on Tony," one of the Rialto boys who makes his money grow by picking 'em correctly said yesterday as he watched Canzoneri punching the bag as if he hadn't piled a couple of ring careers in one and still had the snap of a man five years younger. "Barney's no chump," our acquaintance continued. "If he can keep his left in Tony's face for ten rounds he may be the winner. Barney can hit, but I hope he doesn't try to trade blows with Tony."

All of which probably is a consensus of the public's estimation of the championship bout. It might be added, however, that constant toil with a host of fighters in many rings, no matter the results of the bouts, hasn't increased Canzoneri's effectiveness since the night three years ago that he knocked out Champion Al Singer in less than two minutes. Perhaps Tony hasn't started down, but certainly he isn't going up.

Barney Headed Upward.

Barney's on the upgrade. He may not win the championship Friday night, but he will continue to lead the parade of challengers. Youth is an asset, but its companion, inexperience, will be a liability. But if Barney gets by the first round, can settle down and forget he's fighting for a title and a lot of money, anything may happen.

If the Stadium is sold out Friday night it will amount to $91,000 net, of which Barney will receive 20 per cent, or approximately $18,000. Canzoneri's percentage is double, which is the reason he's put up his title.

The Stadium is working overtime trying to fit the requests for press accommodations into the available 68 seats. Jack Dempsey, who is escorting Max Baer on an exhibition tour, expects to attend. The pair are scheduled in St. Paul, Minn., Thursday night and will make Chicago their next stop. Joe Jacobs, whose Max Schmeling dropped out of the money when he forgot to duck Baer's flailing right hand, is due in Chicago today. Acccording to the Stadium publicity department, he's ready to pay $20,000 for Ross' contract, which is unnecessary emphasis of Barney's rating.

Alvis Makes a Bid.

Ray Alvis, again quoting the Stadium publicists, is anxious to put up $30,000 for the winner Friday night to face his Mexican lightweight, Tony Herrera. Alvis once gave Tuffy Griffith $25,000 to get him in the ring with King Levinsky, but that is another story, for all the King received was a boxing lesson.

MONTREAL NOW SEEKS ST. LOUIS CARD FRANCHISE

MONTREAL, Que., June 19.—(AP)—The Montreal Gazette tomorrow will say that plans are under way for the transfer of the St. Louis Cardinal National league franchise to Montreal. Recent reports have been to the effect that the St. Louis Browns' American league franchise might be brought here, but the newspaper will say negotiations now definitely are concerned with the Cardinals.

"The situation appears to be this," the Gazette will say. "Owner Phil Ball of the St. Louis Browns and also owner of Sportsman's park, St. Louis, is willing to release the Cardinals from their lease, believing the city of St. Louis can no longer support two major league ball clubs.

"The Browns and Sportsman's park represent an investment of $850,000 and owner Ball figures he has too much tied up in his project at St. Louis to move elsewhere. However, he is willing to free the Cardinals from their contract.

"Leo Dandurand and Joe Cattarinich [Montreal sportsmen] who were the first to make the move to bring major league ball here, have been in touch with Cardinal officials and it is believed the National league franchise could be obtained if the local sportmen were able to make satisfactory arrangements with the Montreal Exhibition company, which owns the local stadium."

Al Simmons Turns In Fielding Gem.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The keen taste of the White Sox for morsels of left handed pitching asserted itself yesterday, much to the chagrin of Vernon Gomez in particular, and the champion Yankees in general. The frail Castilian southpaw, who met a similar fate in his last appearance here, was wrapped up in a bundle of five hits in the fourth inning and the Sox made that one attack count as a full day's work. Four runs were registered while Gomez was on the ropes and that proved sufficient to defeat the titleholders, 4 to 3.

Although Ed Durham, late of the Boston Red Sox, wasn't around at the finish, he was present long enough to hang up his sixth victory and also to collect some favorable comment on his work. During the first seven innings he refused to give up more than four hits and one run. After that he was different. Three sound hits in the eighth, one of them Lou Gehrig's 16th homer of the campaign, were accepted as a hint that he had worn himself threadbare. Old Red Faber finished for him in the ninth and there were no untoward happenings.

Simmons Gains on Chapman.

Al Simmons, who is ill at ease over the loss of the American league batting lead to Ben Chapman of the Yanks, Sunday, was able to break in with one hit in three attempts. The hit served a double purpose because it was mixed up with smashes by Swanson, Appling, Dykes, and Berry in the profitable fourth. The day's average of .333 pulled Simmons down to .368 from .369. But just the same he gained some ground on the fleet footed Yank who now is showing him the way. Chapman produced one hit for a .250 figure, lowering his season's mark from .373 to .370.

Simmons also enjoyed furnishing the only stellar defensive play of the day, an item keenly enjoyed by a hundred of his home town admirers who were among the 10,000 in attendance. Simmons made his masterful fielding contribution in the eighth and it probably was of considerable help to Durham. Just after Gehrig had blasted his homer into the seats, Tony Lazzeri whacked a real drive to left. Simmons took one look and ran into position to get it on the rebound off the wall. It popped into his hands and he whistled it like a rifle shot to Hayes to nip Tony at second. Then the inning ended with Hayes stabbing a wicked drive by Dixie Walker, who was subbing for Mr. Babe Ruth, who was ill.

Yankees Score in First.

Durham slipped a pair of strikeouts to the Yanks in the first inning, but this wasn't enough to keep them from getting a runner across the plate. Combs fanned for a starter and Sewell singled to center. He sprinted to third on Chapman's single over short. Gehrig tapped to Kress, who fumbled momentarily, and then threw to second to force Chapman, Sewell scoring. The momentary fumble was just enough to prevent a double play.

The Sox worked gradually toward their big assault that carried Gomez out of the picture. Haas singled in the first inning, but Swanson flied out and Simmons popped foul. Appling led off in the second with a single. Nothing came of this because Kress bounced into a double play and Dykes hoisted to Walker. Then Berry brought up something of promise by tripling to right center to start the third, but the next three batters couldn't get the ball out of the infield.

Downfall of Gomez.

The anti-Gomez campaign in the fourth opened with Swanson's single to center. Simmons' ballot was a single to left. Appling tried to bunt, but failed, so swung and lined a hit over Lazzeri, scoring Swanson and putting Simmons on third. Kress spanked a long fly to right and Simmons scored after the catch. Appling

All-Star Game Just What Doctor Ordered for Baseball

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 19.—The special ball game between selected teams of the American and National leagues, playable in Chicago on July 6, represents the only constructive original idea which has been introduced into the baseball industry since the invention of the recording turnstile.

The synthetic or St. Louis type of double header was an innovation, to be sure, but this does not seem to have been a constructive idea. It has trained the customers to regard a single ball game as a short weight entertainment, and in time they may come to believe that they should receive a season ticket for the price of one admission. There is such a thing as spoiling the customers.

Mosquitoes Wreck Night Games.

The idea of baseball by lamplight, which was tested a couple of seasons ago, has not succeeded, the failure being largely due to the man-eating transport type mosquitoes which gnawed the patrons and poisoned them with resentment. If the St. Louis double header spoiled the customers, the nocturnal ball game was like to ruin them, and no industry can regard an idea as constructive which spoils or ruins the paying guests.

Even now the interleague game between selected teams, as distinguished from the world series type of interleague contest, is regarded strictly as an experiment, and both leagues have left themselves in a position to disown the notion. The idea originated with Arch Ward, the sports editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, who doubtless had it in mind to sell a few papers, which is a laudable desire in a sports editor.

May Change Series Routine.

Although the two leagues are engaged in the same business, they have always maintained a formal coolness toward one another, wherein they bear a resemblance to the Democratic and Republican parties. Any suggestion calling for a merging of interests for the good of the industry had to come from the outside and the acceptance had to have the appearance of public spirited acquiescence.

This is the present status of the interleague arrangement, which is now developing remarkable popularity among the patrons, not only in Chicago but throughout the major league territory and its minor league colonies and dependencies. The risk to league prestige is negligible, because it is recognized that a single ball game does not decide much, if anything, as to the relative values of the teams concerned, but the eventual benefits may be great if the leagues decide that the experiment didn't hurt much, after all, and make some arrangement to break up their traditional routine of 154 league games followed by a world series, and substitute some scheme of selection for their champions.

What's Wrong With Series.

The world series system has been failing somewhat in recent years, as was shown by large patches of vacant seats in various arenas when the athletes were playing out the program known as the annual fall blue ribbon classic of the national pastime. Moreover, the world series system in many cases has excluded great ball players from the championship games who, by any selective system, could not have been passed over.

Walter Johnson was past his prime before he broke into a world series in 1924, whereas, on his merits, he should have been included on all the teams claiming to represent the best in the American league for many years before that. George Sisler never played in a world series, although many American leaguers did take part in the big games during his time who were not good enough to carry his glove.

Perfect Game for Fans.

Although Mr. Ward's central idea was to sell some papers it would be incorrect to say that his motive in proposing the ball game and in promoting the idea with the leagues was entirely professional. There never was a good sports editor who was not also a sports fan, and Mr. Ward's professional enthusiasm was tinged or flavored or something with the fan's natural interest in a contest of real champions. These elements and a good sports editor's desire to stir up something are responsible for the realization of an idea which may have occurred to others in the past but which, if it did occur, was abandoned on the ground that custom and the rules made no provision for it.

Possibly there was some feeling of

Combs Horse Surprises Fans at Lincoln Fields.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The stylish filly Nituma, owned by Sewell Combs of Kentucky and which has been hiding around Chicago for most of the season, came out of her shell in the Flamingo purse at Lincoln Fields yesterday afternoon.

The daughter of Cherokee-Ancestress came to life with such suddenness that she dashed from behind, galloped six furlongs in 1:12, and defeated Algeria, from Col. Edward R. Bradley's stable, for the big end of the purse.

Algeria was the even money favorite and Night Jasmine second choice. When the shrinking violet, Nituma, started running down the stretch both the early leaders wilted as she challenged. Nituma went on to win by three-quarters of a length from Algeria. Night Jasmine was close when the final verdict was returned.

Pays $11.34 to Win.

Nituma, backed slightly by a few loyal folk from Kentucky, paid $11.34 to win, $3.84 to place, and $2.86 to show. Algeria was at $2.66 to place and $2.36 to show. Night Jasmine paid $3.96 to show.

The defeat of Algeria was a bitter pill for the followers of Bradley's horses to swallow. Most of them remained loyal, however, and backed By Gracious, the Bradley color bearer in the seventh race.

By Gracious did not fail them. She was out in front all the way, except for a breathing spell on the turn when she let Dusky Devil take up the job of pacemaking for a brief interval.

Westrope Lets Her Go.

Jockey Westrope gave the Bradley filly her head as the stretch run started and she ran away from her field, as her daddy, Bubbling Over, did when he was in his prime. She won easily from Sandwrack, who was doing his best to beat Dusky Devil out of second money. By Gracious paid only $5.08, but that was enough to get the Bradley followers who had backed Algeria even.

The weather was hot, yet a crowd of 9,000 endured it. The favorites were not so hot, and when Wirt G. Bowman, at less than even money, was beaten in the first race the expert handicappers began to realize they were in for a stormy afternoon.

The favorite players were foiled in the second race when Eskimo, old enough to be a grandpa to the young horses here, found his legs thawed out by the hot sunshine. He proceeded to put on one of his old time speed demonstrations and came from behind to win handily at odds of 12 to 1.

Sad Knight won the fourth race and the favorite, La Salle, was nowhere, while Sultry, the outsider, trimmed Celtic Prince and Fire Flash, both heavily backed, in the fifth.

DE VALERA WINS FEATURE RACE AT AQUEDUCT

New York, June 19.—[Special.]—H. C. Phipps' De Valera, the odds-on favorite, won the Woodhaven purse, feature at Aqueduct, today. Jockey Mills warded off the repeated challenges of the Brookmeade stable's overlooked Inlander as De Valera won by a length. Marshall Field's Nimbus was third.

The start was good. De Valera was off slightly in front and Inlander, usually a bad post horse, was off on his toes, forcing the pace. Nimbus was rather sluggish, but closed fast to get third, a length back of Inlander. De Valera was backed to 7 to 10. Inlander was at 2 to 1 for place. The time was 1:38 4-5.

A crowd of 8,000—unusual for this track on a Monday—was out for the second day of the meeting.

W. F. Phelan's Flying Sailor, backed from 20 to 1 to 7 to 1, just lasted in the third race, winning by a head, with W. Moran in the saddle. Maxwell Howard's Orphean, trained by Earl Sande, finished fastest of all in the stretch to get the place. J. P. Smith's Ayston, second to Flying Sailor until replaced by Orphean, was third.

Gallant Sir and Plucky Play Turn in Fast Workouts

Folks with the stable of Norman W. Church of Los Angeles were all smiles after Gallant Sir and Plucky Play, handicap stars, engaged in brilliant workouts yesterday morning. Gallant Sir moved along for six furlongs in 1:13 4-5 and did it easily. Plucky Play went seven furlongs without being urged in 1:26 4-5. These gallops indicated that both will start in the Francis S. Peabody Memorial handicap on Saturday.

Old Wirt G. Bowman, the beaten 7 to 10 favorite, in the first race yesterday, was claimed from A. A. Baroni by P. A. Donald for $1,000. Old Wirt didn't like it at all and refused to leave the paddock when the halters on him had been changed. As a 7 to 10 shot he ran a disgraceful race. The fans who backed him hoped that Mr. Donald had claimed him to retire him from racing.

La Salle was another old timer to bring distress to the favorite players. This happened in the fourth race. For three-quarters of a mile he hardly was able to outrun a horse, yet he was at 8 to 5 in the betting. He showed a spurt or two of speed later on, but wound up seventh, beaten off by Sad Knight and Batty, the two leaders.

Sidney Grant, which narrowly missed winning the Sweitzer handicap at Washington park, will be a keen horse in the Peabody Memorial if his workout yesterday morning means anything. He stepped a mile and an eighth in 1:54 3-5, and was hard held most of the way.

ADSUM, a strong factor from the start and strongly restrained for three-quarters, took command with a rush and won with something in reserve. WIRT G. DUNES had speed from start, was under light restraint first five-eighths, and held on gamely to final eighth before weakening.

ESKIMO, improved beaten field, but was taken back to follow the pace, slowly wore down ANNAN, and won drawing out. Latter took command easily after a quarter, came away when saving ground at the turn, and held on gamely, but was not good enough. GIBBY'S CHOICE, always close to the pace and raced a trifle wide, moved up strongly in stretch, but weakened in final sixteenth.

ALGERIA began fast, was taken in hand at turn, moved to NIGHT JASMINE with a rush entering stretch and, getting to front, weakened, but outstayed NIGHT JASMINE. Latter, away slowly and rushed to the lead, crossed to inside when clear at turn and also weakened badly in late stages.

Eastern Turf Stars Flock to Arlington

Famous horses from New York and from all along the Atlantic seaboard began to arrive in Chicago yesterday for the opening of the Arlington Park Jockey club's summer season on next Monday afternoon.

The stables of Mr. and Mrs. John Hay Whitney, Willis Sharpe Kilmer and Adolphe Pons were in the shipment.

The Llangollen stable of the Whitneys numbered 16 and came in charge of Trainer James W. Healy. Bobby Jones, the contract rider, will report in time for the opening. Among the outstanding members of this establishment are Poppyman, a candidate for the Classic, and Stepenfetchit, which finished second in the event last year. He is entered in the Stars and Stripes and Arlington handicaps.

Crowning Glory in Lot.

Crowning Glory, Llangollen's candidate for the Arlington Inaugural handicap, also was in the shipment, as were a number of promising 2 year olds. Llangollen has seven entries in the Hyde Park, two in the Lassie stakes and six in the Arlington futurity.

Benny Creech brought 15 horses from New York, including the Classic candidates, Dark Winter, Sun Apollo and Sun Archer, and this group will be joined by the division which George Land has at Lincoln Fields. Others in the Creech consignment were Sunmelus, Dark Love, Sunadof, Sun Monk, Sun Rouge, Dark Roma, American Air, Highdine, War, Dark Mist, Lucy Fabine, and Al Neiman.

Pons Ships in Five.

The famous filly, Swivel, and Projectile, both eligible for the Classic, were among the five horses belonging to Adolphe Pons which arrived yesterday. The others were Arrowswift, Discovery and Divert. Trainer J. R. Pryce will assemble his entire stable at the north side course in a few days, the others being at Lincoln Fields.

A shipment arriving from California included the Oaktree stable's Bahamas, a candidate for the Arlington Inaugural, Stars and Stripes and Arlington handicaps; Paul Kelly's Capt. Danger, J. B. Partridge's Luke Connell, and L. T. Whitehill's Bonnie Maureen, Ping Coates, Inheritor, and Shasta Star.

Warstler's homer in the fifth with two runners ahead of him was a line smash to center that Averill tried unsuccessfully to trap on the dead run. Clint Brown was the losing pitcher, although the Red Sox got more in the ninth. Score:

Tinning to Pitch for Cubs Today; He'll Pray for Run

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 19.—Bud Tinning will pitch for the Cubs tomorrow and pray for a run or two. With the Cubs never getting home and rarely to third, pitching for the team is getting to be a heart breaking task.

The successive shutouts here are not the only handrunning pair the Cubs have suffered this year. St. Louis did it to 'em early in the season.

Today's was the tenth shutout accomplished by the Giants, giving them league leadership in the department of stinginess.

New York fans are not especially wild eyed about the Giants despite the splendid showing of the team to date. Observers attribute the comparative lack of enthusiasm to Manager Bill Terry, who is not popular with the populace. Although he is a great ball player, Terry is rated as a sullen, bully type not especially appealing to the fans.

President William Veeck of the Cubs is expected to join the team tomorrow. He may be able to allay the fear and trembling which seizes the outfit every time it gets away from Wrigley field.

The margin of six and one-half games which now separates the Cubs from first place is exactly the same gap that existed when the Cubs started their pennant drive last Aug. 3. Then the Cubs had only one team to overtake; now they have three, but much more time to do it in.

PHILS GET FOUR RUNS IN SEVENTH; BEAT REDS, 8 TO 7

Philadelphia, Pa., June 19.—(AP)—The Phillies broke a five game losing streak today by beating the Cincinnati Reds in the opening game of their series, 8 to 7. Chuck Klein took the lead among National league home run hitters when his 12th of the season broke a tie with Berger.

Grantham's fumble of Klein's easy chance cleared the way for a four run rally in the seventh. Bottomley hit a home run with two on base in the fifth. Score:

DODGERS, 6; CARDINALS, 5.

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 19.—(AP)—Johnny Frederick's single to right field, with one out in the ninth, drove Jimmy Jordan across the plate and culminated the Dodgers' uphill battle in a 6 to 5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals today.

The Cards moved into a long early lead off Hollis Thurston, but were unable to do much with Joe Shaute, who pitched the last six innings. The Dodgers scored twice in the third, when Danny Taylor hit a home run after a single by Thurston, and then tied the score with a three run attack off Walker and Johnson in the fourth. Jess Haines was on the mound when Frederick and Jordan put together their hits for the winning run. Score:

Baby Joe Gans Wins Over Portney in Ten Rounds

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 19.—(AP)—Baby Joe Gans, New York Negro welterweight, defeated Jack Portney of Baltimore in a fast ten round bout tonight. Gans, weighing 148, was too good a puncher for his 147 pound opponent, who has lost only six of his 75 professional bouts. Lew Raymond, 147, of Baltimore, won a decision over Billy Holt, 147, Homewood, Pa., Negro, in a 10 round bout.

Armour Cards Sub Par 71; Leads State Pro Golf Field

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Tommy Armour's quiver of golfing tools were as hot as the day itself yesterday in the first round of the Illinois state professional championship tournament at the Medinah Country club, for with them, and particularly his putter, he fashioned a 71, one under par, to lead the field into today's final round of 18 holes.

Three strokes back of Armour in the battle against heat and par over Medinah's trying No. 3 course, was Neil Christian of Lincoln Park, who turned in a 74. Eddie Gayer of Twin Orchards and Bob MacDonald, competing unattached, followed with 75's, with a trio of 76's, including Harry Cooper of Glen Oak, Frank Walsh of Bryn Mawr, and Harry Adams of Hickory Hills, next in line.

Decide Title This Morning.

The tournament, conducted by the Chicago District Golf association, attracted a field of 60 Illinois professionals, but the heat and the difficulties of the No. 3 course proved too much for a number of competitors, several withdrawals resulting. The final round for the pro championship will be played this morning, with an 18 hole pro-amateur event scheduled for the afternoon.

The qualifying round for the Illinois amateur championship will be played at 27 holes tomorrow, with the low 32 scorers entering the match play in the championship and championship consolation flights. Other scores will be paired in brackets of 16 for first, second, and third flights. The match play will be decided in two 18 hole rounds on Thursday and Friday, with the 36 hole championship and championship consolation finals on Saturday.

The amateur event is expected to attract all of the district stars, including Warren Dawson of Green Valley, who won the title in 1931 as well as last year. Jim Foulis, who took the professional championship last year, found the going tough yesterday, finishing up with an 81 for the first 18.

Stars Tee Off Together.

Among the all star pairings for the professional final this morning are Foulis, Adams, and Abe Espinosa at 9:20 o'clock; Armour, Cooper, and Walsh at 9:40, and Christian, Gunnar Nelson, and Bert Montressor at 9:55. Play in the pro-amateur event will begin at 1 p. m.

The admission to the finals today and the windup of the amateur meet on Saturday will be $1, with a 50 cent admission for tomorrow, Thursday and Friday. The club can be reached by the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad and the Greyhound bus lines, while motorists from the loop are advised to take Washington boulevard west to Elmhurst-York road, then turn right to the Lake street road, and left on Lake street to the club. The cards for Armour and Christian follow:

Tommy in Title Form.

Armour was hitting the ball well throughout his round, and his putter clicked on nearly every green. He encountered his greatest difficulty on the 10th, where his second shot was bunkered, his third was against the fence and his fourth was also in a trap. He sank a two footer for a birdie at the fourth, a 15 footer for another at the eighth, a six footer for a trey at the 11th, and 12, 15, 8, and 20 footers at the 13th, 14th, 15th, and 16th. His chip shot for an eagle at the home green struck the back of the cup, but bounded away and he took two putts to get down.

Christian ran down a 25 foot putt for a deuce at the second hole. He three putted the third from 15 feet away, and had a poor lie with his drive to the fourth. He took three to reach the ninth green. He hit the cup with his second at the 14th and the ball hopped away, so that he took two to get down. He was on the 18th in two and sank an eight footer for his birdie.

Barth Meets Leonard on Western Card

Carmen Barth, Cleveland, O., middleweight, who won the Olympic championship at Los Angeles, Cal., last summer, will meet Kid Leonard of East Moline in the eight round main bout of a boxing show at Western stadium, Devon and Western avenues, tonight.

Leonard, a slugger who whipped Karl Ogren and Freddy Langford in his last two Chicago appearances, will face one of the most severe tests of his career in Barth, who has been winning consistently around his home town since turning professional a few months ago.

The six round semi-windup will bring together Don Gonzales of Cleveland, intercity and international featherweight Golden Gloves champion in 1931, and Frankie Hughes of Clinton, Ind., at 140 pounds. Gonzales knocked out Tony Muscarello in a round last year.

Laddie Tonelli, who has 13 straight victories to his credit, will battle Nick Serondis of Moline in another six rounder. Other bouts:

Gordon Roth vs. Pete Mage [4].

Five bouts and a wrestling match will comprise the card tonight at the Johnny Coulon club, 1154 East 63d street. Art Donovan, Patsy Pollock, Guy Schriver, Mickey O'Dowd, Ed Chinski and Jack Robinson are slated to box. George Kogut will wrestle Joe Owaccis.

Packey McFarland, Illinois athletic commissioner, has started training and in 10 days reduced from 203 to 190 . . . Oren Miller replaces Jimmy Kaur against Georgie Turner in a four round contest at the Stadium Friday . . . The commission yesterday granted Sammy Wolff, July 5 to present a show at Mills stadium.

King Levinsky yesterday requested a rehearing on his recent 30 day suspension by the state boxing commission. The request will be considered next Monday. . . . Eddie Shea, south side featherweight, has agreed to head the show on June 30 at Sparta stadium. . . . Tuffy Griffith was at Trafton's gymnasium with his right thumb still in a splint. The injury occurred in his match with King Levinsky a couple of weeks ago.

Amateur boxers from Detroit, Milwaukee, and Rockford will meet a selected team from Chicago at Mills stadium on Aug. 31, when 24 bouts will be held. The show is being sponsored by the Italian field day committee. All of the boxers who will compete are of Italian descent.

Amateur boxers in five classes have entered the tournament tomorrow night at Ashland arena, 3537 North Ashland avenue. They are Allen Asp, middleweight; Augie Vollmer, lightweight; Eric Schlachter, featherweight; Eddie Johnson, flyweight, and Anton Koch, heavyweight. John Smik will meet Steve Smith in a wrestling contest.

Carnera Lumbers Through 6 Round Boxing Workout

Pompton Lake, N. J., June 19.—(AP)—Primo Carnera boxed six rounds today in preparation for his 15 round title bout with Jack Sharkey June 29. Primo's opponents were Harold Mays, Bayonne, N. J., heavyweight; Les Kennedy of California, and a clownish Negro named Umberto Arsi, labeled the champion of Porto Rico.

Weighing 261 pounds, Carnera appeared in marvelous physical condition, but his punching was little improved over the last time he fought Sharkey, almost two years ago. Steady application to his boxing lessons has improved his stance and his ponderous left hand jab. But Primo still becomes completely fussed the moment a sparring partner does something that isn't in the book.

Two years ago Primo was doing all right with Sharkey for five rounds until the champion switched to a weaving attack that nonplussed the Italian, left him open for one knockdown, and brought him a thumping through the last ten rounds.

Carnera stabbed Mays' nose through two rounds enough to make it bleed, outpointed Arsi through another pair in a mild display, and finished off pushing Kennedy around for two more. He worked four more rounds on the light and heavy bags.

rode home on a triple into right center by Dykes. The latter scored the fourth run of the inning on Berry's single to center. Then Durham tapped in front of the plate and a double play was consummated.

The actual removal of Gomez occurred with one out in the fifth, when he was deep in distress. Haas walked and Swanson lined a double against the left field wall, Haas stopping at third. MacFayden appeared in a relief rôle and was ordered to pass Simmons, filling the bases. It turned out to be a good idea. Appling bounced to Sewell and Haas was forced at the plate. Then MacFayden served a series of curve balls to Kress, who has no taste for such things. He fanned.

Here's Real Pitching.

The only hits off Durham between the first and eighth innings were coupled in the third and caused some uneasiness for a few minutes. Combs opened with a single to center and Sewell singled. Then Durham went to work on the best portion of the Yank batting order. He fanned Chapman, Gehrig was suppressed on a foul to Berry, and three strikes took care of Lazzeri.

Sewell was the first man up in the eighth and singled to right after running his count to 3 and 2. Chapman bounced to Kress and as Sewell was standing dead on his feet Kress could have perpetrated a double play by tagging him and then running to first to get the batter. But Red forgot his lessons and threw to Appling at second, forcing Sewell. Then Gehrig brought the Yanks up to within one of a tie by driving his homer into the right field seats.

In the ninth, with two out, Berry gave the crowd and his teammates heart failure by dropping Pinch Batter Byrd's popup in front of the plate. Faber bore down on Combs and he ended the game with a fly to Haas.

Illness Keeps Ruth at Hotel; May Play Today

The famous Babe Ruth was absent from the Yankee lineup yesterday because of illness which forced him from the second game of Sunday's double header. He suffered an attack of nausea, supposedly brought on by the presence of gas caused by a defective sewer beneath the Yankee dugout. Ruth remained at his hotel, but insisted that he felt pretty well and expected to be present for the final of the series today.

John Whitlow Wyatt, who since coming to the Sox from the Tigers, has figured in three successive victories, will start against the Yanks today. His last full game was the one hit affair he served to the St. Louis Browns. The Yank pitcher probably will be Johnny Allen.

Joe McCarthy, the Yankee manager, isn't doing much smiling these days. The answer is simple. Since leaving home the champions have lost nine out of thirteen games. They dropped three out of four at Philadelphia, four out of five at Boston and two out of four here.

TRAYNOR IS JUST AN INSTITUTION IN THIRD BASE JOB

[This is the seventh of a series of sketches of players who will take part in the game of the century between stars of the American and National leagues at Comiskey park July 6.]

If you happen to be compiling a list of real gentleman ball players you can include Harold Pie Traynor of the Pirates and you won't be wrong. And besides being rated high socially, Traynor is a standout among big league third basemen. He has been that for so long that he is almost a national institution. The fans must think he's that, judging by the way they've showered him with votes in the selection of the National league's team for the big fight at Comiskey park July 6.

Traynor tops all the hot corner occupants because he fields and hits. He's without a peer at reaching drives headed into the narrow space between himself and the bag. He'll grab, standing up, balls that many third basemen wouldn't even touch by diving. And he isn't in the clean-up batting position for nothing. He produces there; otherwise he wouldn't be able to keep Paul Waner from getting the honor post in the attack.

Gets His Nickname at a Picnic.

Traynor got him nickname, at least this is the story, because he went to a picnic and revealed a pie appetite that caused the other youthful attendants no end of disappointment. That "Pie" moniker was on his name when he first decided to snoop around the big league ball parks in Boston. He had tasted the game while at Somerville, Mass., High school.

Pie's first call was at Braves' field. His appearance there didn't arouse a burning interest in the late George Stallings, then manager. Traynor, when told to "Get the 'ell out of here," figured it was a gentle hint that he wasn't wanted.

The rebuff merely headed him to Fenway park, the home of the Red Sox. Ed Barrows took a fancy to the kid's actions on the field and decided to do him a favor by placing him in a minor league. Traynor went to Portsmouth, Va. But Barrows neglected to keep an eye on his find. He figured it would take a couple of seasons to develop the lad. It didn't take that long. That same fall, 1920, Barrows was surprised to hear that his prospect had been sold to the Pirates.

Bats .324 for 13 Years in Majors.

The following spring Traynor was turned over to Birmingham of the Southern association. He was such a headliner in that circuit that the Pirate bosses decided to recall him in August. Since then he hasn't been away. In his 13 years as a Pirate he has done his bit by compiling a grand average of .324 at bat.

bases. Then Babe Herman filed to O'Doul.

Stephenson led off the ninth with a single to right, but Hendrick filed to Moore. Campbell batted for Demaree and walked. The bases were full with one out when Vergez fumbled Hartnett's grounder. Douthit ran for Hartnett and Koenig batted for Jurges. Koenig tapped to Critz, who tagged Douthit on the line and then threw to Terry to double Koenig and end the ball game.

Now, If Hubbell Is Idle——

The Cubs rallied after the ball game and expressed determination to make at least one run tomorrow, provided Hubbell doesn't pitch. If the Giants send in Carl all bets are off, but there was some hope that Hubbell will be given another day of rest. It was said the Giant management, after studying the batting form of the Cubs these days, might take a chance with Bell, Luque or some other second stringer.

NORTH WESTERN PRESENTS PLAN TO MEET BONDS

Would Pay Half in Cash; Refund Balance.

A definite plan for meeting the $7,724,000 bond maturity of the Chicago and North Western railway on Oct. 1 by part cash payment and refunding of the balance was announced yesterday by the company.

Successful consummation of the plan is dependent upon authorization by the interstate commerce commission and sanction by the commission for the issuance of the necessary general mortgage bonds. In addition it will be necessary for the road to receive approval for a loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to provide the cash payments contemplated under the plan.

What Plan Provides.

The plan provides for a cash payment of 10 per cent of the face value of the bonds upon presentation of the bonds on or before Dec. 1.

In addition, a holder of bonds assenting to the plan will receive on Oct. 1, or earlier, at the option of the company upon the plan being declared operative and upon surrender of their bonds:

[1] Payment in cash on an additional 40 per cent of the face amount of bonds, or 55 per cent of face amount of bonds on which such advance payment of 10 per cent shall not have been made, with six months interest on the bonds, without deduction on account of 15 per cent advance payment.

Will Receive Other Bonds.

[2] Delivery in respect of the remaining 50 per cent of the bonds of a like face amount of general mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds due Nov. 1, 1987.

[3] Payment in advance of interest from Oct. 1 to Nov. 1 at the rate of 5 per cent upon the general mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds exchanged for 50 per cent of the par value of the Fremont, Elkhorn and Missouri Valley railroad 6 per cent bonds.

STEAMER DOCKS HERE WITH CARGO FROM NEW YORK

Regular sailings on a 10 day schedule will be maintained until the close of the navigation season on the great lakes. The steamer Bolivar of the same line is leaving New York today. The Baracoa will take a cargo of general merchandise back to New York.

H. T. McNiece, traffic manager of the line, said that the company will provide a direct shipping service to Colombia, the West Indies, and intercoastal points.

oyal Union Life Insurance.

Investors' Guide: Please give me information on Royal Union Life Insurance company.—F. R. J.

Answer: Royal Union Life Insurance company, Des Moines, was established in 1886. It experienced a rapid growth as the result of a long series of reinsurance agreements.

In the early part of this month it was placed in temporary receivership. Among allegations made by the petitioner were these: That the company had no earnings on which to pay dividends in 1932, yet paid dividends of $70,000 in that year; that disbursements in 1932 exceeded income; that officers purchased bonds of $9,886,000, of which more than $4,000,000 are either in default of principal or interest, and that figures in the annual statement as to value of assets were placed too high.

Income in 1932 was reported at $8,411,000 and disbursements at $8,341,000.

Net reserve for outstanding policies at the close of the year amounted to $33,094,000. Other liabilities, including $725,000 borrowed money and $154,000 contingency reserve, amounted to $3,096,000.

Admitted assets were placed at $37,339,000. Real estate was $6,693,000 [8 per cent of admitted assets]; mortgage loans, $10,361,000 [27 per cent]; policy loans, $9,647,000 [26 per cent]; bonds at amortized values, $8,995,000 [24 per cent], and cash, $241,000 [1 per cent of total assets].

The company earned only seventenths of one per cent on its real estate in 1932. Mortgages produced a return of 2.9 per cent, policy loans 3 per cent and bonds 4.1 per cent.

Green and Lawrence Counties.

I am holding bonds of Green and Lawrence counties drainage district, Arkansas. When the bonds were forwarded for payment at the time of maturity they were returned marked "no funds."—R. A. J.

"There are about $17,000 of these bonds outstanding. The original issue was around $125,000. About one-fourth, in our opinion, will be taken care of some time between now and Oct. 1, as taxes are collected, and the remainder over a period of one to three years from about that date.

"In our opinion the bonds are well secured, but there are certain amounts of delinquencies and the bonds which will be retired will be retired from funds collected from taxpayers who paid the original assessment of betterments but against whom unassessed betterments still exist and which will be paid over a period of three years.

STOCKS RACE UP $1 TO $9 A SHARE AS DOLLAR SLIPS

Professionals and Public Rush to Buy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 19.—The rise in the stock market was resumed under forced draft today after last week's interruption. Once more under the influence of a falling dollar, prices were whirled upward under a deluge of buying orders for net gains of 1 to as much as 9 points.

Trading was again at a feverish pace, with the ticker falling minutes behing and throwing brokerage offices into confusion as buyers jammed board rooms for quotations. In early dealings buying orders tripped over the tape in blocks running to 10,000 shares. Turnover was 5,485,000 shares.

Professional traders and the public alike were quick to take advantage of the news that President Roosevelt has turned thumbs down on proposals to stabilize the dollar at the dictate of foreign interests.

Washington Helps Prices.

Furthermore Washington dispatches imply that the administration does not want anything to stand in the way of the controlled inflationary program, with its resultant rise in commodity prices and business improvement.

A drop in the dollar which boosted sterling about 7 cents and other currencies a little less furnished the signal for a rise in stock prices that in its scope duplicated some of the best days of the earlier boom. More reports of business betterment over a wide front added further fuel to the recovery.

The trend was upward from the outset, opening gains ranging from a point to 4 points. With hardly an interruption discernible the rise continued to the closing bell, pushing numerous leaders to new highs for the year.

One of the most significant factors in the advance was the drying up of volume when each successive wave of buying appeared to have spent its force. Such periods of dullness lasted but a few minutes when prices were again lifted to higher marks. This was in marked contrast with the recession of last week when each selling movement signaled further liquidation.

Rails Lead Advance.

An analysis of the highs for the day showed especial strength in the railroad group. Gains of 1 to 9 points were recorded in carriers, the extreme runup being recorded in the volatile Norfolk and Western. On an extremely heavy turnover New York Central was up 4 to a new year's top. Similar gains were shown in Santa Fé, Union Pacific, Delaware and Hudson, and others.

Utilities filled their customary rôle of sharing leadership, moving ahead from 1 to around 5 points. American Telephone closed up an even 6 points.

Chemical and alcohol shares were features of strength in the general industrial section. Of prominence were Du Pont, Allied Chemical, National Distillers and United States Industrial Alcohol. Gains here ran up to more than 7 points.

U. S. Steel Up Nearly $4.

Steels were in the thick of the upward push from the opening. United States Steel spurted for a net appreciation of almost 4 points, while Bethlehem claimed a new top.

Buying of shares of virtually all concerns engaged in the construction field reflected the start of the administration's recovery building program.

Industrial pickup calls for fuel and issues of coal companies were strong.

A spurt in wheat and other commodities brought out new demand for farm tool shares. Case high lighted the group with a net advance of 9 points. Harvester was strong. The rise here was taken up by Montgomery-Ward, Sears-Roebuck and other merchandising issues.

Shares of the rapidly improving automobile industry were at a premium, with Chrysler and General Motors furnishing leadership.

More Inflation Boosts Prices; More Urged

BY HOWARD WOOD.

If there were any doubts concerning the motive force behind the movement of prices in the stock market they disappeared yesterday.

Early last week—after a long advance—stock prices began slipping. The losses were general. They hit every part of the list. Declines of 10 per cent or more were common. Meanwhile, the American dollar was getting stronger in terms of pounds, francs, and other currencies.

The reason for all this was that spokesmen supposedly close to the administration were permitting reports to leak out in Washington and London that the United States was favorably considering entering into agreements to effect a temporary stabilization between the dollar and the pound and the franc.

Then late Saturday after the markets had all closed came the denials. The United States, it was made clear, would not become a party to any dollar pegging party that would interfere with the young bull market.

The markets gave their answer yesterday. It was emphatic. Stocks soared upward to regain most of their last week's losses.

Wheat gained around 2½ cents per bushel. Corn was up 2 to 3⅛ cents per bushel. Oats and rye made similar gains. Cotton and other commodities were strong. The dollar, however, sank toward the 80 cent level.

These events clearly demonstrated that inflation has been the prime mover behind the bull market. Last week when there were intimations that the inflation program might be halted temporarily by an international dollar stabilization arrangement the markets had nothing but the enactment of the new industrial control bill to push prices on up. The industrial control bill proved to be a dud as far as the bull market was concerned. The traders wanted raw meat, not a patented cereal.

The decision not to peg the dollar fits logically into the picture that has been painted by the New Dealers. A dollar definitely stabilized in relation to the franc or any other currency still on a gold basis means a dollar hitched to a definite value in gold. And if the dollar again becomes fixed in relation to gold it is a signal that inflation has stopped.

Under the promises made by the new administration at Washington it isn't logical to expect inflation to stop yet. It has only made a beginning. The public has been promised a return of commodity prices to something like the 1926 level. Prices are still a long way from the 1926 level.

Behavior of commodities, stocks and the dollar during the last week has emphasized the difficulty of maintaining a successful planned economy at home and at the same time trying to restore free movement of international trade and solve the world's troubles.

Many observers are convinced that the United States will emerge from the world economic parley at London committed more strongly than ever to a policy of economic isolation and self sufficiency. They point out that unless the economic walls around the nation are strengthened planned economy will find itself going in two directions at once.

The refusal to stabilize the dollar may be the first sign of the return to a policy of economic nationalism.

About the only way that the administration's inflation program could be continued simultaneously with a stabilization arrangement with Great Britain and France would be for France to go off the gold standard, too, and permit the pound, the dollar, and the franc to float together with the current of inflation.

Halting of the administration's inflation program also would mean halting of the 3 billion 300 million dollar public works reëmployment campaign, because 3 billions of the money to pay for this scheme is slated to be what practically amounts to printing press money. The treasury prints bonds, the federal reserve banks print money, and then the treasury swaps the bonds for the money. This kind of financing cannot be done with a dollar anchored to gold.

All things considered, it seems that the prospects for the continuation of the inflation program are good and that the prospects for stabilization of the dollar in relation to gold standard currencies are poor.

One thing has been clearly demonstrated. Tremendous forces are at work demanding a continuation of the inflation program. As prices go up new recruits are added to the ranks of the inflationists. Everybody with an equity in anything, having had a taste of rising prices, wants more. This public feeling naturally is quickly translated into political pressure in support of inflation. Early resolutions to use the stimulant moderately may give way to repeated decisions to take "just one more."

The falling prices and general dissatisfaction of last week afford an idea of the courage that will be required when the time comes to put the cork back in the bottle.

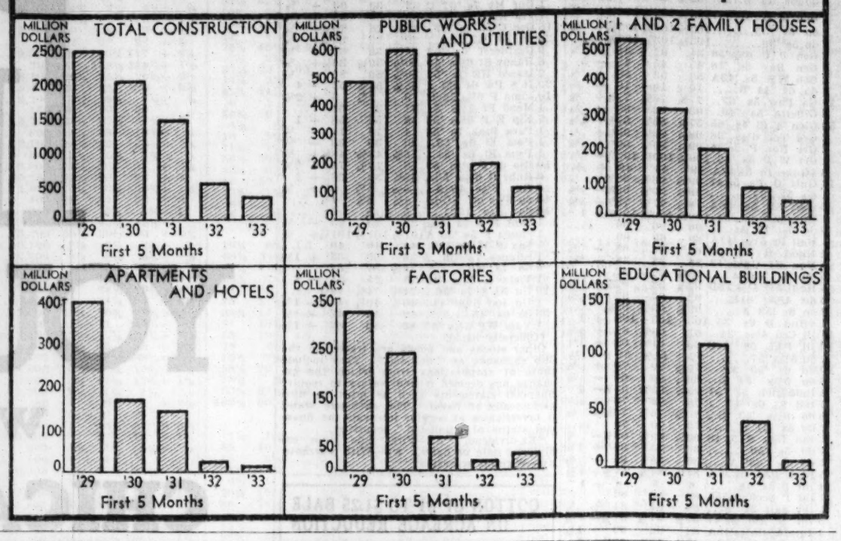
Value of Building Contracts in the First Five Months for Five Years Compared



Dollar Sags to 81.54 Cents in Gold Value

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 19.—The dollar depreciated rapidly in foreign exchange today, following the administration's disavowal of plans for temporary stabilization. Although the monetary unit stopped short of a record low, it retraced all the gain that had been scored last week when the reports of a stabilization agreement came out of London.

Most of the fall in the dollar was a complished in the European markets before the opening of business here. Sterling, the franc and other European exchanges "came in" at prices far above their closing levels of last week and throughout the remainder of the day held within a narrow range at these higher levels, showing no disposition to react.

Franc Near Record High.

Sterling closed at $4.14¾, which was 7 cents above Saturday's final quotation; the franc rose to 4.82½ cents, within 1 point of its record high, and closed at 4.80¾ cents, up 7½ points on the day. At the day's high for the franc the dollar had an indicated valuation of $1.4 cents, compared with 83.8 cents last Thursday. At the close its value was $1.54 cents against the gold standard franc.

Guilders rose 90 points to 49.15 cents; Belgas were up 29 points to 17.10 cents and Swiss francs were 36 points higher at 23.63 cents. The German mark gained 43 points to 29.05 cents and the Italian Lira 11½ points to 5.40½ cents.

Blame Part Rejection.

The renewed fall of the dollar was laid entirely to the action of the administration in rejection the proposal for temporary stabilization of the currency drawn up in London. Some bankers were of the opinion that the market had drawn undue inferences from the administration's action. They felt that some form of temporary stabilization might still be agreed upon that that the Washington announcements merely meant that the particular plan advanced had not been approved.

In other quarters the rejection of the stabilization plan caused gloomy forebodings. There was a disposition to link the administration's decision to the severe reaction in the stock and commodity markets which had resulted from the first intimations of stabilization. Some bankers said that the incident proved that, once the path of currency depreciation had been taken, any attempt to halt or turn back would be frustrated by a fall in prices which would bring pressure to bear upon the political authorities to continue the course of devaluation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 19.—To the cotton farmers of the south, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace today proferred two alternative plans of relief, designed by his staff of professorial assistants to restore the price of cotton to its pre-war level.

To the cotton processors of the nation, he served notice that, despite their bitter protest, they are to foot the bill by paying a four-cent federal tax on every pound of cotton they handle.

Ten million acres of cotton land now in cultivation are to be leased by the government, under the program submitted by the secretary today. The cotton now growing on these rented lands would be destroyed and the fields permitted to lie fallow in order to cut down the annual production of cotton and, according to the theory, raise the price of the commodity.

Will Rent Fields.

Cotton fields of low productivity would be rented by the government at a price of $6 an acre, under the program as announced today, while $12 an acre would be paid for the most productive lands. These prices are based on the assumption that the farmer will accept the government's offer of an option on federally owned cotton in the amount by which his production is reduced through the government lease. If he prefers instead not to take the option and to receive only the government rent money for his land, he will be paid prices ranging from $7 to $20 an acre.

But the entire cotton plan, it was pointed out by the department, is predicated on acceptance by the farmers themselves. Today's announcement, it was explained, represented merely a proposal of the program for consideration of the southern cotton producers. The plan will not become operative until a sufficient number of farmers have signed agreements to lease a portion of their land to the government. Little difficulty in securing this required coöperation is expected by the department.

The processing tax, over which Secretary Wallace and his aids were at loggerheads with the cotton processing industry, is to be levied, beginning Aug. 1 when the marketing year opens, it was said. Based on the difference between the present and the prewar price of cotton, the tax is expected to approximate 4 cents a pound.

In accordance with the plan to give farmers an option on government owned cotton, as compensation for their agreement to cut production through the government lease of their land, the department has begun negotiations for the purchase of about 2,375,000 bales of stabilization cotton now held by the farm credit administration. Part of the 100 million dollars direct appropriation provided in the public works-industry control bill for cotton relief, is to be used for this purchase, the department said.

Big Loss in Sight.

An immediate loss of approximately $50,000,000 is in prospect as the result of this transaction, to be borne by the department and therefore, by the federal treasury. In purchasing the stabilization cotton from the farm credit administration, the agricultural adjustment administration, under the department, will pay 9½ cents a pound. This same cotton is to be optioned to the farmers for 6 cents a pound, and the net price is not expected to exceed five cents a pound in view of the fact that the department will pay carrying and storage charges on the stocks.

Meanwhile, Secretary Wallace announced today that only $60,000,000 of the department's $75,000,000 appropriation for the fiscal year beginning July 1, is to be expended. Budget bureau instructions to slash the cost of the agriculture department by $15,000,000, was reported responsible for the announcement. The economies, according to present plans, are to be realized by complete elimination of the market news service operated by the department, by 25 per cent reductions in expenditures for extension work and experiment stations, and by personal dismissals and furloughs.

Two Roads Place Orders for Rails and Plates

New York, June 19.—(AP)—Award of several contracts for rail and track materials was announced today. The Seaboard Air Line has placed an order for 8,170 tons of rails and 480,000 tie plates with the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company, a subsidiary of United States Steel, and is also buying 3,300 tons of rails and 120,000 plates from Bethlehem Steel corporation. Norfolk and Western railway has distributed orders for 10,000 tons of rails

Coast Brewery Gets Order for $23,000,000 of Beer

Oakland, Cal., June 19.—A contract for sale of $23,000,000 worth of beer was consummated today by the Western States Grocery company of Oakland and the Humboldt Malt and Brewing company of Eureka, Cal. The contract covers delivery of 75,000 barrels of bottled beer annually for three years, with options running as long as 10 years. Should the options for 10 years be exercised, the total purchase will amount to $23,025,000, brewery officials said.

INFLATION TALK RETURNS IN PIT; WHEAT SOARS

Reports of Damage to Crops Aid Prices.

Inflation talk, which has not been in evidence for a number of days, suddenly returned as the major market influence in speculative commodities yesterday. Reports that efforts to stabilize the American dollar at the London conference did not meet with the approval of President Roosevelt started a buying movement in commodities that carried wheat and corn up over 3 cents from Saturday's finish, with stocks up 5 points or more and cotton around $1.50 per bale.

Traders who recently sold out their holdings of various commodities rushed to reinstate their lines and found offerings generally light. Shorts were stampeded into covering, and talk of the dollar depreciating until its purchasing power was equal to 50 cents was heard in La Salle street.

Crops Badly Damaged.

Sensational reports of crop damage to wheat, oats, rye, and barley helped along the upturn in the grain markets. Nat C. Murray, in what he characterized as a guess, suggested that the three leading crops, with the exception of corn, had deteriorated equal to 240 million bushels since June 1, the principal loss being in oats.

Based on past experience, Mr. Murray estimates that the crops are being reduced at the rate of 1 per cent per day, and that this rate will increase if the severe June drought is continued several days longer.

A loss of 842 million bushels, as compared with the harvest of 1932, was suggested by Mr. Murray's guess.

Wheat Rises from Start.

At no time yesterday were wheat prices as low as Saturday's finish. General buying swept the market, with sellers of offers forced to protect themselves on the way up. At the top prices were up 2⅝ to 3⅛ cents above the previous close, with final trades showing net gains of 2½ to 2¾ cents in the local market. July was 76⅝ to 76¾ cents; September, 78⅜ to 78½ cents, and December, 80⅞ to 81 cents. Winnipeg gained 1¼ to 1⅝ cents in Canadian funds, while Liverpool was 1⅞ to 2 cents higher.

The processing tax, which was regarded as a depressing influence on the market last week, was not mentioned in the trade gossip yesterday, being entirely lost sight of in the inflation and crop damage talk.

Corn Advances Rapidly.

While there was comparatively little talk of damage to the corn crop from the intense heat, the crop has made an unfavorable start and visions of a small yield brought in a rush of buying which swept the December up as much as 3⅛ cents. The close was about the top, with net gains of 2 to 3⅛ cents.

The oats crop, caught at the critical period of growth by hot and dry weather, promises to be the smallest in 25 years, with the exception of the 922 million bushels harvested in 1911. All deliveries sold at a new high for the season and the close was 2¼ to 2½ cents higher.

The intense heat of the last few days has played havoc with the commercial rye and barley crops in the northwestern states and both grains responded quickly to heavier speculative buying. September and December rye sold at a new high for the season. Net gains were 2⅜ to 2⅝ cents. Barley gained 2¾ to 3⅞ cents.

Process Tax Pays Farmers for Idle Land

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A processing tax of from 29 to 30 cents per bushel will be levied in the immediate future on wheat consumed domestically. That, it appears, will be the cost of the administration's farm relief bill now under way.

The proposed tax, the like of which has never been used in the United States, was provided for in the recently enacted farm relief measure by congress and is destined to advance artificially the price of wheat by restricting the area under cultivation.

Goes to Cut Acreage.

Under the provisions of the recent announcement by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, the tax of 29 or 30 cents per bushel will be levied on all wheat that is made into flour or otherwise processed. This tax, which is expected to raise a total of around $150,000,000, will not go to the farmer who raises wheat. It will be used to reimburse farmers who agree to curtail their acreage, in the aggregate, as much as 20 per cent as compared with the average amount they seeded in the three previous years.

Official announcement as to details of the plan in the case of wheat has not been made as yet, but the farm relief bill gives the secretary of agriculture permission to enter into negotiations with farmers whereby the government "rents" the land from them at a certain price per acre, and the land so rented or leased cannot be used for the cultivation of wheat.

Artificially Restrict Output.

Under the plan sufficient wheat land is expected to be withdrawn from cultivation to result in artificially restricting production with the idea that the decreased crops would result in an automatic advance in prices in accordance with the laws of supply and demand. A price equal to about 88 cents for wheat, or the average of 1910-'14, to the producer is contemplated.

At present there is a big surplus of wheat in the United States carried over from previous crops, so that regardless of how much the yield is curtailed there will be no shortage. It is estimated provisionally that as much as 12 million acres of wheat may be leased by the government.

Reduces "Marginal" Lands.

The proposed program promises to withdraw much so-called marginal wheat land from cultivation, representing areas where there is normally a relatively light rainfall.

The processing tax has nothing to do with the price of wheat, cotton, or any other commodity to which it may be applied. The grain or other commodity is free to change hands as many times as necessary in either domestic or international trade without the tax being imposed. Once the American miller starts to convert the commodity into an article for use in the domestic trade, however, he is immediately forced to pay the processing tax. The latter is expected to be partially passd along to the American consumer.

Corn Program Different.

A somewhat different plan is being worked out to bring about an advance in corn and hogs to the 1910-'14 average price. Corn and hogs are so closely related in price that the processing tax may not be imposed as such. It has been proposed that packers pay a premium for medium weight hogs, so as to discourage the feeding of corn excessively.

In substance the plan contemplates reducing production to a point where the supply is much closer to the demand.

Farmers would be protected by the heavy import duties now in effect, but if the price advanced to an excessive point the product would start to come in over the tariff wall and limit the advance in order to prevent the domestic consumer from suffering.

COTTON MILLS FIRST TO ACCEPT FEDERAL RULE

Johnson Appoints His Advisers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 19.—The first move toward placing a large American industry under governmental control was taken today when leaders of the cotton textile industry submitted a "code of fair competition" to Hugh S. Johnson, administrator for the national recovery administration.

The proposed code calls for a maximum work week of 40 hours, and for minimum wage scales of $10 weekly in the south and $11 weekly in the north.

This scale represents a 30 per cent increase in wages over a large portion of the industry in the south, and reduces the working hours 20 per cent.

The code, submitted by a committee claiming to represent two-thirds of all cotton spindles and looms in operation in the country, is obviously aimed at a large group of cotton mills in the south which for years has operated at low wages and long hours.

Sets June 27 for Hearing.

Mr. Johnson, acting speedily in his first business day in office, having been appointed only last Friday, issued a formal notice that a public hearing would be held on the morning of June 27, in the auditorium of the new Commerce building.

The administrator also appointed today a group of assistants to aid him in conducting the various hearings to be held, on other industries as well as the cotton textile group and he announced the appointment of a labor advisory board of outstanding labor leaders and an industrial advisory board of industrial leaders.

A "consumers' advisory board" is to be named later.

In selecting the cotton textile industry for first action, Mr. Johnson chose a group which President Roosevelt, on several occasions has singled out as "a horrible example" showing the need for federal supervision of industry. The President has declared that while a great majority of the textile industry is sincerely anxious to cooperate in establishing fair treatment of its workers, a minority "cut throat" group operating in southern states, has prevented this object being carried out. The fair element of the industry has been forced to lower its standards of working conditions to those of the minority in order to meet its competition.

Code Effective July 17.

Under the code as submitted, the "new deal" for cotton spinners will be effective on July 17. The minimum wage is fixed for all unskilled employés except apprentices, cleaners and outside employés.

The reaction of the labor advisory group to a minimum wage of $10 or $11, which is far below any wage heretofore considered acceptable by organized labor, has not been manifest, but it is reported the American Federation of Labor will offer protest in the hope of avoiding a precedent at the outset which fixes a low wage.

The agreement does not provide for the licensing of all textile factories, but it is proposed that upon approval of the code, Mr. Johnson will then issue an order requiring all factories in this industry to obtain licenses to

Plans for coöperating in the regulation of their industries under the provisions of the national industrial recovery act were under discussion here yesterday by six trade association groups.

Committees were appointed by several of the associations to formulate codes of trade practices for submission to the conventions. The groups which met yesterday are: Associated Retail Confectioners; American Foundrymen's association; National Macaroni Manufacturers association; American Fruit and Vegetable Shippers association; Motor Equipment Wholesalers association, and the National Electrical Contractors association.

Meetings will be held again today by all the groups. Definite agreements for coöperative regulation under the government's system of planned economy are expected to be reached either today or tomorrow by the associations.

Candy Group Meets Today.

The convention of the National Confectioners' association will open this morning at the Sherman hotel. The confectioners, representing the manufacturing end of the industry, will take up question of regulation Friday when Attorney Arthur Fisher will discuss the recovery act. About 400 members are expected to attend the meeting.

Edward S. Briggs, manager of the American Fruit and Vegetable Shippers' association, said last night his association hopes to agree on a code which will reduce price cutting on the shipment of fruit and vegetables. The association is meeting at the Stevens hotel.

The Motor Equipment Wholesalers' association named a committee headed by S. B. Dean of Minneapolis to draw up a code for the industry. The committee will report back to the delegates today or tomorrow.

Macaroni Group Session.

Preliminary discussions were held by the National Macaroni Manufacturers' association at the Edgewater Beach hotel. The question will be taken up again today.

A subcommittee for drafting a trade practice code was also named by the National Electrical Contractors association, which met in the offices of the Electrical association, 20 Wacker drive. L. E. Mayer, president of the association, said last night that the committee will draw up tentative regulations today. The meeting was called specially to study the recovery act.

RESERVE BANKS' GROSS DEPOSITS UP 200 MILLION

An indicated rise of nearly 200 million dollars in gross deposits of federal reserve member banks in 90 principal cities for the week ended Wednesday, June 14, is shown in the weekly figures on member bank position in the United States released yesterday by the federal reserve board.

Despite this growth in deposits, commercial loans failed to expand. The banks were carrying the additional money either as increased reserves with the 12 reserve banks or were depositing it in other banks.

Commercial loans of these reporting member banks are now about a billion dollars less than a year ago and the investments of these same banks in United States government bonds are about a billion dollars greater than a year ago.

COTTON INDUSTRY FIRST TO ACCEPT FEDERAL RULE

The code provides that where costs of production are increased by adherence to the agreement, contracts now in existence for deliveries at prices which would result in losses, should be adjusted. It was provided that the committee presenting the agreement would attempt such adjustments.

Employes May Unionize.

The clause giving employes in the industry the right to organize and to choose their own leaders—a clause inserted in the bill by labor leaders in congress—was included in the pact.

The appointments announced by Mr. Johnson included those of Dudley Cates of Chicago, vice president of Marsh & McLennan, insurance, as assistant administrator for industry, and Edward F. McGrady of Washington, legislative representative of the American Federation of Labor, as assistant administrator for labor. Donald R. Richberg, Chicago railway labor attorney, was named chief of the legal division. Dr. Leo Wolman of Columbia university was designated chairman of the labor advisory board, and Dr. Alexander Sachs of New York as chief of the research and planning division.

Six deputy administrators were appointed to conduct hearings and make investigations. They are W. L. Allen of New York, consulting metallurgist and former chairman of the Sheffield Steel company; Prof. Earl D. Howard of Northwestern university, formerly vice president of Hart, Shaffner & Marx; Arthur Whiteside, president of Dun and Bradstreet, New York; C. C. Williams, retired, major general, former chief of ordnance during the world war; K. M. Simpson, consulting engineer and metallurgist, and Nelson Slater, textiles manufacturer.

Name Advisory Boards.

Austin Finch, North Carolina manufacturer; Edward N. Hurley of Chicago, chairman of the Hurley Machine company; Alfred P. Sloan Jr. of New York, president of General Motors; Walter C. Teagle of New York, chairman of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey; Gerard Swope of New York, president of General Electric company; Louis Kirstein of Boston, vice president of William Filene's Son company, and William J. Vereen of Moultrie, Ga., cotton manufacturer.

The labor advisory board, appointed by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, consists of William Green, president American Federation of Labor; John E. Frey of the metal trades department, A. F. of L.; Joseph Franklin, president International Boilermakers' union; Sidney Hillman, president Amalgamated Clothing Workers; Rev. Francis Haas, National Catholic Welfare council, and Rose Schneiderman, secretary Woman's Trade Union league.

INVESTORS BUY LARD; PRICES RALLY SHARPLY

Provision traders were said to be working in cooperation with the government's department of agriculture to advance hog prices. This was said to have a strengthening influence by inducing a fair amount of buying in a market in which the selling pressure was comparatively light. A break of 5 to 10 cents in hogs appeared to have no effect on the marketable product, and lard closed with net gains of 20 to 27½ cents.

Cash lard was 27½ cents higher for regular at $6.22, with loose up 27½ cents to $5.57½, and leaf was up 25 cents to $5.50. Liverpool lard was unchanged to 6d lower. Export clearances of lard was 535,368 pounds on Saturday.

Bellies were 7½ cents higher on December, and cash bellies unchanged at $7. Pork loins were 6½ to 8½ cents and cash trade of meats in general was fair. Prices follow:

DRY GOODS.

New York, June 19.—(AP)—Buyers of textile goods found spot merchandise scarce today. Those who had goods on order were trying to hasten deliveries. The market opened quiet and strong. Cotton goods manufacturers are unsettled by the imposition of a processor tax under the agricultural act. Mills are closely sold ahead to Aug. 1, by which time the tax goes into effect. Rayon prices are very firm. Burlaps hold steady and quiet. Linen suits and dress linens are scarce for immediate use. Heavy silks for fall are in increasing demand.
